Mighty Saturn 5 Launches Apollo

Unmanned Moonship In Orbit

Recovery Set After Re-entry This Afternoon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Saturn 5 superrocket scored a resounding success on its maiden test flight today, orbiting a record 140-ton space vehicle and shooting the unmaned Apollo 4 moonship deep into space.

The historic flight gave this nation's man-in-space program a much needed shot in the arm and revived hopes that U.S. astronauts can still land on the moon in this decade.

With a thundering burst of power, the most powerful rocket ever assembled blasted away from its launch pad at 7 a.m., EST, today after a perfect countdown—something that few people believed possible for such a complex machine.

Drill-Like Precision

The three stages of the monster Saturn 5 ignited with drill-like precision during an 11-minute boost phase and shoved the massive payload, including the still-attached third stage, into orbit 115 miles high.

Three hours later, after two orbits of the globe, the hydrogen - powered third stage restarted its engine on ground command and propelled the 64,000-pound Apollo 4 vehicle outward toward a high point of 11,400 miles.

The re-ignition of the third stage gave flight controllers their first anxious moments of the mission. A vent valve refused to respond to commands to close, until the last moment when it finally closed.

The spacecraft separated from the stage and a motor on board fired for 15 seconds to provide final power to reach the planned altitude. Had it burned a few seconds longer, Apollo 4 could have gone to the moon.

Miami City Slickers

Buzzards Bug Building

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's 20th century vultures—something like the swallows of Capistrano but more like the messy starlings of northern city halls—are back in town, once more forsaking the wilderness of the Everglades for gracious urban living.

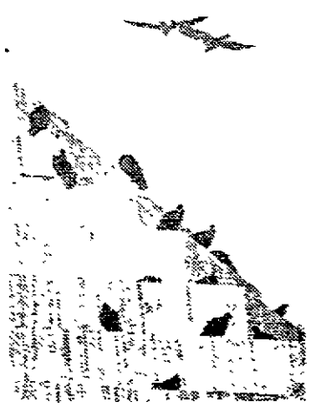
Again they're soaring over bustling, neon-lit downtown Miami as though it were a game preserve.

Good Homestead

The city-slicker vultures—with wing spreads up to six feet—decided 10 or 12 years ago that the Dade County courthouse, despite crowded conditions and the noise that goes with urban apartments, would make a good homestead.

Their less enlightened country cousins continued the tired, old migration to the Everglades.

"It's unique. I don't know of any other city where vultures roost on a building," said Dr. Oscar Owre, ornithologist at the University of Miami. "They usually don't favor civilization."



And the courthouse, one of the tallest buildings in downtown Miami, is the only building favored by the vultures, kin to the soaring condors of Peru and California.

Some are year-round tenants on top of the 28-story building, but conditions aren't really crowded until the snow flies in the north. Sometimes more than 50 are visible on top of the building.

Corny Jokes

"They're like the tourists," said J. Norman Peters, building superintendent, "some are here all year but the big flock comes to Florida in the winter."

Politicians have corny jokes to explain why the vultures chose the courthouse and the biologists have theories.

But nobody knows for sure.

Blacklash, Vietnam Evident in Voting

Both Parties Think They Won

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans both claim comfort in the outcome of Tuesday's off-year elections—balloting which provided answers but also posed new questions about the mood of the electorate one year before the contest for the White House.

Chief among the questions was the 1968 potency of the so-called white backlash vote, defeated—but by tiny margins—with the election of Negro mayors in Cleveland and in Gary, Ind.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said those victories for Negro Democrats, coupled with Boston's rejection of the controversial Louise Day Hicks, "put the so-called white backlash in its place."

That place did not appear an insignificant one—particularly with the approach of statewide elections in which big-city pluralities often are the decisive factor.

Impact of Vietnam

Another item for the political strategists: The potential impact next year of the war in Vietnam. San Francisco voters rejected a proposal urging a cease fire and U.S. withdrawal and President Johnson's Democratic supporters called it evidence of growing support for his policy.

Republicans, on the other hand, raised the war issue in Kentucky and New Jersey and scored big victories.

Republican Sens. Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper said opposition to Johnson's stand contributed to the election of Louie B. Nunn as Kentucky's first GOP governor in two decades. New Jersey Republicans, who won control of the state legislature, said the same thing.

Negro Democrat Carl B. Stokes was elected mayor of Cleveland with 129,829 votes to 127,328 for his white, Republican opponent, Seth C. Taft.

Cleveland's voter registration is Democratic by a 10 to 1 margin. Stokes got virtually all the Cleveland Negro vote and about 20 per cent of the white ballots.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican national chairman, boasted of sharp reductions in Democratic majorities in some big cities, noting that the last GOP nominee in Cleveland got only 17 per cent of the vote. But that party-line analysis ignored the racial factor.

Stokes could become a featured Democratic performer, particularly in Negro areas, during the 1968 election campaign. And Cleveland could be crucial in determining which party wins Ohio's electoral votes.

In Gary, Negro Richard G. Hatcher won by 1,389 votes, but his Republican rival, Joseph Radigan, challenged the victory with charges of voting irregularities.

Kevin H. White, Massachusetts Secretary of State, was elected mayor of Boston by 102,551 votes to 90,122 for Mrs. Hicks in another close contest marked by racial dispute.

Disputes Backlash

Mrs. Hicks stirred controversy with her total opposition to the transportation of Negro children to white neighborhood schools for the sake of racial balance. White carried predominantly Negro neighborhoods by a margin of about 3 to 1.

Scanning the outcome, in which a Negro was elected to the Virginia Legislature and another won in Mississippi, Whitney M. Young Jr., director of the National Urban League, said: "While the backlash is there, it is not as powerful as the demagogues would have us believe."

FBI Agents in Gary to Open Voting Irregularities Probe

The Justice Department confirmed that federal agents were probing reports of fraudulent voting in Tuesday's election which gave the Negro Democrat a 1,389-vote victory over white Republican Joseph B. Radigan.

James F. Turner of the department's civil rights division said no court action was planned, pending outcome of the investigation.

Hasn't Conceded

Radigan said irregularities were reported and he would ask attorneys "to assist me in reporting these irregularities to federal and state court." He did not say whether he would seek a recount, and he still has not conceded defeat.

Hatcher, 34, a bachelor lawyer and city councilman, told a news conference Wednesday, "Ours was a multiracial campaign as well as a multiracial victory. Let us once and for all put all doubts to rest. We shall have a multiracial government."

Hatcher termed his election proof "if any was needed that Negroes know how to make full use of the ballot box to make their wishes known." He said the election emphasized that "Negroes across the country can obtain redress through the electoral process."

Charges Violations

Lake County Democratic chairman John G. Krupa, who refused to support the Democratic candidate, charged there were violations of election laws in at least three precincts.

In one, he said, the board refused to seat Republicans. Another board refused to honor challenges of illegal voters and a third ignored the requirement that voters sign the pollbooks for identification, Krupa said.

He also charged there is evidence of voting by "people we know do not exist."

Krupa, also a member of the county election board, signed the certification of Hatcher's election showing 39,330 votes for Hatcher and 37,941 for Radigan. The turnout was a record for this steel center whose 180,000 population is about 55 per cent Negro.

Confers With Judge

Krupa agreed to certification of Hatcher as the winner after conferring with Judge George N. Beamer of the U.S. District Court in Hammond. Beamer was on a three-judge federal panel which issued an order Monday directing the county election board to take steps to insure a fair election.

Beamer said he advised Krupa to declare Hatcher the winner because "no one has come up with direct evidence of a violation of this court's order that a fair and orderly election be held."

The Gary office of the FBI announced it had checked the polling books for two precincts where Krupa alleged that fraud occurred and said in effect that it found no fraud, but is continuing the investigation in other precincts.

Walkouts Idle Production

Pact With Chrysler Ends Strike Threat

DETROIT (AP) — Much of Chrysler Corp.'s car and truck building operations remained idle today despite a new, three-year contract worked out Wednesday night in a final 34 hour bargaining session.

The United Auto Workers union and Chrysler reached tentative agreement on the new pact which will cover some 95,000 of Chrysler's 103,000 UAW members.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther predicted it would take a couple of days to get Chrysler back to near normal production.

Local Walkouts

Some Chrysler-UAW units jumped the gun Wednesday and staged local walkouts in advance of the UAW designated strike deadline of midnight.

When the contract agreement was reached about four hours before the strike hour, UAW leaders sent word to their members to stay on the job.

A check by Chrysler early today showed a number of its plants closed, either because of worker absenteeism, parts shortages or picket lines.

"We have no idea how many men are out or just how many plants are involved for the situation changes every hour," a Chrysler spokesman said.

As an example of the involved production picture, he cited the Hamtramck, Mich. assembly plant where Dodge Valiants rolled off one line today while alongside them those building the Barracuda and Dodge Charger were idle.

Negotiators were too weary Wednesday night to continue bargaining on contract provisions covering 8,000 salaried workers the UAW represents at Chrysler, but spokesman said they hoped to have these problems solved by the weekend.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther called it "the best agreement we've ever had"—even bigger than the estimated 6 per cent gains the union got at Ford two weeks ago to end a 46-day strike.

Almost identical to the Ford pact, the Chrysler contract provides wage and fringe benefit gains of more than $1 an hour, with some wage gains alone amounting to 93 cents an hour over the three-year life of the pact.

The union also achieved at Chrysler the only major demand it failed to win at Ford—pay parity for Canadians, who, by mid-1970, will be paid the same amount per job as their American counterparts.

Social Security Hike Gets Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved today, by a straight party-line vote of 11 to 6, a bill to increase Social Security benefits by 15 per cent.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the chairman, said it would increase cash benefits paid out under the Social Security program by $3.6 billion next year.

The higher benefit payments would be effective next March and would be reflected in checks sent out April 1.

$2.67 Billion Aid Bill OK'd By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has received from Congress a foreign aid authorization bill $730 million less than the amount he sought.

The Senate and House gave final approval to the $2.67 billion aid bill Wednesday, one of the smallest foreign aid authorizations since the program was begun. President Johnson had sought an authorization of $3.2 billion.

The Senate sent a compromise version to the White House by voice vote Wednesday. The House barely rejected a proposal that the measure be returned to a conference to include a provision banning aid to nations trading with North Vietnam.

Welcome Fit for Queen Given to Mrs. Kennedy

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, though slightly indisposed, lunched today with a princess and dined with a king in splendor normally reserved for a visiting queen or a head of state.

Although she cancelled a scheduled visit to Thailand's historic National Museum, Mrs. Kennedy attended a luncheon at the house of Princess Chumbhot of Nagor Svarga, where she was waited upon by Thai servants who could have come from a scene in "The King and I." The house, built on stilts, is a museum piece in itself.

Inside the ancient teak, high-roofed building, Princess Chumbhot showed Mrs. Kennedy her famous collection of Thai art, reputed to be the best private collection in the world.

After an afternoon resting at the Thai government guest house, she drove with police escort to the palace of King Bhumibol Adulayadej and his wife, Queen Srikit, for dinner.

Floating Market

Friday Mrs. Kennedy and her party are scheduled to tour Bangkok's famous floating market and visit the Temple of the Emerald Buddha. In the evening she will dine with Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman before boarding a flight to Rome half an hour after midnight.

Mrs. Kennedy's host Wednesday night, Thai Premier Thanom Kittikachorn, was told she had an upset stomach and hastily added American-style food as an alternative to the spicy Thai curries.

But Charles Bartlett, the Washington newsman who is a member of Mrs. Kennedy's party, said today she is not ill.

"She's just tired from all the travel. We really worked touring those temples at Angkor," he said.

Best Chance to Beat Johnson

Last Convention's Delegates Favor Nixon

By HARRY CHANDLER

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Richard M. Nixon currently is favored for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination by a majority of the Wisconsin delegates for Barry Goldwater at the 1964 GOP National Convention.

An Associated Press poll of the delegates resulted as follows:

Richard M. Nixon 12
Nelson Rockefeller 4
Ronald Reagan 3
George Romney 1

Almost without exception, those who favor Nixon at this time give him the best chance of beating President Lyndon B. Johnson.

But others thought either Rockefeller or Reagan were more likely to get the job done. The vote on the candidate most likely to beat the President was:

Nixon 10
Rockefeller 4
Reagan 3
Romney 1

Asked to select the strongest 1968 ticket, the delegates participating split fairly even between a Nixon-Reagan combination (8 votes) and a Rockefeller-Reagan combination (6 votes).

There were other suggestions. Two delegates favored pairing Nixon with either Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois or Gov. Rockefeller of New York. Other choices, each receiving one vote, were: Reagan and Percy or Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., or Mayor John Lindsay of New York; Reagan and Romney, Reagan and Nixon, and Romney and Reagan.

There was surprising lack of support for Michigan's Gov. Romney among those who responded to the poll. In fact, one of them, Morris J. Vollmer of Delafield went so far as to say, "Romney's goose is cooked, isn't it?"

Some of the 30 members of the 1964 Wisconsin delegation who were asked to give their present assessment of the situation abstained from participating.

Among those who declined was Gov. Warren P. Knowles. The two-term Republican governor said it was too early to pick favorites and that issues, not the candidates' personalities, would determine the convention's selections. And he added that the issues have not yet been delineated.

The support for Nixon among the 1964 delegates, most of them party regulars, was not surprising but quite a number of them qualified their opinion by pointing out that things could change drastically between now and convention time.

Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the House Republican Conference and chairman of the platform committee at the 1964 convention, declined to pick a favorite for the nomination at this time.

The Marshfield congressman had this reply when he was asked to name the strongest candidate: "Two months ago I'd would have said George Romney. Today I'd would say Dick Nixon, but four months from now I may say Nelson Rockefeller."

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson said he couldn't make a choice until the candidates have announced. The next two months "will firm this up," Olson said, adding, "I believe any Republican candidate is capable of winning."

There were commendatory comments about California's Gov. Reagan from a number of poll participants.

Mrs. T. W. Norris, Republican vice chairman in the 5th Congressional district, Milwaukee, listed Reagan as the strongest candidate because of his "great voter appeal." But she listed Nixon as "best qualified" with the best chance of defeating President Johnson "if he (Nixon) wins big in the primaries."

Don L. Taylor of Waukesha said Reagan had "the best grasp of issues, comes across very, very well in his public appearances, has the citizen's viewpoint, not the politicians and brings fresh new ideas to old troublesome problems."

Just how many of those who served as convention delegates in 1964 will go to the 1968 nominating session in a similar capacity is uncertain. Under the state's new primary law, the winner can name his own convention delegates.

Many of those polled said frankly they'd sure like to go again.

Hard to Make Predictions

Political Mood Always Seems to be Changing

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winter is the American monsoon In Vietnam the rainy monsoon season slows the fighting In America winter keeps politicians indoors and demonstrators off the streets.

The 1968 candidates and the issues themselves won't start to heat up until the warm weather is back. Even that may not be late enough for the issues They may not become clearly fixed until late summer or the November elections

This is why the uncertainties about what lies ahead make next year's campaigns and elections unusually fascinating because, if there is anything which now can be called the American mood, it can undergo startling changes

Little Sense

Thus it makes little sense to begin predictions now—based on last Tuesday's elections—about the issues, the candidates, and their chances in the 1968 presidential and congressional elections.

On Tuesday, Negroes were elected mayors of Cleveland and Gary, Ind., and the Republicans made some scattered gains That's hardly enough for prophecies about next year.

This country has had a long history of prejudices—against the Irish, Catholics, Jews and Negroes—most of which have greatly diminished or disappeared except for anti-Negro feelings.

There, as the elections in Cleveland and Gary showed, the prejudice is only beginning to diminish But it hasn't diminished so much it can't surge back in full force if racial troubles, particularly violence against whites, get under way on a large scale.

More Riots Due

For example The big Negro riots of the past few years have occurred in warm weather. Almost certainly there will be more next year. They still have not been analyzed enough to understand them or remedied enough to prevent them.

So far they have not been aimed directly at whites. Negroes have concentrated their riots against conditions and property in their own areas. If next year they turn against whites, the elections will be affected.

Politically important in 1968, if the riots occur again, will be what President Johnson and the Democrats and Republicans in Congress have done in the meantime to prevent them or control them.

Equally important, perhaps far more so, will be the condition of the Vietnam war before the elections. The present heavy decline in Johnson's popularity, as the polls show, can be linked to the war's stalemated condition.

GOP Ammunition

If by electioneering time next fall there is still no progress in Vietnam, which will mean more thousands of Americans killed there by then Republicans will use it as ammunition against Johnson, with increased public support for them. There is the opposite possibility Master politician Johnson has certainly thought of all the angles.

An American victory in the war by balloting time, or even a halt to the fighting, would be the best thing that could happen to Johnson who then will get much of the thanks as now he gets much of the blame

Another factor to consider before election time is the state of the economy. For instance: Unemployment went up in September and October, reaching its highest point in two years last month

If that continues next year it will be a minor or major disaster for Johnson and his Democrats, depending on the size of the rise in unemployment. And bad inflation, if it comes, will be an election factor, too

Yet, the answers to none of these problems, which may be the deciding points in the 1968 elections, are visible now.

Assembly Adopts Land Purchase Moratorium

Little Chute Will Purchase New Loader

$8,500 Will be Offered for Wyngaard Property

LITTLE CHUTE — Village board members Tuesday night voted to purchase a frontend loader for mounting on a village truck from the Lo-dal Co., Kingsford, Mich., at a cost of $4,200.

The street committee was authorized to handle the purchase with the stipulation that payment will not be made until 1968.

In other business, Edward Spierings, president, and Gerald Locy, clerk, were instructed to make an offer to purchase the Henry Wyngaard property at McKinley and Madison Streets.

Straighten Street

The village is interested in acquiring the property to permit straightening of McKinley Street which has a sharp jog at the intersection Officials were authorized to offer $8500 for the property.

Spierings was instructed to write a congratulatory letter to both high schools in the village as a result of the St. John High School football team winning the Fox Valley Catholic Conference title.

A request from Paul Vanden Heuvel, 1009 N. Wilson St., to build a garage to house a truck was referred to the legislative committee The truck, used to sell merchandise to various food outlets in the valley, is larger than trucks normally kept in a residential area.

Fair Housing

A letter was received from Sister Mary Karen, urging village officials to adopt a fair housing ordinance and to do whatever possible to have a fair housing law enacted for the entire state.

The chief of police, sergeant and municipal justice were authorized to attend a 2-day meeting to be called in December by the Attorney General

A budget meeting was called for 8 p m Thursday, but no action will be taken on a tentative budget until state and county tax figures for the village are known

Happiness Is Fat Girl Mastering Hula Hoop

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the nice things about having a teen-ager in the home is that you never have to bother about wiping cobwebs or dust off the telephone.

Nothing looks happier than a small fat girl who has finally mastered the difficult art of keeping a hula hoop in motion around her chubby body.

It is time to leave a cocktail party when the guests begin to cluster and talk in authoritative tones about what should be done in Vietnam and which Republican should be nominated for president in 1968.

Bluebirds have become so scarce lately that they should put a few in zoo aviaries so children won't grow up without ever having seen one of the loveliest of nature's feathered creatures.

After 60, a fellow always feels like crying inside when someone sends him one of those "funny" birthday cards. He regards himself as a living landmark and expects respect from others, not cleverness, on his aniversaries.

It makes me sad to see a man who not only wears a toupee but also has an artificial flower pinned in his lapel. You have to give him credit for hope, but you can't escape the conviction he's a bit out of touch with reality.

On the other hand, whenever you see a man walking majestically in front of his wife as she pushes a shopping cart through the supermarket, you get a conviction that the American male still has a future.

People who habitually watch television more than three hours every day eventually get the same fixed expression on their faces as those riding to or from work on the subway.

There is no point in the wife of a professional football fan getting a divorce between now and the middle of next January as her husband wouldn't even notice it had happened.

A woman's sense of financial security depends on the number of expensive hats she can't afford to buy but does: a man's depends on how many pairs of shoes he has in his closet.

Many millionaires have one thing in common besides their money—they like to brag about how little they pay for their neckties.

There is great worry today about the manner in which man is poisoning the very atmosphere he breathes. Between bad air and hot air we're all in peril.

It would be a real irony of time if future archeologists should judge the art level reached by our civilization by the beauty of Christmas liquor bottles they dig up from the debris we leave in passing.

You are probably a success in the business world if you spend more time dictating memos than in answering them.

Remember the guy in your crowd who 25 years ago was strong enough to tear a telephone directory in half? He now has a son who has to make two trips in order to bring in the Sunday newspaper from the front porch.

If a neighbor tells you he just noticed your wife has one blue eye and one brown eye, it's time to build a fence or move to a new neighborhood.

You never really understand people until you realize that, no matter how much they may like or admire each other, each must feel superior to the other in some way. Those who admired the wisdom of Socrates in ancient Athens were consoled by the knowledge they weren't as homely as he was. Had Socrates been as handsome as he was wise, he'd have been handed his cup of hemlock sooner.

White House Using Polls as Propaganda

Distributes Survey Results Showing LBJ Strong Contrary to Reputable Findings

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Democratic politicians visiting W. Marvin Watson, Jr., presidential aide in charge of politics, can't get out the door without Watson stuffing their pockets with political polls showing President Johnson running for re-election stronger than anybody dreamed.

Watson makes it perfectly clear to the visiting politicians that he wouldn't mind one little bit if these polls found their way into the newspapers. Accordingly, both by this route and direct leaks to the press, there has been a succession of newspaper stories revealing that the President defeats all Republican comers in several states — directly contradicting the national polls

This exercise betrays a political weakness in the LBJ White House it still regards polls as instruments of propaganda rather than political analysis. It also carries more foreboding implications

Pitchman's Flavor

There is a disturbing similarity to the strategy of Watson's Texas Democratic comrades, who in 1966 leaked preposterous polls showing Democrat Waggoner Carr well ahead of Republican Senator John Tower.

The White House leaks have the same carnival pitchman's flavor. For instance, a poll giving Mr. Johnson the lead in Strafford County, N. H., indicated that this was a barometer county, giving the poll statewide significance. In fact, it is no such thing.

Moreover, several politicians who visited Watson got the impression that the polls were conducted by Dr George Gallup of Princeton, N. J., whose national polls syndicated in newspapers show the President in desperate straits In truth, Gallup scrupulously refuses to poll privately for any politicians.

Rather, these polls were the responsibility of another Princeton pollster, Archibald Crossley, a septuagenarian founding father of the polling business hired to poll several states by certain New York LBJ supporters including national Democratic financial adviser Arthur Krim and national committeeman Edwin Weisl. So far, statewide Crossley polls in New York, Pennsylvania, and California as well as New Hampshire's Strafford County have been leaked.

Disturbed by Leaks

Nobody challenges Crossley's integrity. Indeed, he has been deeply disturbed by White House leaking of the polls, particularly the New Hampshire distortion. Nevertheless, Crossley's younger colleagues in the public opinion business consider his weakness in political analysis may have led him into grave errors.

His findings putting Mr. Johnson ahead of all Republicans in Pennsylvania are substantiated by the private survey of one highly respected pollster. But that is the exception. All other information puts Crossley out alone on a limb.

For example, pollster John Bucci of Philadelphia shows both Richard M. Nixon and Governor George Romney of Michigan, both of whom trail the President badly in Pennsylvania according to Crossley, defeating him there. The reliable Muchmore and Field polls in California show Mr. Johnson running far behind his Crossley rating.

Although there is no comparable New York statewide poll, a private survey in neighboring New Jersey by pollster Oliver Quayle (who handled LBJ polling in 1964) bears no comparison to Crossley's rosy outlook. Quayle shows Mr. Johnson trailing Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York by 14 percentage points and leading Nixon by 2 points (while leading Romney by 14 points and Governor Ronald Reagan of California by 16 points).

Actually, Crossley's remarkable New York survey showing Mr. Johnson trouncing all Republicans contains an astounding omission Crossley informed us that the poll's sponsors did not request a Johnson - Rockefeller trial heat in New York (though it was requested elsewhere).

There is another significant omission Crossley was not asked to poll for "internals" — what people like and dislike about the candidate. More important than the trial heats in the opinion of professional pollsters, "internals" can be invaluable to a campaign manager. To conduct a poll with trial heats and no "internals" is like making a frosting without the cake.

The results of all this were embarrassingly evident at a closed-door Washington seminar for labor leaders recently, featuring pollster John Kraft. When Kraft mentioned Mr. Johnson's difficulties, a Pennsylvania labor leader angrily protested that he had seen a poll ("a Gallup poll," he called it) showing Mr. Johnson in simply wonderful shape.

Such is the peace of mind produced by propaganda polls, Texas-style — a poor substitute for the hard work of Democratic voter registration and precinct organization that is left undone today.

Your Money's Worth

Bank 'Ready Credit' Programs Explained

BY SYLVIA PORTER

You've seen it advertised — "tap credit," "ready credit," "ready reserve," "checking-plus," "the overdraft plan."

Porter

You are probably among the millions who have been invited by your bank to "write a check larger than your balance" or indulge in overdrafts without the usual penalties.

How does this new form of credit work? Who qualifies for it? When is it economical to use it, and when not?

The new service, under whatever advertised name, is an automatic line of credit offered by your bank. In some cases the ready credit reserve is an extension of your checking account; in others the reserve may be kept in a separate account involving special checks. Usually the amount of a ready credit reserve is between $500 and $1,000, but it may run up to $5,000.

Becomes a Loan

In either case, the overdraft check or special check you may write becomes a loan as soon as it reaches your bank. In either case also, the typical interest rate, including credit life insurance, is 1 per cent a month on the basis of the daily outstanding balance, which works out to a yearly true interest rate of 12 per cent.

Typically, no interest charge is made unless and until you actually use your special line of credit, and the interest charge stops when you repay the amount you have withdrawn from your reserve.

"Ready credit" is granted only to "qualified" customers and the requirements for eligibility are generally more strict than those for ordinary bank loans because the credit reserve, once granted, is available year after year.

As an illustration of the costs involved at 1 per cent a month interest, let's say you overdrew your checking account by $100. If you repaid the amount one month later, the cost to you would be $1. If you repaid the total after one week, the cost would be 23 cents. If you repaid it in one day, the cost would be 3 cents.

Program Growing

Today, says the American Bankers Association about one in 10 of the nation's banks offer "some form of revolving credit," and the proportion is growing by the month.

Under what circumstances is it to your advantage to use this type of credit and when is it a disadvantage? Here are some revealing answers from top experts at the First National City Bank of New York:

—If you spot a major bargain, an appliance selling at a big discount, for example, you probably would save by using the overdraft plan. Here, the amount of interest you would pay would be dwarfed by your savings on the appliance, assuming you repaid the special loan within a few weeks or months.

—If an emergency arises on a weekend, or when you are far from home, a reserve credit line may be the easiest and surest way to raise emergency funds.

—If you are a chronically bad bookkeeper, the interest on a reserve credit line might be less costly to you than a pile of service charges for overdraft checks, and it might save you the tremendous embarrassment of bouncing checks.

—If you are self-employed and your income goes into sharp but temporary dips, the credit may provide you with enough peace of mind to make it worth the interest you pay.

A fundamental guide is that your line of ready credit should be strictly for short-term purposes, and your overdrafts should be repaid as quickly as possible.

Thus, this credit is not the right type for you when you're paying longer-term debts — financing a car, a planned home improvement, your child's college education. Banks throughout the nation offer other types of loans for these purposes at significantly lower interest rates.

LBJ's Slide in Popularity Ends, Gallup Claims

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The downward trend in President Johnson's popularity has halted since late August, according to the Gallup Poll.

Gallup's organization, the American Institute of Public Opinion, said for a period of more than two months, the President's popularity rating has remained virtually unchanged.

As of now, 38 per cent of those questioned say they approve of the way the President is handling his job, with 50 per cent of those questioned expressing disapproval and 12 per cent with no opinion.

The institute said in late August that 40 per cent of those questioned expressed approval of the President's actions and in September 38 per cent.

According to George Gallup, President Johnson's rating is highest in the East, where more persons approve of his job performance than disapprove. However, in the Far West, Midwest and South, majorities disapprove of the President's actions.

'Barton Only' Button Misleads

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Mayor John J. Barton's supporters were without those traditional campaign buttons in Tuesday's election.

The campaign aide ordering the buttons told the manufacturer that they should read Barton only.

The maker followed the directions to the letter.

The buttons say "Barton Only."

They won't be used for fear that voters might get the idea that the mayor didn't want to be associated with the remainder of the Democratic slate.

Trend Toward Elegance For Special Occasions

TORONTO (AP) — A Toronto designer who specializes in little girls' fashions says long gowns for flower girls are suddenly in demand for weddings.

"It's a trend toward more elegance in dressing up for special occasions this Centennial Year," said Ellen Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson exports her high-style children's wear to New York, Philadelphia, Boston and London.

Graham Protests Packers' Signing of Chuck Mercein

Says Vince Didn't Keep His Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins' Coach Otto Graham said Wednesday he has filed a formal protest over the signing of taxi squad fullback Chuck Mercein by the Green Bay Packers.

Graham accused Packers' Coach Vince Lombardi of breaking his word not to sign Mercein if the Redskins had plans to use him. The Washington coach said Mercein might have been activated this week.

"Lombardi did not wait to see about our plans for Mercein. He went ahead and did it. He did not keep his word," Graham charged Wednesday.

The backfields of both National Football League teams have been crippled by injuries this season. The defending champion Packers lost both their starters at running back, Jim Grabowski and Elijah Pitts, last Sunday against Baltimore.

Graham said he filed a protest with the NFL office, but added, "Legally, I guess there's nothing we can do about it. To my knowledge, this is the first time that anything like this has happened."

Mercein was the leading ground gainer for the New York Giants last season, but was placed on waivers this fall. When no team claimed him he became a free agent.

Washington placed him on the taxi squad, the nickname for players paid salaries and kept in reserve beyond the 40-man limit for each team.

Graham said Lombardi had inquired about the fullback in a telephone call Monday to Red-

Champion Little Chute St. John dominated the Fox Valley Catholic All-Conference selections made by the Fox Valley Sports Writers Association.

The Chuters, who swept to the title with seven straight victories, had two unanimous selections on the first offensive team and grabbed five spots on the first defensive unit.

Menasha St. Mary dominated the first offensive unit with four players on the squad while there were three from Premontre and one each from Appleton Xavier and Oshkosh Lourdes.

Unanimous Picks

There were five unanimous picks on offense and four on the first defensive squad. Ed "Oscar" Schuler and Leon Biesterveld, both of St. John, were the only gridders to be unanimous choices on both teams. Biesterveld, a sophomore, was picked at offensive and defensive tackle while Schuler, a bruising fullback, was also named at a linebacking post on defense.

Other unanimous picks on offense were Mark Pozolinski, St. Mary end; Ted Fritsch Jr., Premontre center; and Tony Canadeo, Jr., Premontre back. The unanimous defensive picks in addition to Biesterveld and Schuler were Steve Hietpas, St. John end and Dan Kennedy, Xavier guard.

Schuler and Biesterveld also were accorded additional laurels as Schuler was named conference "Back of the Year" and Biesterveld was named "Lineman of the Year."

Schuler gained 765 yards rushing to lead the conference and scored 84 points to lead in that division also. Biesterveld, a solid 5-10 and 190 pounds, was outstanding in both the blocking and tackling departments. He also scored a touchdown in the crucial game against Premontre by grabbing a fumble and running into the end zone.

Others Named

Others named on the first offensive team were Bruce Bishop, Premontre end; Ray Halbach, St. Mary tackle; Al Mader, St. Mary guard; Rick

Record Turnout Honors Chuters' Championship Team

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — Dedication, hard work and the desire to win are three of the elements that go into the makings of a true champion. Willie Davis, defensive end of the Green Bay Packers, told a huge crowd at the annual Little Chute St. John football banquet here Wednesday night.

The banquet, sponsored by the St. John Athletic Association, attracted a record turnout to pay tribute to the chapionship Chuter team.

Davis, who congratulated the team and coaching staff for the successful season, pointed out that "oneness of thought and purpose go into a true team effort.

"You also develop an ability to play under pressure and with a team effort you have a great pride in performance," the all-pro end said.

Role of Athletics

Davis emphasized the importance of the role that athletics plays in shaping the lives of young people. "It is unfortunate that everyone does not get a chance to be a part of the competition and reap the rewards of tradition, togetherness and satisfaction," he offered.

A letter of congratulations in the form of a resolution passed by the village board was read, and master of ceremonies Ted Fritsch, a former Packer fullback and coach at Green Bay Premontre, also praised the St. John team.

Coach Avitus Ripp of St. John, in his second season as head coach, labeled desire and dedication as the keys to success in 1967. "These boys wanted to improve and wanted to win," he pointed out "and this is just what they did. Each week they became stronger and stronger."

12 Senior Lettermen

Ripp awarded letters to 12 seniors, 13 juniors and two sophomores. In addition, special awards were presented including the Sportsmanship Award, sponsored by Jansen's Pure Oil Station, to lineman Jerry Van Handel.

The Little Chute Jaycee award for top lineman went to three players, Chuck Peeters, Vic DeBruin and Leon Biesterveld

Ghosts 'Cage Coach Stresses Need for Fast 1967-8 Start

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"The kids love to play. If we can win a few and get a winning attitude going, we'll be right up in there. It all depends on how we start out."

Those words of cautious optimism come from Kaukauna basketball coach Ken Vander Velden, as he and his Galloping Ghosts get ready to emoark upon the 1967-68 season. The Ghosts open at De Pere Abbott Pennings Friday, Nov. 17, and play their first home engagement against Fond du Lac Tuesday, Nov. 21.

If this year's edition of Ghosts can approach duplicating the record of last year's history-making squad, Vander Velden could be well satisfied by the end of his fifth year at the Kaukauna helm. The 1966-67 Ghosts racked up an impressive set of statistics — an 11-3 mark good for second place in the Mid-Eastern Conference and an 18-4 overall record — plus the school's first berth in the finals of the sectional tournament.

Two Regulars Back

Back from that team are three letter winners, but two of them were important front line regulars. They are Denny Spice and Dick Carstens. The third, Ron Vock, saw limited service at a guard spot. The three players have two things in common — all are seniors and all stand 6-2.

Spice, a jumping-jack forward who tossed in 315 points as a junior, is expected to be the club's top point-maker. Carstens accounted for 211 points at his center spot. The latter can be bull-strong under the boards, and he and Spice should make Kaukauna again one of the toughest rebounding teams in the Mid-Eastern Conference.

Says Vander Velden of his club's future, "We should have a good fast-breaking team because we have the size to get rebounds. The thing this team will need lots of work on is defense."

Spice's missed from last year's squad will be the trio who completed the Ghost starting lineup. Besides scoring a flock of points, all three graduates were fine defensive players.

Gone are leading-scorer Pat Kavanaugh, a mobile forward who threw in 372 points; runner-up point-producer Quinn Vanden Heuvel, who tallied 343 at a guard; and steady guard John Vande Hey, who accounted for 197 markers.

Top Candidates

That leaves one vacant forward spot and two in the backcourt. Mark Tatro, another 6-2 senior, appears to have a good shot at the front line job, along with senior Dave Egan (6-2). Tatro scored 15 points as a sub last season.

With Vock reasonably established at one guard, a 3-way battle shapes up for the running-mate position. All given an equal chance to make it are Dan Nettekoven (5-10) or Terry Kobin (5-10), both seniors, or Sean Rohan, a 6-0 junior.

Added depth will come from senior guard Tom Baumgartner

Super Bowl Tilt Could Gross $3 Million

55,000 Tickets to Be Available for Contest in Miami

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tickets went up for grabs today for pro football's Super Bowl game, with virtually certain prospects that it will be the first game in history to gross in excess of $3 million.

Inaugurated last January in the Los Angeles Coliseum, the playoff between National and American Football League champions was transferred to Miami's Orange Bowl and will be played Jan. 14.

The initial game was a disappointment, financially and artistically. Only 63,036 fans attended and the NFL's Green Bay Packers routed the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10.

An expected sellout of the 75,546-seat Orange Bowl would bring in $796,822. Television and radio revenue, up this year from $2 million to $2.5 million, would make the total gross $3,296,822.

This would top by more than one-half million the $2,768,260 grossed at Los Angeles.

List Priorities

In a release to a news conference here, football Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced that public ticket sales would be handled by the Orange Bowl committee and that the 13,000 holders of season tickets for the Miami Dolphin games would be given priorities in ticket purchases.

The 52,450 seats between the goal lines were priced at $12. Another 14,423 behind the goal lines will be $8 and end zone

FRVC Won't Have Divisional Playoff

GREEN BAY — A decision to hold an official conference indoor track meet at Manitowoc next spring and a system on how to handle tie games in major sports were among the major items dealt with at the Fox River Valley Conference meeting held at the Carlton Inn Wednesday.

In addition, the League officials took under advisement a plan to put spring sports: tennis, golf and track, and wrestling on the same system as football and basketball with the win-loss record determining a conference champion.

The indoor track meet was opposed by Sheboygan South and Green Bay West. South opposed the plan only because the track coach was not present to either approve or disapprove the measure, while West based its "no" vote on facilities. West's contention is that they and the other schools do not have facilities to prepare for the meet in order to compete on an equal basis with Manitowoc, according to Athletic Director Bob Kloss.

Manitowoc has held the meet on an invitational basis since the completion of its new field house but West has always declined to participate. Now that it is an official conference function all schools will have to participate.

The conference has never had an official policy to follow in the case of tie games.

Based on Points

The new procedure will be based on points, with a win gaining a team two points, a tie one point and a loss no points. This could especially be important next season when the conference splits into divisions for scheduling purposes but remains one in determining standings. Only one champion will be crowned, with no playoffs.

The conference will decide at its spring meeting, in Appleton March 20, whether to base spring sport championships on a won-loss basis.

If it is approved, conference meets in all the sports will still be held but the emphasis will be based on the individuals, with team totals having no meaning. The only obstacle is golf, where it is extremely hard to arrange for courses to play on.

The conference also gave its approval to a WIAA survey of conferences in the northeastern Wisconsin area. The survey was requested by the Mid-Eastern Conference. The survey is to study the equality of size of schools in the various conferences and make recommendations on possible realignment.

The league also set dates for conference meets with the outdoor track meet slated for East Stadium in Green Bay, May 10, and the replays set for Appleton East May 18.

The conference golf meet is set for May 17 with the tentative site being the Brown County Golf course. The site is subject to approval by the course. If approval cannot be gained, the meet will be held at Branch River Country Club, Manitowoc.

skins' President Edward Bennett Williams. He added, "Lombardi gave his word he would not do anything if we had plans for Mercein."

The Redskins coach said "there was a very strong possibility" that the back might have been promoted to the regular squad this week.

In Green Bay, a spokesman for the Packers said Mercein is in Green Bay but has not been signed by the world champions and the club has, at this time, taken no action.

Court Ruling Possibility In Mira Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Mira, an understudy quarterback who wants a chance to play, said Wednesday he likely will go into court to get it.

Mira told the San Francisco Chronicle he had been advised by Creighton Miller, National Football League Players Association attorney, that he would recommend taking the case to court if Mira is unable to deal with any club he wants after playing out his option with the San Francisco 49ers.

"All I want is a chance to go to a club where I might have an opportunity to be a starter," Mira said.

He has been an understudy to the '49ers' John Brodie for three years.

Mira, s star at Miami University, would like a chance to play with the American Football League's Miami Dolphins.

Name Garrett Top AFL Back

Kansas City Back Gained 192 Yards In Win Over Jets

Mike Garrett's spontaneous feet don't hurt much any more but now the New York Jets' defensive line isn't feeling very good.

Garrett shredded the Jets' front four for 192 yards in 23 carries last Sunday as Kansas City routed New York 42-18 The performance made Garrett The Associated Press' choice as American Football League Offensive Player of the Week.

"I felt better spiritually and physically than I have all year," said Garrett, after his slants had run the Jets ragged. The 1965 Heisman Trophy winner has been troubled by sore toes and banged up ankles this season.

Slices and Cuts

"They still hurt when I stub my toe," Garrett went on, "but I think my feet feel great again." They were great against the Jets with a variety of slices and cuts gaining yardage in huge chunks.

His baffling moves had the Jets lunging and grabbing but rarely stopping him "Some of it is artistic," said Garrett of his moves, "some of it is spontaneous."

Then he thought a moment "Most of it," he smiled, "is spontaneous."

Garrett's running moved into second place among AFL rushers behind Boston's Jim Nance, who had another big day in the Patriots' 18-7 victory over Houston.

Sam Mandell Dies at 63

Held Lightweight Boxing Title From 1926 Until 1930

OAK PARK, Ill (AP) — Sammy Mandell, 63, who held the world lightweight boxing title from 1926 until 1930, died Tuesday night in his home.

Mandell had suffered from hardening of the arteries and low blood pressure.

Mandell, once the pride of Rockford, Ill., won the world 135-pound crown from Rocky Kansas on a 10-round decision in Illinois' first legal bout, held at Comiskey Park in 1926.

He was dethroned four years later, when he was knocked out by Al Singer in New York.

Mandell, swift on his feet and game to the core, retired from the ring in 1934. He was noted for his great comeback ability and often rallied for victory after seemingly on the verge of being beaten badly.

Mandell had a career record of 82-17-8 and fought 61 fights in which no decision was made before Illinois licensed boxing.

The football championship of the Wisconsin State University Conference will be up for grabs Saturday when Oshkosh plays at Whitewater.

The two enter the final game of the season with slates of six victories and one loss.

Stevens Point, in third place with five triumphs, one loss and a tie, is at Platteville and still has a chance to wind up with a share of top honors.

A three-way tie would result if Oshkosh and Whitewater tie and Stevens Point defeats Platteville, 4-3.

Whitewater, the defending champion, downed La Crosse 6-0 last week while Oshkosh pummeled Superior 47-0. Stevens Point tripped River Falls 48-6.

Other games on the last day of the league campaign include La Cross, 3-2-1, at Eau Claire and Stout, 0-7 at River Falls, 2-5.

3 Northerns, 2 Bass Entered In P-C Master Angler Contest

Oshkosh Angler Tops Division With 16-Pound, 4-Ounce Lunker

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

Five more entries, three each of northern pike, a smallmouth bass, a largemouth bass and a largemouth bass have been entered in the annual Master Angler sponsored by The Post-Crescent.

Donald Berrens, route 1, Oshkosh, took over the lead in the northern division when he registered a 15-pound, 4-ounce fish.

Berrens caught the monster pike off the dock at his home on Lake Winnebago while fishing for yellow perch. When the pike struck it pulled the rod and reel off the dock and Berrens had to snag it. He battled the fish for 20 minutes and then paddled after it in a boat and finally succeeded in landing the fish.

Others Entered

Other northerns entered in the contest include a 12-pound, 3-ounce fish caught at Lake Winnebago by George Hurley, 925 E. Commercial Street, Appleton. Hurley's fish was 37 inches long.

Gordon Brockman, 708 Harrison Street, Neenah entered a 15-pound, 14-ounce northern which he caught on Lake Winnebago on a trotline. The fish was caught Wednesday.

Tom Schultz, 1717 N. Harriman Street, Appleton, entered the first smallmouth black bass of the season. Schultz took a 4-pound, 1-ounce smallmouth from the Embarrass River on a lazy Ike.

Won Third Place

Schultz also had a 4-pound, 4-ounce smallmouth in last year's contest and his wife won third place with a 4-pound, 6-ounce bass.

Entering a largemouth was Ernest Omernik, 155 Nassau Street, New London. Omernik caught a 5-pound, 15-ounce bass from North Lake, near Iola, on an artificial lure.

The Master Angler contest is open to anyone, except employes of The Post-Crescent and their immediate families. Fish must be caught in Wisconsin waters and must be whole and not frozen to be entered.

Minimum Weight

Minimum weights have been set in each division. Muskies must be at least 25 pounds to qualify, in northerns, 10 pounds; walleyed pike, 6 pounds; bass, 5 pounds; rainbow trout, 3 pounds and brook trout, 2 pounds.

Registration stations have been set up at The Post-Crescent offices in Appleton, Neenah, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, New London and Waupaca as well as at Sommut's Bar, Fremont.

Ignition Key, Propeller Among Necessary Items

Most people wouldn't think of taking an automobile trip without a spare tire in the trunk, yet the same people often prepare for a day's outing in the family boat without giving a thought to "spares."

Probably the most often needed spare in boating is the ignition key. Every year, thousands of boaters arrive at the launching ramp and discover the key was left laying on the table back home.

Many boat owners have extra keys made and tape one to the boat. In this way, a key laying on the table won't spoil a day's fun afloat.

Can Disappear

Another spare which can come in handy at times is a drain plug. It's amazing how these things disappear after you have had a boat for a while. Modern propellers, especially those on motors with safety hubs, seldom have shear pins. The Post-Clutches in their hubs, however, if you run long distances or in lonely areas, having a spare aboard is worthwhile. Many experienced boaters have two props, one for speed and the other for load carrying. Not only do they have the best one in use for any given kind of service, but the other one when carried serves as a spare.

It's also advisable to carry along such easily-lost and easily-broken things as anchor has ropes and navigation light bulbs.

Considerable quantities of blue-chip baseball talent will be on display here Monday when the Midwest League All-Stars face the first-round champion Fox Cities Foxes. Chances are it's the finest collection of players you'll see at Goodland Field unless—or until—the Chicago White Sox can be talked into playing an exhibition game here some time. As far as we can determine, this will be only the second pro baseball all-star game ever played at Goodland. A quarter-century ago, the Appleton Papermakers—featuring Pat Seerey—played host to the Wisconsin State League All Stars. After that, the Papermakers were never high enough in the standings to qualify for the host role. And, in the first eight years of the Foxes' existence, the league either didn't hold an all-star game or the Foxes didn't take first-round honors. So, this will be a rare opportunity to meet the game. So, this will be a rare opportunity to see a number of players who seem a cinch indeed, to make the major leagues in a few years. With the major leagues bringing a top drawer pitching staff—and the Allstars bringing in some dandies, such as Vern Geishert—the Foxes boasting a top drawer pitching staff—and the Allstars bringing in some dandies, such as Vern Geishert—the hitters Monday could have as rough a time as batters did in the recent 2-1 big-league 'Star Game. Huarte Placed On Taxi Squad By Philadelphia

Played Out Option In Hopes of More Chance for Action

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's been three years since John Huarte knew the glory of being a great quarterback at the mecca of college football, Notre Dame.

Huarte recalled it well Tuesday as he signed with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. He was assigned to the Eagles' taxi squad, a little group whose members are called upon in the event of injury to a regular.

Huarte was everybody's choice in 1964 as the Heisman Trophy winner, symbolic of college football's standout player. The Eagles drafted him sixth The New York Jets of the then struggling American Football League selected him second

On Taxi Squad

The Jets also picked a No. 1 that year by the name of Joe Namath. They reportedly gave Namath a $400,000 package, and Huarte a $200,000 deal. Huarte wound up on the Jets' taxi squad with Namath and Mike Taliafaro kept as quarterbacks.

After one season, the sidearm thrower from South Bend was traded to the Boston Patriots where he became a seldom used substitute. This year he decided to play out his option with Boston, so he could become a free agent in 1967.

Asked why he invoked the option clause, Huarte said, "I just wanted to play."

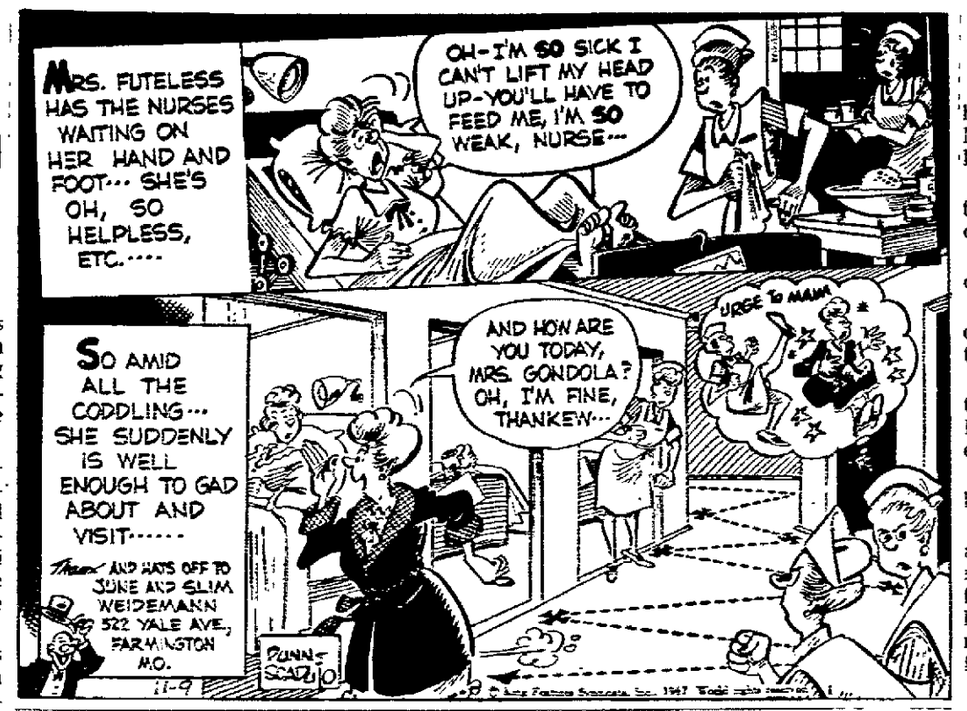
Boston didn't wait for the option to expire The Patriots let Huarte go last month. Now, the 23-year-old passer has rejoined the coach who first recruited him for Notre Dame, Joe Kuharich

Now general manager and coach of the Eagles, Kuharich told Huarte there was no guarantee he would play with the Eagles as long as Norm Snead and King Hill are healthy

"We'll take him to camp next year," Kuharich said. "We think this boy is as well qualified as any boy (quarterback) in college this year. But we have no plans of playing him now

"We just want him to work with the taxi squad and get a little acclimated to our style."

They'll Do It Every Time



Not Pessimistic

UW Has Improved, Says John Coatta

MADISON (AP)—The clock is rapidly running out on Wisconsin's frustrated Badgers.

Three more defeats and once-proud Wisconsin would be saddled with a 0-9-1 record, the worst in the school's 78-year football history.

Only the 1889 club, with a 0-2 slate, failed to win a single game.

But Coach John Coatta, hired at the end of the 1966 campaign to rebuild Wisconsin's football fortunes, isn't pessimistic in discussing the Badgers' upcoming opponents—Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota.

Coatta notes that Wisconsin was denied victory by a total of only 10 points in its last four games.

"We've been in a lot of hair-raisers," he said. "If this were a mental thing, we wouldn't be coming back and battling them the way we have."

After losing a 13-11 game to Pittsburgh, Wisconsin tied Iowa 21-21, then lost 17-13 to Northwestern and 14-9 to nationally ranked Indiana.

'No Doubt of it'

"I think we've improved," Coatta said. "In fact, there's no doubt of it."

The Badgers will not be in peak physical condition for their clash with Ohio State's Buckeyes in Columbus Saturday.

Junior fullback Wayne Todd, last year's leading rusher, suffered a broken hand in the Indiana game and may be out for the rest of the season.

Replacing Todd will be senior Gale Bucciarelli of Joliet, Ill., who filled in a fullback against Indiana.

Coatta said he had not decided whether to start his reguar quarterback, junior John Ryan, or reserve John Boyajian.

Ryan completed only three of nine pass attempts early in the Hoosier game and was replaced by Boyajian, who kept Wisconsin in the contest until the final play.

Coatta, 38, was a star quarterback for the Badgers in 1949-50-51. In his senior year, Wisconsin and Ohio State fought to a 6-6 standoff at Columbus.

"We passed pretty well on them," Coatta said of the 1951 Ohio State squad. Coach Woody Hayes' first Buckeye team. Wisconsin wound up with a 7-1-1 record that year and Ohio State finished 4-3-2.

In recent years, Ohio State has rolled up seven straight triumphs over Wisconsin. Over-all, the Buckeyes hold a lopsided 25-7 margin. Four games ended in ties.

Wisconsin's last victory was by a 12-3 margin in 1959.

Didn't Walk Until He Was Three

Gophers Wondering How to Handle Keyes

CHICAGO (AP) — Down in his home town of Newport News, Va., Leroy Keyes is known as "Nursey."

He's the kid who didn't learn to walk until he was three years old.

He's the kid who was an incubator baby.

He's the kid who was so spindly and needed so much attention he was called "Nursey."

Now he's the guy who is setting Big Ten football on its ear. He's known up here as "Golden" Keyes.

Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf just calls him Leroy.

The 6-foot-3, 200-pound Keyes, an ace defensive back as a sophomore last year, is an offensive demon this season as a halfback or flanker. And, if needed, he also will play defense.

Top Condition

Keyes is the No. 1 gold plated all-America candidate of the Big Ten and a top contender for the Heisman Trophy. He is the nation's leading major collegiate scorer with 15 touchdowns. He has rushed 589 yards in 84 carries and caught 34 passes for 603

"I was raised mainly by my grandmother," Keyes told the Chicago Football writers by phone Tuesday. "I was an incubator baby and I didn't learn to walk until I was three. I guess that's why they started calling me that."

"I grew up with all the kids and everbody else calling me that in my home town. When I visit back there, they still call me thatm'

Keyes, who is adept also in baseball, basketball and track, says most of his spare time is spent in playing billiards, dancing, swimming and participating in church activities when at home.

"I've been real pleased to play offense this season," he said. "But I learned a lot on defense last year. If I'm drafted by the pros, I hope it's as an offensive back. If I find out I can't make it there, then they could put me on defense."

Title Threats

Fifth-ranked Purdue's great offense will go against Minnesota smothering defense Saturday as the two Big Ten title threats try to expand on 4-0 conference records. Each is 6-1 over all, with Purdue averaging 30 7 points a game and Minnesota giving up a 6 3 average.

Gopher Coach Murray Warmath was asked how he plans to handle Keyes.

"A lot of people have been trying to find that out," he said. "We will try to keep him running between the ends instead of around them The best yet is to ask Mollenkopf not to play him But if I suggested this, it might strain our relationship a little

"I don't know if Keyes is more dangerous on defense or as a flanker or halfback on offense.

"It's like being in the Atlantic or Pacific oceans It's hard to swim ashore in either one."

Cards Place Pair On Injured List

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League announced Tuesday that Dave O'Brien has been placed on the injured reserve list and Roy Shivers has been put on injured waivers.

O'Brien, an offensive guard, will be out for the season with a broken right leg. Shivers, a running back who has a fractured left hand, will be out for at least four weeks.

Picks Purdue, Indiana to Stay Unbeaten; Bucks Over UW

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — This is the week they start cutting the deck to turn up No. 1 in the Big Ten title drive The Ol' Swami, 55-16 for 686 so far, hopes to avoid the joker.

Purdue 17, Minnesota 13—An explosive offense against an awesome defense should make this one a classic as each team strives to remain unbeaten in the conference. The Gopher defense, battened down by end Bob Stein, held Iowa to 41 yards rushing last week. Led by Leroy Keyes, who has scored 15 touchdowns, fifth-ranked Purdue amassed 401 yards on the ground against Illinois Minnesota will join the Keyes club.

Spartans Stinging

Indiana 20, Michigan State 18—After whistling through seven stations, the Hoosier Sophomore Express will be hard to wave down in this one. Overpowered 21-7 by Ohio State, the Spartans will be stinging But they more likely will get stung by the Gonso-Isenbarger-Butcher rookie ripsaw This marks the start of the toughest part of the sixth-ranked Hoosiers' schedule After MSU come Minnesota and Purdue

Michigan 20, Illinois 14—The Illini have made defensive changes after Keyes' kangaroo court. If they couldn't stop him, how can they stop Ron Johnson who has plowed 815 yards in seven games—only 69 short of Tom Harmon in 1939—and set a Big Ten record with 42 rushes against Northwestern?

Northwestern 20, Iowa 10—The Hawkeyes, without ace quarterback Ed Podolak, scared Minnesota before succumbing 10-0. He is expected back this week. The Wildcats know how to churn out yardage—that is, until they get in the shadow of the goal posts Something down there seems to get them

Ohio State 21, Wisconsin 12—Reverting to their traditional meat-grinder ground game, the Buckeyes tore up MSU as fullback Paul Huff ripped 117 yards and scored twice. Winless Wisconsin also will find Huff tuff.

Notre Dame 35, Pittsburgh 10—Pitt isn't the pushover it was earlier in the season. That is, for most any team but the ninth-ranked Irish.

Reds Severely Hurt in Dak To Fighting, Westmoreland Says

Propaganda Bid Suffers Deep Dent

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen battled back today against new attacks from tough North Vietnamese regulars entrenched in the central highlands near Dak To. Gen William C. Westmoreland said seven days of fighting in the area near Dak To has resulted in a "severe setback" for the Communists.

Initial field reports said American soldiers killed three more Communist troops in a two and a half hour skirmish today, while one more U.S. soldier was killed. This raised total casualties for the week in the area to 209 Communists and 45 Americans killed and 130 Americans wounded, the U.S. Command said.

Westmoreland flew to Dak To for a first-hand survey and on his return told newsmen in Saigon: "I believe the Communist forces have suffered a severe setback in their plans for operating in the Dak To area. The recent contact is a North Vietnamese attempt to recoup valuable propaganda lost during the recent Republic of Vietnam elections and National Day."

Other officers believed the upsurge of activity and the determined Communist resistance in the central highlands could be the prelude to a new Communist offensive there now that the monsoons have moved north.

The air war against North Vietnam cost the United States three Air Force planes and two fliers Wednesday, the U.S. Command announced, including an F4 Phantom downed by a Communist MIG 21's air-to-air missile in a dogfight west of Hanoi.

This brought total losses in the North Tuesday and Wednesday to five planes and five fliers and raised to 732 the total number of American combat planes officially reported lost in the northern aerial war.

The U.S. Command reported an increase in U.S. and enemy troops killed in Vietnam last week while South Vietnamese casualties were less than the week before. It said 178 Americans were killed and 793 wounded in the seven day period ending Saturday, while 1,894 enemy were killed.

The Communists opened up again with mortar and small arms fire on U.S. troops who pushed forward today from night defensive positions while the big B52s attacked to the west to block the enemy's escape routes.

Red Buildup

American intelligence reports indicate that as many as five or six North Vietnamese regiments are strung out in the region, possibly poised for a new attempt to drive across the center of South Vietnam. U.S. infantrymen have been sweeping the area to break up any developing offensive now that the monsoon rains have moved north.

Less than 100 miles south of Dak To, the North Vietnamese mortared an artillery support base and command post of another 4th Division unit, killing one American and wounding 11, 2 miles north of Ban Me Thuot. And 24 hours earlier Communist gunners mortared the Ban Me Thuot airfield, causing light damage to the aircraft on the field, the American command said.

Weather forecasters said Typhoon Freda, heading toward South Vietnam's midsection with winds of 75 miles an hour, would affect military operations over a wide part of the country. The typhoon was expected to hit early Friday about 180 miles north of Saigon at Nha Trang.

Electric Chair Electrocuted

GIBSONTON, Fla. (AP) — The hot seat that Samuel Luther Clont kept in his auto parts shop as a conversation piece has fried.

The real electric chair, functional when it sat in the Eddyville, Ky., state penitentiary many years ago, caught fire and all that is left are the buckles to the large leather straps.

The chair sat in the shop and customers liked to come in and try it out—sort of.

Nobody knows what fired the chair's own electrocution.

Lack of Poverty Funds Will Breed Disaster, House Told

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights leaders say Congress will be inviting a national disaster if it does not continue the antipoverty program with adequate funding.

The warning came as the House began consideration Wednesday of amendments to a bill that would authorize the Office of Economic opportunity to carry on the program for two more years.

A group of religious leaders also endorsed the bill, calling for its passage on moral grounds.

With many members planning an early departure from the Capitol to attend Veterans Day ceremonies, no key votes are expected before next week.

1964 Commitment

A joint statement by the civil rights leaders said Congress made a commitment to help the poor when it passed the Economic Opportunity Act in 1964.

"We give solemn warning now that to break the national promise of three years ago would be to invite national disaster," they said.

Among those signing the statement were A. Philip Randolph, Whitney Young Jr., Roy Wilkins and Clarence Mitchell, heads of individual organizations who have banded together in the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

The Interreligious Committee Against Poverty said in a statement that "strong, well-funded antipoverty legislation which assures maximum initiative of and self-determination by the poor, especially at the neighborhood level, will be the best insurance for the realization of justice for all persons in our society."

Church Leaders

Signers of this statement included the Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, Roman Catholic archbishop of San Antonio, Tex.; Louis Stern, president of the National Jewish Welfare Board; and Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the National Council of Churches.

As debate continued on the bill Wednesday it drew support from two members who have opposed antipoverty legislation in the past, Reps. Joe D. Waggonner, D-La., and Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio.

Waggonner pinned his support to approval by the House of an amendment adopted in the Education and Labor Committee that would put state or local government officials in charge of Community Action programs. He said under such an administrative set-up Community Action could become so uncontroversial that future antipoverty bills would pass almost unanimously.

Mrs. Bolton pleaded with the House to give the program a chance to succeed.

Bank Robbery Suspect Meek In Surrender

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An unemployed Chicago bellhop, who had surrendered meekly to a bank official, faced arraignment today on a charge of unarmed robbery.

Ward H. Baird, 47, was bound over to circuit court Wednesday only a few hours after walking out of the American City Bank and Trust Co., in the downtown area, with $758.

Baird had gone only a short distance when David Grein, a 31-year-old assistant auditor, took him by the arm and led him back to the bank without incident.

Lewis J. Prentice, a bank vice president, said some 45 employes and 15 customers were on hand when a man went to a teller's cage and gave Miss Gloria Ciszewski a note reading, "Don't make me shoot you. Give me the money."

She pushed some money forward and tripped a silent burglar alarm.

Grein, standing near some elevators, dashed outside after hearing another employe shout there had been a holdup. Grein ran up to Baird, took his arm and said, "Come with me."

Grein said Baird, once in the bank, pulled money from a pocket and threw it on the floor.

Baird waived preliminary hearing in county court and was bound over to circuit court under $5,000 bail. Judge Herbert Steffes then set the arraignment date.

Baird's court-appointed counsel said his client wanted a speedy disposition of the case.

Police said Baird related he arrived in Milwaukee around 10 a.m., went to an old bank building and found it occupied by another firm. He went to a new downtown bank, saw a policeman in the lobby and then entered the American.

Police said Baird was on parole from another robbery.

Humphrey, Fulbright Clash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reportedly clashed verbally over administration aims in Southeast Asia at a White House briefing on Vietnam.

Humphrey reported Wednesday to President Johnson, Cabinet, Security Council members and lawmakers of both parties on his Southeast Asia survey trip at a session in which attending Senate and House members were allowed one question each.

In the course of this roundrobin, Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is said to have contended the administration is taking conflicting positions on what it is trying to accomplish in Vietnam.

A persistent war policy critic, Fulbright reportedly cited the statements of U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg that the United States is fighting to insure the right of the South Vietnamese to political self determination.

On the other hand, Fulbright reportedly said, Humphrey's recent statements have supported a thesis Johnson has laid down in recent utterances — that the real enemy is aggressive Asian communism, headquartered in Red China.

Fulbright has said a policy of containing Chinese Communist expansion implies permanent U.S. occupation of parts of Southeast Asia instead of relatively early withdrawal of American military forces after a negotiated end to the war.

After reciting this premise, the Arkansas senator was said to have asked Humphrey: "Just who is our enemy there?"

"You don't have to ask the GI whose leg has been cut off who the enemy is," Humphrey was quoted as replying.

California Flags Wave Throughout Vietnam

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In Vietnam, there's a California state flag waving atop Hill 861—thanks to Elmer S. Jones.

An armored personnel carrier in the Vietnamese jungle carries another—thanks again to Jones. Still another is used as a wind sock on an operations shack deep in the Mekong Delta.

Jones, a flag maker, has sent nearly 350 such flags at the request of individual California soldiers in Vietnam.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Fifteen workmen were killed Tuesday by a gas explosion in a tunnel of a hydroelectric plant at Mantaro, about 200 miles east of Lima.

Ackley Sees Rough Time For Tax Bill

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Johnson's chief economic adviser says it would be difficult but not impossible to get the administration's proposed tax increase through Congress this year.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the president's Council of Economic advisers, told a news conference Wednesday that the tax hike was needed to avert "potentially serious trouble with respect to prices." "We certainly haven't given up on it," Ackley declared. "It's critical that it be passed this session."

The administration seeks a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate taxes, effective next Jan. 1. Several congressional leaders have described the bill as hopelessly stalled.

Ackley spoke to business leaders in a conference called by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

3 Robbers Get $35,000 at Bank

BYERS, Tex. (AP) — Three men described as "about average in height and looks, robbed the First National Bank of $35,557 Wednesday.

The bank's secretary, Mrs. Bonnie Ford, was in the bank with three women tellers and a customer.

"Where is the safe, ma'am," she quoted one robber as saying, remarking that he seemed very polite.

Nation's Traffic Deaths Decline in 6-Month Period

CHICAGO (AP) — Slight declines in traffic deaths and the traffic death rate were reported today by the National Safety Council.

The total for the first nine months of 1967 was placed at 36,130, a shade under the 38,310 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

Motor vehicle travel has gained about 4 per cent this year. As a result, the death rate per 100 million miles of motoring edged down from 5.5 to 5.2.

Traffic deaths in September numbered 4,790. The total was 4 per cent higher than the 4,610 toll for September 1966.

Senate to Reconsider Implied Consent Vote

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Senate decided Wednesday to reconsider the vote which gave preliminary approval Tuesday to implied consent tests for drunken driving suspects.

A motion by Sen. Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire, was approved on a voice vote and then laid aside for debate later.

Johnson requested the action in order to offer and amendment to the measure before final passage.

The proposal, one of four highway safety bills before the legislature, would force suspected tipsy drivers to take a chemical test for intoxication or face a 90-day suspension of driving privileges.

Camera Gear Stolen to Private Eyes' Chagrin

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Two cameras and photographic equipment valued at a total of $200 were stolen from an unnamed detective agency during office hours Wednesday.

"As a matter of professional courtesy," a police spokesman said, "the investigating agency's name is being withheld to protect the embarrassed."

Suspense, Drama, on Dragnet '68

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9 Channel 5 — Dragnet 1968 has a suspenseful episode in which Jack Webb has to pretend to be an ex-convict who has placed an ad in a paper saying he will do "anything" for $1000. This is because the real ex-con, who did place the ad, got a reply that seemed to indicate a man was soliciting to commit murder. Anthony Eisely plays this character, and indeed he does have a sinister plot in mind. (C)

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Once again, Daniel Boone tackles the wrongs of slavery in an episode that should absorb regular viewers. Fess Parker and Darby Hinton are captured by a group of escaping slaves, who see no reason why they should trust a white man. (C)

6:30-8 Channels 2-7 — Joseph Cotton turned down three other scripts on this series before he accepted tonight's Cimarron Strip, which casts him as an alcoholic fraud of a doctor who uses machines to "heal." He gives a fine performance. (C)

7-7:30 Channels 11-9 — This time complications come to The Flying Nun in the form of a pelican she names Irving. She finds him slightly wounded and tends him. He sees her flying and thinks what is only natural for a pelican whose I.Q. isn't too high! So he falls in love and brings her gifts like fish and beads. (C)

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — Bewitched has a funny idea which basically is insoluble, so it builds nicely then fizzles out. Seems Samantha and Darren have to spend a business weekend in Chicago with a pair of square clients. Aunt Clara (Marion Lorne) is baby sitter. (C)

7:30-8:30 Channel 5 — Ironside has its weakest script to date, saved by the good acting of Raymond Burr and guests Katherine Crawford and Robert Reed. Basically the plot is familiar stuff, dealing with a witness to a killing who turns out to be blind, but the killer doesn't know that. (C)

* * *

8-8:30 Channels 11-9 — The current vogue of actresses undressing in public is handled amusingly and with taste in That Girl. Marlo Thomas is funny and appealing being spotted by a famous Italian director, played by Francis Lederer, at an auto show and being offered the lead in his new movie. She's delirious with joy until she reads all the script, and finds a nude scene. Marlo gets a chance to display a wide range of emotions here, and she has the talent to carry out the assignment. (C)

Jingo Finds 'Resistance' Cute but Not Superb

Foreign Film at Appleton Theater Has Subtitles But Not Really 'Art' Movie

BY JINGO

"A Matter of Resistance" cannot be called an art film, even though it appears in the Lawrence University Art Film series. But it is a foreign film with subtitles, so the atmosphere of an art film is present.

"A Matter of Resistance" ends tonight at the Appleton Theater. Its inclusion as the final attraction in a series that included "Persona" and "Loves of a Blonde" can be questioned, but despite that it is a funny movie that features enough strong points to make it worth the time spent at it.

Catherine Deneuve as Marie is pretty enough to evoke cheers from a group of U. S. servicemen in the film, and her generally strong performance as an actress adds immensely to Jingo's enjoyment.

Just Before D-Day

Set in World War II France, just before D-Day, "Resistance" would compare with several thoughtfully-done American films on the same basic subject; cute but not superb.

The acting is competent on most counts, lending ammunition to Miss Deneuve's performance. Henry Garcin as Julien, a French resistance leader and Phillip Noiret as Marie's husband, the cowardly Jerome (cowards are often named Jerome), are especially effective.

Also prominent are Pierre Brasseur as the grizzly father of Marie and Mary Marquet as Jerome's energetic mother, whose main claim to exemption from German harassment was "I know General von Bush."

German Role Good

In many ways the sleeper of the movie is Carlos Thompson as Klopstock, a German officer whose affections for Marie match those of her husband and the French officer. He asks Julien to be intermediary with Marie, which is like Eddie Fisher asking Richard Burton to keep an eye on Liz.

Before D-Day arrives, Marie has upstaged the resistance movement and the German occupation in the area of her husband's chateau, and all reasonably young men are competing for her affection, even though the French officer has the inside track.

As in all good comedies, the husband wins the wife back and the army officers of both sides go on to other glories, mostly amorous we are to presume.

Director Jean-Paul Rappeneau, who also co-wrote the screenplay, has assembled a tight, well-knit package enhanced by Pierre L'Homme's skillful photography.

Although this is the last of the current Art Film series, it is expected that two more sets will commence before the end of the school year. Unofficially, the second series will include "Marat-Sade" and the third will have Ulysses."

Comedy at St. Norbert Fast, Funny

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

St. Norbert's fledgling drama department and its new director Kelly Collum were unveiled in the college's sparkling new Minahan Science Hall Wednesday night. If the initial effort — a macabre comedy acted with trip hammer pacing — is any indication, the campus is in for some interesting theatrical experiences.

There would be no point in trying to describe "Gallows Humor." A rundown of the plot wouldn't make much sense.

If theater fans want to try a hand at analyzing the situation, there will be plenty of opportunity. "Gallows Humor" runs through Sunday, with curtain time each evening at 8:15.

Whatever the point, "Gallows Humor" gets a lot of mileage out of two completely different and outwardly ridiculous situations, tied together by a hangman's knot. It is full of sharp, wickedly funny lines, and the cast, especially John Schneider and Michael Craite, made the most of them.

Leads Delightful

Schneider as the murderer only minutes from the scaffold and Craite as the official executioner were delightful. Both raced lines on occasion, but on the whole they pointed them crisply and hilariously.

Schneider was particularly good with his gestures and facial expressions while Craite achieved his effects with gentle hamming and double takes. Both were completely in character throughout.

Phil Baloun seemed ill at ease in the role of the prison warden, although he got off one long and pompous speech with much flair. Mary Kay Oswald, an official comforter of Schneider in his final hours, and Karen Kurz as the Hangman's wife fell into shrillness at times and were largely foils for their partners. Both played their roles consistently, however.

The play reflected the professional know-how of Collum in its consistency and detail of characterization, sharp pacing and shaping of lines, even when they were being taken too fast. The action moved smartly and there was no slipping in and out of character.

It will be interesting to see what Collum does with a full scale production on the big Pennings Hall stage.

Teacher Organization Sets Bargaining Points

Group Which Represents Portion of City's Instructors Wants $7,150 Base Salary

A base salary of $7,150 for teachers in the Appleton School system, along with more than 20 other benefits, have been proposed for negotiations with the school board by the Appleton Teachers Union (ATU).

The list was outlined in a newsletter sent to ATU members this week. ATU itself represents a small minority of the teachers and is not the bargaining agent.

The Appleton Education Association, which won the right to represent the teachers in an election about two years ago, is in the process of negotiations with the board.

Other points listed by the ATU include:

—The reduction of the top of the salary schedule to 14 years without the loss of the 4 per cent incentive raise.

—The board pay 2½ per cent of teachers' retirement.

—Sick leave be extended to 120 days.

—At the time of retirement, a teacher should be allowed severance pay. Proposed will be 75 per cent of the accumulated sick leave at the time of retirement.

—Reinstatement of the emergency leave. Previous to contract agreement, the teachers were allowed five days.

—Rewording of the class size clause to include definite maximum number of students on the elementary and secondary level.

—Teacher aides be employed under the federal aid program.

—Professional workshops during the school day.

—Teachers be allowed to elect their own department heads.

—Two days be allowed for the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (with which ATU is affiliated) convention.

The newsletter also said credits earned after receiving a degree deserves remuneration if they are useful in a teaching assignment.

Nitro-Glycerin Harmful To Heart Attack Patient

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I always carry nitro-glycerin pills If ever there were a person in my presence having a heart attack, could it do him any harm to give him a pill before a doctor arrived? — T. Y.

Don't do it

Nitro - glycerin or similar tablets, as obviously you know, are extremely helpful, as well as being safe, in halting the pain from attacks of angina pectoris.

There is a great deal of difference between angina and a heart attack Generally speaking, an angina attack is the result of a heart having demands made upon it which are greater than the heart — already weakened — is able to meet. The cramping pain is a warning The nitro-glycerin gives a mild, temporary lift which is enough to carry the heart past its period of cramping rebellion.

But I would not recommend giving the same pills to someone having a heart attack because, in the first place, how can you be certain that the person is having a heart attack, or some other type of seizure?

Second, nitro - glycerin can cause a drop in blood pressure, and as such a drop often occurs with a heart attack, any further depression of blood pressure should be avoided.

Third, the pain of a heart attack ordinarily CANNOT be relieved by nitro: a narcotic usually is necessary.

And finally, nitro will not prevent or retard a heart attack once it is in progress.

Dear Dr Molner: Please send me your booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," for which I enclose 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Are there any pills I could take to stop the pain? — Mrs. V.M S.

Controlling the pain is the big problem in shingles — when the case is severe and continuing. It varies a good deal from one case to another.

In the severe cases, there can be periods in which nothing less than narcotics will serve, but these must be used for only a limited time to prevent addiction Therefore your answer is not to hunt for "pills" but to ask your doctor for the right pain-killer

Dear Dr Molner: A friend whose husband is a physician tells me that doctors have found that all allergies, including eczemas and hay fever, are emotionally induced illnesses Is this true? — Mrs. K. T.

Not quite It is probably true that there is an emotional element involved in allergies, one way and another, but that is a far cry from saying that all allergies are caused by the emotions.

Some people break out with hives under the pressure of nervous stress, but it is difficult to say exactly how much of the trouble is the result of this stress.

A hay fever victim may suffer more if under such stress — but no matter what the stress, the hay fever isn't going to develop without exposure to the pollen which touches off the allergy.

For another example, a child with asthma may worry about having an attack and be more likely to have an attack simply because of this tension — but the allergy is the basic cause.

Judge Orders End to Picketing By Meatcutters

Union Protests Kroger Sunday Employment Setup

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell has issued a permanent restraining order prohibiting a local meat cutters union from distributing leaflets or picketing at Appleton Kroger stores on Sundays.

The order had been sought by The Kroger Co. against Local 73 of Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers. Hearing on the petition was before Judge Parnell Oct. 19, at which time the judge issued a temporary restraining order.

Union members distributed handbills in front of local Kroger stores Oct. 1 and Oct. 8, protesting that the stores did not employ journeymen meat cutters on Sunday.

The handbills stated, in part, "... there are no trained journeymen meat personnel working in the store today. Therefore, any steaks, roasts, chops, or ground meat products you might purchase in this store today were processed sometime during the last week or probably today by someone who is not employed as a qualified journeyman meat cutter."

Ordered to Refrain

Judge Parnell, in his decision, ordered the union, its agents, and its members to refrain from attempting to coerce Kroger into employing union members in its stores on Sundays, by publication and distribution of leaflets "or by other means."

The judge further ordered the union to refrain from picketing or inducing others to picket the stores, Kroger's supply or delivery vehicles, or customers, or to interfere with Kroger's business or with anyone desiring to do business at the stores when no labor dispute, as defined by statute, exists between company and employes.

Kroger further is entitled to its costs and disbursements of the court action, Judge Parnell ruled.

Listed Findings

In his written statement, Judge Parnell listed several findings. Included were that the union contract does not require Kroger employ union members at any of its stores on any Sunday; the meats of which the union referred to in the handbills were processed by a qualified journeyman meat cutter member of the union; the union contract with Kroger is in full force, and that the case does not grow out of or involve a labor dispute as defined by statute.

The judge further found that unlawful acts were committed by the union; substantial and irreparable injury to Kroger would follow unless the relief requested was granted; Kroger had no adequate remedy at law, and that the activities of the union and its agents constituted a breach of union contract.

Youngsters in Fox Cities Win Chord Organs

Four youngsters from the Fox Cities have won electric piano organs in recognition of their individual crayon coloring abilities.

The musical instruments are prizes in the weekly Funland coloring contests by Uncle Nugent. They appear on the bottom of one of the comic pages in The Sunday Post-Crescent.

Winners of the two-octave, polychord organs are Kim Grummer, 63 Bellaire Court, and Gregory Heinritz, 1716 S. Jackson St., both of Appleton, and Julie Sellnow, 1075 Oak St., and Mary Kay Murphy, 505 Spring Road Drive, both of Neenah.

State Jobless Claims Increase During Week

MADISON (AP)—A total of 17,511 jobless compensation claims were filed in Wisconsin last week, compared with 15,244 a week earlier, the state unemployment compensation division reported today.

Co-op Reports Sales Increase Of $138,481

Net Earnings Set At $1,545,744 by Greenville Firm

GREENVILLE — Sales totaling $1,545,744, which represents an increase of $138,481 over last year, was reported by Raymond Steen, manager, at the 34th annual meeting of the Greenville Co-op Gas Co.

An increase was reported in the gas department, feed mill, lumber yard, machinery, grocery store, plumbing and heating and the new fertilizer plant that began operations late last winter.

John McKay, marketing division director of the Farmers Union Central Exchange, speaking to a capacity crowd, said that farm income is 11 per cent behind last year and that the farmer is taking it and not protesting because of lack of organization. Since 1947 the national income has gone up 223 per cent and the net farm income has dropped 9 per cent.

He said every farmer competes with his neighbor and does a good job of cutting his throat. Farmers are a group of 2½ million business people with no organization. If they own a co-op, all expenses are paid and in the end the earnings are divided up and it goes back to the owners, he said.

Leonard Tennie, secretary, and Clarence Schueler, vice president, were the directors whose terms expired. Schueler served 15 years and did not choose to run again. Tennie was re-elected and Earl Jentz was seated for his first term. The rest of the board is Arnold Schroeder, president, Edward Kelly and Arlo Tellock, directors.

The nominating committee was Carlton Haase, Donald Reis and Carlton Schlintz.

School Administrator Interns Meeting Today at AHS-West

Seven of the 120 administrative interns in the National Association of Secondary School Principals connected with the University of Wisconsin-administered program, are at Appleton High School-West today for their regional meeting.

Emmett Hoks, assistant principal at AHS-W a member of that group is host.

The program includes a speech by George R. Glasrud, Madison, coordinator of the Midwestern States Educational Information Project, and Norman C. Johnson, Appleton Youth Corps director.

The group also had an opportunity to tour the new Highlands Elementary School and Appleton High School-East and observe the non-graded system at Huntley School.

Jerome Boetter, AHS-W principal, and Supt. William Spears, welcomed the group and discussed the goals of the Appleton School System.

The intern program, operated with federal funds, was developed to educated leaders, and share new ideas in curriculum development.

Monthly meetings on new innovations are held on a rotation basis. Included in the area group are educators from Appleton, Manitowoc, Monroe, Madison, McFarland, Juneau, and Freeport, Ill.

Stanley Ore, principal at AHS-E, participated in the program last year, when he served as assistant principal at AHS-W.

Appeal Likely on Denial of Zoning for Private Airstrip

CLAYTON — William Brennand's attempt to operate a commercial airstrip west of Neenah was killed by the Town of Clayton board Tuesday, but the matter will be appealed.

George Strum, owner of the strip on County Trunk AG west of U.S. 45, had petitioned to the board for a rezoning from residential to commercial to permit Brennard to buy, sell, rent and lease aircraft.

The petition previously had been approved by Winnebago County's zoning committee and the county board, with several residents from the Town of Clayton appearing in protest.

Residents Complain

The Clayton board halted the petition with Town Chairman Frank Metzig and Supv. John Hermann voting against and Supv. Leonard Larson in favor.

Metzig said today the petition was turned down because of the numerous complaints of residents in the area about the airstrip.

He said the residents were fearful of the strip becoming too large an operation.

Gary Yakes, attorney for Brennand, said an appeal will be made to the county's Board of Adjustments, which has authority to override the Clayton board decision.

If the decision is not overturned, a special exception from the zoning ordinance will be requested. If this is denied, the appealers will ask for a variance, Yakes said.

Should the variance be turned down, state statutes provide that a court of record could require that all records on the hearing be transferred to the court, which has the final jurisdiction to decide on the issue.

The hearing before the Board of Adjustments is scheduled for Nov. 20, he said.

Brennand was previously forced to move his operations from land near the Winnebago County airport because of airport expansion.

Trial Set for Jan. 29 on Disorderly Charge

Howard R. Smith, 27, who gave no permanent address, pleaded innocent Tuesday to a disorderly conduct charge brought by Mrs. Catherine Bauer, rural Appleton.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Jan. 29 and ordered $350 bond.

Mrs. Bauer, in her complaint, alleged that Smith pushed her around and caused damage at her home early Monday morning. She further alleged that Smith threatened her 12-year-old daughter and used foul language at her Town of Grand Chute home.

County Homemakers Show Scope of Interests

BLACK CREEK — "I learn something every year — then I go home and try it," said Mrs. Edward Ziegler, route 3, Appleton, as she made the rounds of exhibits set up by various Centers at the Outagamie County Homemakers Women's Day Tuesday. The Community Hall was a trove of ideas, not only for the holidays, but for better living all year round. Mrs. Ziegler, who serves as Appleton Center II chairman, has been attending Women's Day programs for 18 years.

Mrs. Russell Bowers, Appleton, said she also came looking for holiday ideas, and finds that she likes to change her home decor from year to year. Mrs. Orlo Hintz, route 2, New London, was pleased that, besides the holiday displays, she was able to gather literature at the community development display that her children could use in school.

Members of all the Homemakers Clubs expressed pride in their groups and the work they accomplish during the year. Mrs. Hintz, a member of the Golden Hill Homemakers, says her group took its name from the old school building in which the club meets. The school, in the town of Maple Creek is on a hill, and at sunset looks so pretty that the setting was named Golden Hill. Now the school has become part of the New London district, and the building is no longer used for classes. The Homemakers were among groups who promoted the use of the building for the community.

In Exhibits

Every club has a story to tell, in its work, its accomplishments, its members. Part of it was presented in exhibits set up around the upper floor at the Community Hall.

Seymour Center carried out in detail a health and safety display that pointed up the hazards to health from marijuana and LSD as well as such household poisons as ammonia, bleach, insecticides, rat poisons and bowl cleaners. The exhibit told that certain cleaners, such as bleach and ammonia, should never be used together, that all poisons should be correctly labeled and stored out of the reach of children. A health display showed shaggy crepe paper vegetables and the part they play in health. There were publications of the Wisconsin and American Cancer Societies that advised early examination and diagnosis and other articles that pointed out the dangers of smoking.

German Items

Shiocton Center went international at Woman's Day with an exhibit of Germany that included linens, foods, glassware, china, art and books. The symbols of Christmas were shown by the Nichols Center, which set up a creche and tree, cake, gifts, centerpieces, music, candles, cones, Santa, elves and wreaths.

The Little Chute Center set up a presentation of the cultural arts, pointing out the music, drama and art available to the area through Lawrence University, the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, Wisconsin State Broadcasting Service, Paine Art Center and Bergstrom Art Center. Appleton Center II showed how to keep America Beautiful with a display illustrating the difference in a countryside that is well kept and one that is a jungle of dead and rusting auto hulks; when cemeteries are cared for, and when an incinerator is used for disposal of rubbish. Family life was displayed by the Dale Center, in an exhibit pointing up the importance of both doing things as a group and maintaining individual privacy. Citizenship was the topic carried out by Appleton Center I in its display.

Fire Safety

Besides the arrangements by the various centers, two demonstrations were set up. Mrs. Albert Bennett, Hortonville, did 'Floral Arrangements' and John Gregorich of Rural Insurance Co. presented a demonstration on 'Fire Safety'.

The women held a bake sale on the lower floor of the Community Hall.

An evening program, introduced by Mrs. Charles Schaefer, County Homemakers president, included a talk, 'Expo '67' by Lowell Boehm, the Singing Baehmans of Hortonville and a talk by Miss Colleen Christensen, county home economist.

The Arts, Crafts and unique features of Germany were presented in a display by Shiocton Center. Looking at a print, above, are Mrs. Louis Tackman, Shiocton, center chairman, and Mrs. Ernest Schuster, Mrs. Forrest Huth and Mrs. Maynard Sherman, all of Seymour. At left, Mrs. Roger Knapp, New London, held her daughter, Michelle, as she watched Mrs. Albert Bennett, Hortonville, do a demonstration of flower arranging.

Holiday Decorations were a natural to take the attention of homemakers looking for new and unusual ways to trim homes for Christmas. Above, some of the several hundred women who attended the afternoon and evening program looked over the display set up by the Nichols Center. At left, Mrs. E. L. McBain, Seymour Center chairman, shows a crepe paper tomato to Beth Ann and Tina Endrick and their mother, Mrs. Thomas Endrick, Dale. At right, Scott Bork, Appleton, rear, and Paul and Carol Cherney, New London, were captivated by what looked like doll houses but were actually part of a demonstration on home safety. Lynda, Chuck Turn Tables on Reception Hosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Tom C. Clark hosted a pre-wedding reception for Lynda Bird Johnson and her fiance, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb—but the Clarks ended up being honored, too. Robb told 200 guests at the exclusive Sulgrave Club Wednesday night that it was the Clarks' 43rd wedding anniversary. Lynda then presented the couple with a gift which President Johnson brought to the party—a bust of the President by Washington sculptress Jimilu Mason.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Chief Justice Earl Warren were also among the guests.

Went Along

Clark, one of the President's oldest friends, recalled he accompanied Johnson to the hospital the night Lynda was born 23 years ago, paced the floor with him and joined him for his first view of "the bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked little angel."

Lynda and Robb, who will be married in the White House Dec. 9, have chosen six more members of their wedding party. They are six Marine captains, friends of Robb's, who will form an arch of swords through which the wedding couple will walk after the ceremony.

Newly appointed officers of the Fox Valley Society are Dr. Darling, president; Earl Rasmussen, Oshkosh, vice president; Mrs. Darling, recording and membership secretary; Mrs. Carlton Knoll, Appleton, treasurer; Sidney Wilson, Menasha, publicity, and Edwin Bella, state delegate-at-large.

The next meeting is planned for Nov. 19 at the home of E. A. Nelson, route 2, Neenah.

Partner Owes Full Cooperation

The chief function of a partner is to fill awkward silences with complaints about your bidding and play. When you need him desperately, what is he doing? Thinking of his next complaint instead of co-operating with you.

When today's hand was played last month in the Team Selection Tournament in Atlantic City, N.J., West opened the four of diamonds. Declarer won at once with dummy's ace and led a trump to the ace. East's discard disclosed the sad news South was in grave danger.

Opening lead — ◇ 4

The best chance was an end play on West. South began by leading his low diamond. West followed suit with the three, and East won with the ten.

Then and there East should have thought of a way to save his partner. He could defeat the contract by leading the ten of clubs, but East doomed his partner by leading the queen of diamonds.

South ruffed, drew another round of trumps with the king, cashed the top hearts and ruffed a heart. Then he led a trump to force West into the lead.

West could not afford to lead a diamond since that would let dummy ruff while South discarded a club. Instead, West returned the queen of clubs, hoping that South would play East for the king of clubs.

Not a bit deceived, South refused the first club. West continued with a low club, and South let this ride around to the jack, thus making his contract.

If East had returned the ten of clubs after winning his diamond trick he would have trapped the jack of clubs, rescuing West from the eventual end play.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S- 9 8 7 5 4. H- A 10. D- A 9 2. C- A 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. This is a borderline hand, and many experts would bid one spade instead of passing. Most experts would bid if the long spades were headed by an ace instead of by a nine (with just three aces in the hand). The trouble with bidding so weak a suit is that if partner becomes the opening leader a spade lead may cost a trick.

Methodists Invite Hadassah to Program

Judaism, Christianity Linked Through Concepts of Buber

Before his death, Rabbi Zusya said, "In the coming world, they will not ask me: 'Why were you not Moses?' They will ask me: 'Why were you not Zusya?' " quoted the Rev. Charles Logsdon, Associate of the First Methodist Church, from the Hebrew Bible, as he addressed the Woman's Society of Christian Service. The Women of Hadassah were guests at the Tuesday afternoon meeting, when the Rev. Mr. Logsdon spoke to the group about "Martin Buber, Modern Bridge Between Judiasm and Christianity." He told the group he was not an authority on Martin Buber, but was, rather, deeply involved in one of his concepts namely, the I-thou concept.

Lived in Palestine

Martin Buber was born in Vienna just before the turn of the century and lived most of his life in Palestine. A Jew by birth his concepts have affected thinking men of Protestant, Catholic and Eastern Orthodox faiths as well as Jews. Martin Buber did not want to see men pitting one temple against the other. He never looked for a universal religion, he never wanted to overlook the unique qualities of each. Martin Buber believed that the differences between and the unique qualities of each religion contributed to the fruitfulness of all.

The Rev. Mr. Logsdon pointed out that that Buber always saw Jesus as, first and foremost, a Jew, to whom belongs a great place in Israeli history.

Impact on People

The strangest and strongest impact on people of today is Buber's I-thou dialogue. The speaker said that "the concept has opened doors all over the place in getting to know each other." There are two basic relationships between people. One is the I-thou concept; the other is the I-it. The I-thou concept is direct, mutual, open and present. In this kind of relationship each sees the other and lets the other be a unique individual. In the I-it concept, we are virtually saying everybody has to believe as we believe or we cannot get along. Perhaps, the speaker noted, this relationship has a sense of insecurity about it. The meeting is always an indirect and non-mutual one we just stand back without really being part of it.

While all of life cannot be lived according to the I-thou concept because we are human beings and have to accept categories in society, we must walk back and forth between the two concepts much as we do when we differentiate between right and wrong, bad and good, positive and negative.

The I-thou concept, said the Rev. Mr. Logsdon, can be said: love people, use things; the I-it concept says: love things, use people.

Martin Buber, the speaker noted, believed "all real living is meeting." There is no such thing as adequate life alone.

God, he said, is the eternal Thou; we can only meet and know Him as Thou. As soon as we try to bring God into thought, meaning, and shape, He is no longer God. In other words, we must try not to define God, but to talk to Him and be responsible to Him.

Religion is a mystical (meaning, foundation of life) meeting with God. We must address God, or man, totally, in order to satisfy the I-thou concept.

The Rev. Mr. Logsdon said that it was Martin Buber's idea that only those who speak to God really get to know Him. You must have an attitude of openness toward that which you consider to be the source or energy of life.

Many theologians never really speak to God because they are so wrapped up in trying to define Him. In effect, this is saying that these men never really get to know Him.

Man Still Evolving

God is more than the Creator, yet he is involved in every aspect of creation. Since creation is on-going, since man is still evolving, God is involved in every phase of our lives. We see Him, noted the speaker, not only in a lovely sunset, but also in Vietnam, in concrete, in neon signs. He is not limited to only the nice things in life.

Existence of Biblical man is rooted in hearing and responding. As man has freedom and through man's freedom, God helps shape history. This is the movement from creation to redemption, for God speaks to man in events in history."

Biblical Judaism is the mother of traditional Judaism and of Christianity. Their common roots are in both Biblical and Jewish tradition. We, therefore, have a mutual heritage to the man, Jesus.

The Rev. Mr. Logsdon pointed to the fact that both Jesus and the early Christians were Jews. The breaking point between Jews and the Christian followers took place when the disciple Paul opposed Peter and James. Paul felt that the new Christian religion entitled its followers to freedom not granted in the Old Testament.

Arms Around World

Buber felt that the "real God of Buber's concept is the Creator. We can reach the real God by putting our arms around the world, not above the world." Everything we encounter can be a way in which God addresses us. The speaker pointed out Buber's premise that when we do not like people we may miss an address by God to us."

God comes into the world through us, he continued. We cannot meet God by turning away from the world or by analyzing Him.

Remember, stated the Rev. Mr. Logsdon that "God does not call us to be superhuman or perfect. He calls us to be humanly open." This is the core

Your Problems

Reader Plans to Tell Brother of His Wife's Suspected Infidelity

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you told a wife who wondered if her husband was cheating in Vietnam not to ask him any questions when he returned. You also said, "If he volunteers the information, listen quietly, say nothing, forgive him and never bring up the subject again."

Is this sauce only for the goose, or does it also apply to the gander?

My brother has been in Vietnam for eight months. I have no proof but I could almost swear that his wife has entertained a former sweetheart in her apartment. It burns me up that she has always gotten away with the goody-goody act. Everyone in the family thinks she is a saint. I have a theory that people who go out of their way to be especially nice are hiding something.

I also have a theory that it is best to bring things out in the open and clear the air. When my brother comes home I plan to tell him of my suspicions and if his wife is innocent let her prove it. I studied commercial law in high school and this is the basis for American justice. Right? — Not Blind

Dear Not: You must have flunked the course, Needlenose, because you've got it wrong. American justice is based on the concept that a person is innocent until proven guilty.

"Clear the air," my Aunt Minnie! You sound like a four-door, brass-plated trouble-maker and I hope your brother tells you to M.Y.O.B. the minute you open your mouth.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was widowed at 48. Two sons. One married the following year. The other married six months later. I gave them each $1,000 as a wedding gift.

Three months later the younger son asked if he could borrow $300. I said yes. He never paid it back so I gave his brother $300 also, because I wanted to be fair. Then the older boy asked if I would help him buy a house. I signed for his loan. He and his wife moved out of town six months later and I had to make good on the payments.

Landers

The following year they decided to move back to town. I gave them $5,000 to get started. I gave the other son $5,000, too, because I wanted to be fair.

Neither of these boys or their wives have the time of day for me unless they want to talk about borrowing money. They never ask me to their homes for a meal or invite me any place. I am nearly 70 and have very little money left. I am so depressed about the way my sons treat me that I don't know what to do. Any advice? — Used

Dear Used: One thing you can do is stop being a money machine. I hope your letter will wake up other mothers who think gifts to children necessarily beget love and respect.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents . . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Program That Pointed Up the service given by Girl Scouts on all four scouting levels, and a sharing of service ideas, was presented at the Appleton Association meeting Monday evening at St. Therese Catholic Church activity center. Girl Scouts Show Service Projects

'Open Your Eyes', a film focusing on volunteer service throughout the country, from teaching the illiterate to read to helping cerebral palsied individuals, was shown at the Monday evening meeting of the Appleton Association of the Fox River Area Girl Scout Council. About 150 adult council members attended the meeting.

Mrs. Keneth Ligare, association chairman, briefly explained the structure of the area's scouting program, noting that workers, all adults in the program are volunteers. Delegates to the spring council meeting were elected.

Explain Programs

Speakers highlighting service were Mrs. Gerald Wolfgram, a Brownie Scout leader whose troop is providing a Christmas for a Menominee Indian family; Miss Jane Gabert, a junior scout, who explained her troop's 'beautification with trees' project; Miss Mary Pekarske, whose troop makes its own puppets, writes its own material and performs for any interested group; Miss Nancy Bonner, of the Trail Blazer senior troop which is aiding the children at the Sheltered Workshop and Miss Barbara Flood and Miss Rinda Pardee of the Mariner Troop, which has helped Oneida Indians organize a scouting program.

Other speakers were Mrs. Lloyd Williams, who explained outdoor services, concentrating on the conservation of natural resources, and Mrs. Martin Kiepke, the service coordinator of Outagamie County Hospital and Golden Age Home, who suggested the 'adoption' of an elderly person as possible project.

Round-table discussions on service projects were then held.

The secret's in the center section

What makes Copps' food department different?

Well, the secret's in the center section — that big area where everything is sold at the lowest price over invoice cost allowed by State law.

Why do we sell everything at this lowest legal price? Because we've found a way to do this and still make a modest profit. By controlling expenses, like rent and advertising, by getting a tremendous volume of business (which you've given us), we can bring you these prices. Also, by eliminating stamps and games and gimmicks which might be fun but inevitably add to grocery prices.

It's a gamble for us, sure, but what isn't in life? Anyone else could offer you these lowest legal grocery prices, too, but no one seems willing to take the gamble.

There's one more big reason why we do it. And that's your pocketbook. We think it deserves a break. Don't you?

Letters Span Four Wars, 'Mrs. H.' a Legend to GIs

BY JUDY PRUSNEK

CENTRAL CITY, Ky (AP) — Four wars ago, "Mrs H" had an idea how to make combat more bearable to the servicemen of Muhlenberg County.

She'd write to them. All of them

It was 1917 and Mrs. Agnes Harralson was a young postmistress in a small Western Kentucky coal town named Graham, knowing too well who went letterless "over there"

Fifty years later, the 71-year-old Mrs H's unflagging correspondence is legendary among generations of soldiers in her county

Full-Page Column

What's now a full-page, unpaid column—"The Service Star"—in The Central City Times-Argus began with an airmailed round-robin letter to World War I and an answer

"Miss A I'd like to see the old Kaiser sweeping the streets of one of these little French towns and after every step, someone prodding him with a sharp bayonet I can't think of any punishment horrible enough for the old bird" R. W. Walker; Tours, France, 1917.

World War II found her, a Sunday school teacher then, mimeographing the first Star which 500 servicemen from the county were to receive once a month

Zigged Instead of Zagged

"Lt Mickey Edwards was wounded seriously during the push on Rome. Shrapnel. Both legs He writes us he 'zigged when he should have zagged'" Star, July, 1944

Korea erupted and Mrs H was approached by Larry and Amos Stone who couldn't forget their well worn Stars of the last war. Now newspaper publishers, they offered her the page whenever she was ready.

Again, her mailing list peaked at another 500 soldiers

"Miss A Got the Star yesterday though our mail plane was shot down The mail and parts of the Star were burned, but I read all I could" M. W. Whitmer aboard the USS Alvin C. Cockrell, December, 1950.

12 Friends Died Then, Vietnam

"Mrs. H, 12 of my friends just died I can't write this to my brother and have her worry, but I had to tell somebody."

More

Biblical scripture often tiptoes between her pecked-out paragraphs Mrs. H. knows how a lonely trench or foxhole can start her boy-men thinking for the first time.

Sometimes, she says, a soldier's wife is untrue, he might lose an arm or leg, or

"Mrs. H., I killed four men today Is it right, Mrs H.?" Dak To, August, 1967

Sometimes, she says, she doesn't have an answer.

Mrs H's doctor-husband died in 1951, leaving her with one son, John, now employed as a telephone manager in Louisville.

When pressed to remember, Mrs H says the worst battle of all was Iwo Jima, or maybe the Belgian Bulge.

She feels current draft laws grant too many exemptions

"Hi, Mrs. H By some stroke of luck, I bumped into my brother Howard over here" Ray Heitsley Anzio Beachhead, April, 1944

Vietnam she says, is a young war, a frustrating war in many, perhaps minor league ways.

"William Duke's scout dog, Prince, is back in the dog hospital at Pleiku." Star, October, 1967

Writes Sunday Night

So every Sunday night, Mrs H sits back down at her typewriter And every Thursday she collects 136 papers, ripping out her column and mailing it once again with stamps paid for by local civic groups

And somewhere in between, she'll round up that large Rebel flag for Billy Dickten in South Vietnam, telephone mothers to keep her addresses up to date and worry about Dragon Mountain and Hill 861

Paris Speaks the Word: Girls to be Girls Again

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — While some seek fair opportunity, the fashion industry is working hard at preserving their unfair advantage—fragile femininity.

As if to negate predictions of sociologists alarmed at the short-lived pants fad, the New York House of Christian Dior introduced a spring collection Wednesday that was mostly ruffles and lace and sensual silks

Moving at a rapid pace through the rose-banked showroom, manikins with faraway looks and hair swept back into tight clumps of curls paraded in costumes called everything from Cambodia in honor of Jackie Kennedy to Kansas City in honor of anybody in Kansas City

Whatever the name though, the theme was the same—softness, crispness, frilliness, and shapeliness—French designer Gaston Berthelot's language for womanliness

There were casually belted, sleeveless costumes with softly tailored brief jackets, and skirts with pleats at the middle or on one side. There were crisp, white blouses with lacy neck bands under coats with doily-like collars; and figure clinging dresses with ruffly bibs.

Soft, Sexy

Clothes meant for social evenings were even softer and sexier, and far less ostentatious than in previous Dior years Now and then giant glass reflectors—the kind on the backs of bicycles—illuminated a dinner gown; or a mosaic of colored mirrors formed a pretty pattern in a cocktail gown.

But for the most part, the Circa '67 Dior girls glided in one-shoulder chiffons, or moved with the grace of stately ladies in classic floor length shirt dresses; or fluttered flirtatiously in flame rep cape and gown edged with ostrich feathers

A Lovelier You

Crepey Throat

In an effort to mask a crepey throat, many women resort to the cover-up of a bulky scarf or necklace. And sometimes the disguise looks worse than the ailment. To carry it off you really must have a very slim face and neck. Otherwise there's a squeeze play on the face, as though the neck had been caught in a grating.

To ease crepey, lined conditions the better move is corrective treatment. The following three-part regimen is excellent:

1. For the purpose of refining the skin and bringing up clear color, cleanse the neck daily with mild complexion soap or a neutral cosmetic wash. Apply the suds with a soft complexion brush and massage well.

2. To smooth and firm the skin there's a great value in stimulation creams and rich emollients. Several creams, made especially for use on the throat, combine stimulation and emollient properties. Such creams should be applied at bedtime and massaged in with upward strokes for 10 minutes.

Throat sticks, loaded with cream and moisturizers, are usable around the clock. Fit into a handbag, too.

3. Remember that the neck needs a bit of powder base so as to blend with the face. As desired, a base may be feathered on over application of throat stick. That way the neck gets a lovelifying treatment and finish.

Stewardesses in Miniskirts Picket Airline Discipline

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — How high on the thigh can a stewardess' miniskirt rise?

A bevy of miniskirted stewaresses picketed Pan American Airways Tuesday to say that this is not a question for the airline to answer.

Local 505 of the Transport Workers Union said it was in protest of a threat by the company to fire pretty stewardess Kristina Goud, 23, for wearing too short a skirt during an off-duty flight on a Pan American plane.

"Up with miniskirts. Down with Pan Am," read banners waved by the six girls outside the administration building at San Francisco International Airport.

A Pan Am spokesman said Miss Goud was told two weeks ago that her skirt did not seem to comply with the company's image. Her flight discount pass was lifted as an impromptu measure of discipline, he said.

Miss Goud said she was threatened with dismissal, but Pan Am publicity director Robin Kinkead said this was not so. Her pass has been returned to her, he said.

"Furthermore, Pan Am would not presume to set itself up as an arbiter elegantiarum on skirt lengths or issue pronouncements about miniskirts.

"We have no wish to hamper the girls in their pursuit of looking chic or wearing clothes of the latest style," Kinkead said. He added, however, that the company would require that "employes traveling on its planes off duty, both men and women, be dressed within conventional limits such as would apply in any office."

Miss Goud said her blue and white skirt wasn't at all too short.

"It was really only three or four inches above the knee," she said.

Kinkead said company officials, the union and the girls will meet to iron out the issue.

Young Couple Buying Home Must Beware of Technicalities

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

A young couple buying a first home can be blissfully unaware of all the technicalities involved in the transfer of a piece of real estate. If the price is right and the mortgage money available, what more's involved?

Considerably more, as a matter of fact. A little knowledge of some of the steps leading up to home ownership might come in handy before buyer and seller say "I do." The importance of having a lawyer, as well as a real estate broker, in on the preliminary planning, becomes clear when some of the complications that could arise are considered. The New York State Bar Association obligingly answers a few basic questions, based on this state's law, just to give you a general idea:

Q. Is a "binder" merely a receipt, as evidence of payment of a deposit on a house?

A. No. If the buyer is asked to sign a written memorandum of the transaction, called a "binder," at the same time he pays a deposit or "earnest money," that memorandum can be very important. The buyer may, without legal advice, unknowingly give up certain rights. Attorneys usually advise clients not to sign any paper without their approval.

Get In Details

Q. When a "contract of sale" is signed, does that mean the property then belongs to the buyer?

A. No. As soon as possible after the parties have come to an agreement, it's customary for them to sign a contract of sale providing for the delivery or closing of title at a stated date and place. This is necessary so that the purchaser and seller may remain obligated to complete the transaction during the time necessary for investigation of title, financing, etc. Care must be taken to see that all the details of the agreement are contained in this contract.

Q. Is a description of property sufficient from the buyer's point of view — or should he require a survey?

A. Many disappointments arise in the transfer of real estate from inaccurate or inadequate descriptions of the property. Paticularly in the case of a house and lot, even an accurate description may tell nothing with reference to the physical condition of the property. The house may encroach on a neighbor's property or on the street. Or, it may stand entirely on the proper lot and a neighbor's building may encroach. It is usually advisable therefore to obtain a survey.

Q. How does the buyer make sure his title to the property will be clear?

A. Examination of title requires a search of the public records of instruments that may affect the title. Such an examination can safely be done only by one who is specially skilled in real estate law. The title examiner prepares a transcript of the chain of title containing a list and details of prior transfers of the poperty. This transcript, or analysis and pehaps further investigation, to make sure that the title is clear.

In areas where abstracts of title are not in common use, a title insurance policy is commonly used in real estate transactions. Where title insurance is used, the examination of the title is made by the title insurance company. Such a policy provides an indemnity contract guaranteeing to protect the purchaser and his heirs against the damages actually sustained by reason of a title defect within the scope of the policy. The fact that the purchaser obtains a title policy in no way obviates the need for his being represented by a lawyer. The title insurance company merely examines and insures the title.

American Education Week

Home, School and Church Must Join to Assure Good Character

BY REV. G. JEROME ALBRECHT

As education budgets increase by leaps and bounds, we are reminded that education is big business. Do we get our money's worth? Are our schools doing the job that we have a right to expect of them? Well, what do we expect of them? We surely expect them to provide basic instruction in the three R's, to teach our children to cooperate and to communicate, to prepare them to earn a decent living.

In these areas we would have to agree that our schools are generally doing a good job They do enable most of our young people to take their places as productive members of our society. They give a great deal of help to all who are willing to accept that help

But we realize that education is to impart more than factual knowledge and certain physical and mental skills We see the need to build good character in our young people We must not be satisfied to produce brilliant deceivers, clever criminals, highly-educated traitors, or well-adjusted embezzlers. We rather want our youth to use their knowledge and their skills in good and acceptable ways.

No Guarantee

Good character requires a certain amount of knowledge and understanding, but prodigious learning is no guarantee of good character. The general level of education throughout the world is surely higher than ever before, and at the same time the problems and the perils of this world are greater and more terrifying than ever before. Man's scientific knowledge and technological progress have ways of turning upon him and devouring him, because good moral character is so often lacking.

But we are here concerned particularly about our schools and our youth What effect is the education that we provide having upon the character of our youth? Our young people are spending more years in school and receiving more education than ever before Do we find a corresponding growth in good character and virtuous living?

This is the fifth in a series of articles written by guest writers on education during American Education Week. Dealing with the topic, "How Good are Your Schools at Shaping the Character of Youth?" is the Rev. G. Jerome Albrecht, president of the Fox Valley Lutheran High School Federation and pastor of Martin Luther Church, Neenah.

Would you say so in view of the alarming increase in juvenile and adult crime, the soaring rates of illegitimacy and social diseases, the widespread obvious disrespect for and open defiance of authority?

Adequate Job

When patriotism is considered to be naive by so many, when honesty is regarded as outmoded and impractical, when chastity is ridiculed and even maligned, when diligent labor is despised, when vulgar and profane speech is the only language that many can speak — can we then presume to suggest that our schools are doing an adequate job of shaping the character of our youth?

Let us not be too hasty to condemn our schools when we see these character deficiencies in some of our young people! How much do we have a right to expect of our schools? After all, character is not just a matter of knowledge and skill. It is a matter of moral judgment and courage. Good character involves much more than outward compliance with the accepted standards of one's society It means doing the right thing at the right time and for the right reason.

Moral Conviction

Good character will surely reveal itself in the realm of one's physical and mental activities, but it is basically a spiritual quality If one's behavior is not based upon moral conviction, it can be nothing more virtuous than selfish opportunism or cold pragmatism. Christians believe that good character is at the same time humble and courageous, desiring, like Christ, not to be ministered unto, but to minister, aed to devote one's life to the glory of God and the welfare of all mankind

To develop that kind of character in their children many parents choose to send them to Christian elementary and secondary schools. There morality can be taught and all things can be evaluated in the light of Christian principles and truth.

Taught At Home

But it is a serious mistake for such parents to assume that the responsibility for shaping the character of their sons and daughters now rests entirely with the school The school can be a tremendous help. So can the church. But both are fighting a losing battle unless good character is being taught and caught at home.

Are your schools doing a satisfactory job of shaping the character of youth? Perhaps we should rephrase the question: Are we sending young people of good character to our schools? That is obviously the responsibility of the home and the church. If we faithfully do our part, we may be certain that our schools will not fail to do theirs.

More Than 380 children's books received this year by the Appleton Public Library were on exhibit this week during National Education Week. Looking over the new collection are Kelly Waite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Waite, and Amy Ertl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ertl. On hand to stress the importance of reading is Mrs. Aaron Dejardin, right, children's librarian. Books for all ages are included in the collection. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Taxpayers Want Town to Pay Light Bill

Reverse Their Stand On Street Lighting In Grand Chute

Property owners in Keller Court subdivision in the Town of Grand Chute Tuesday night unofficially reversed an earlier petition requesting street lights be installed in the plat at the owner's expense.

A petition containing 57 signatures was presented to the town board in March. The board requested Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. to prepare a proposal which would meet current lighting standards.

The area includes Heather Avenue, Highway Drive, William Street, Edwards Street and Pleasant View Court.

The power company's proposal suggested 21 mercury-vapor lamps of 175 watts. Cost was set at $4.50 per month for each lamp. According to Leslie Woldt, town clerk, this would mean a special assessment of 30 cents per $1,000 of assessed value for each property owner involved.

Feeling Has Changed

However, the feeling has changed since the original request and some felt the town should cover the expense. Thomas Thorson, town chairman, said this would be a "green light" for every plat in the town. "If we did it for one we would be bound to do it for all," he said.

No one present was in favor of the 21-light proposal with a few claiming they would entertain the idea of a lesser program.

In board action, after the public hearing, approval was given to have a traffic survey completed in various town areas in an effort to obtain 25 mile per hour speed zones.

Statutes have set 35 m.p.h. as the minimum town speed law. A change to a lower speed must have state approval.

John Arps, constable, and Don Herrling, town attorney, will make a list of areas to be surveyed.

The board requested Herrling to prepare a sample ordinance which will prohibit all-night parking on town roads. Arps told the board cars will be pulled to the side of the road with a flat tire and be unattended for two or three days in many instances.

The board will decide if the proposed ordinance will be in effect the year around or only during the winter to facilitate snow plowing.

McKinley Work to Start Immediately

Contracts Awarded At Special Council Meeting Wednesday

Low bidders were awarded contracts for the new southside McKinley grade school by the city council Wednesday night, paving the way for excavation work to begin today.

"We will be moving equipment in and hope to start digging right away", was the comment today of a spokesman for the Gambsky Construction Co. of Menasha, the general contractor.

Total construction cost of the 33-classroom school to be built much along the lines of the new Highlands elementary building on the northwest side of Appleton will be $1,076,160.

The council held a special meeting last night to award contracts and also waive a code requirement that streets and other utilities serve the site prior to issuance of a building permit.

Mayor George Buckley called the session so construction could be expedited. The school is to be finished and ready for use next September.

'Barber of Seville'

Superb Baritone Boosts Opera To Generally Satisfying Level

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — With a tremendous boost from a superb baritone, Gioacchino Rossini's operatic farce, "The Barber of Seville," received generally satisfying treatment as the first Town and Gown red series attraction by the Goldovsky Opera Theater Wednesday night at Civic Auditorium.

Julian Patrick, as Figaro, the title role, overcame terrible acoustics and the occasional loudness of the orchestra with a powerful, rich voice that filled every corner of the spacious hall. Obviously enjoying his role and seemingly aware of his superiority over several other leads, Patrick employed his booming voice and skill as an actor to every possible advantage. Yet, when given the chance to overpower other singers in duets, trios and chorus selections, he used restraint, contributing to a most pleasing effect.

Lacking Power

Though lacking the power of Patrick, tenor John Walker played a vocally adept, if somewhat unheroic, Count Almaviva. Technically skillful in voice manipulation, Walker did not overcome the large stage's several dead spots, causing much of the audience to miss important lines, which was doubly significant because the Goldovsky version is done in English. (English language versions of famous operas are bearable only when the work is not a tragedy, and "Barber" came across well because of its farcial premise.) Also hampering Walker stage presentation, it appeared was the fact that the Count should have been a more active participant in the King's Physical Fitness Program.

Acoustic difficulty also hampered Katherine Kaufman as Rosina, the ultimate goal of the Count. Miss Kaufman, despite screechy high notes, delivered a creditable account of her talents, especially those most easily identifiable visually but with the single exception of the reference to Rosina's "slender" form, the only credibility gap of the evening).

The other principal baritone in the opera, Lucien Olivier, did not have Patrick's depth, but did a beautiful job portraying old Dr. Bartolo, Rosina's guardian, who also has amorous intentions toward his ward. He was quite polished in his depiction of a man considerably older than he.

Grotesque Make-Up

Bass J. B. Davis, as music master Don Basilio, demonstrated a good voice, but his overdone grotesque make-up qualified him as a refugee from a movie about a mad scientist.

The colorful staging by Boris Goldovsky was assisted by lavish costumes by Leo Van Witsen. The orchestra, conducted by Edward Alley, was adequate, but somewhat loud. It would have helped the audience if the Civic Auditorium's orchestra pit, capable of being lowered, had been below eye level.

Goldovsky researched "Barber" thoroughly to discover Rossini's actual intentions on how it should be staged and sung because he felt it was being mishandled by many companies. His studies resulted in subtle changes in "ornamentation" (trills, grace notes, flourishes, variations) which only opera students and serious buffs would notice. More important though was whether it was enjoyed, and despite lapses into superfluous distractions, "The Barber of Seville" won some friends Wednesday evening.

Stock Exchange Chief, James Day, Dies at 62

CHICAGO (AP) — James E. Day, 62, president of the Midwest Stock Exchange, died Wednesday after a heart attack.

Day had been president of Midwest, the largest stock exchange outside of New York City, since 1949 when exchanges in Cleveland, New Orleans, St. Louis and Minneapolis joined with Chicago in forming the Midwest exchange.

Editor Tells AAUW Group

Free Press, Fair Trial Not Conflicting Laws

Principles which guide the newspaper in the coverage of criminal news, both in the handling of adults and juveniles, were discussed by Editor John Torinus of The Post-Crescent before the Law Committee of the AAUW Wednesday. The meeting was at the home of Mrs. C. T. McCleery, 613 E. Byrd St.

There is really no conflict between the First Amendment, guaranteeing freedom of the press, and the Sixth Amendment, guaranteeing fair trial, Mr. Torinus said. The press has its responsibilities in reporting the news of criminal activity, while the bench and the bar have the responsibility of seeing that every individual is guaranteed a fair trial.

Double Purpose

The press not only keeps the public informed about criminal activity in society, but appraises the public how justice is done in its midst by subjecting the processes of the police, prosecutors and the courts to intense and continual public scrutiny. Another important responsibility of the press is to allay public fears during outbreaks of criminal activity, and to dispel rumors by the disclosure of fact

There has been an active dialogue between the press and the bar over the news coverage of criminal prosecutions since the issuance of the Warren Report on the assassination of President Kennedy, the Ruby trial and the U.S. Supreme Court's reversal of the murder conviction of Dr. Sam Sheppard, Mr. Torinus said. As a result the press has conducted an intensive self-examination, and has pinpointed the areas of coverage of pre-trial news which might conceivably prejudice a case against a defendant.

Against Suppression

On the other hand, Torinus declared, the press is unalterably opposed to legislation which would make it a criminal offense for police or attorneys to release information about a criminal case to the press, and also opposes the recommendation of the Reardon Committee of the American Bar Association that the contempt power be used by courts against newspaper reporters.

Mr. Torinus also explained the provisions of state law regarding the release of names of juvenile offenders to the public. He said that the Wisconsin law in this matter is an enlightened one which is based on the belief that the great number of juvenile offenders can be rehabilitated and made valuable members of society. For this reason police and courts are prohibited by law from releasing the names of juvenile offenders unless the juvenile court waives jurisdiction of their case and transfers it to criminal court.

Board Won't Help Buy Lights For Goodland

Hoolihan Makes Fund Plea in Behalf of Appleton

A less than sympathetic ear was given by Outagamie County Board members Thursday morning to a request from Supv. Art Hoolihan, Appleton, that the county assist the city in updating the lighting at Goodland Field, home of the Appleton Foxes baseball team.

The Appleton City Council Wednesday night had authorized Hoolihan, at his own request, to approach the board. He serves on both bodies.

Hoolihan said the estimated cost of updating the lighting was about $76,000. He did not indicate what he thought the county should contribute. He said the Chicago White Sox, parent club of the Foxes, had indicated the lighting must be updated for the city to retain the team.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, said minor league baseball at this level was dead. "The coroner just hasn't found the body," he quipped. He said the major leagues are using the minors only for tax write-offs and do not contribute anything. Until this changes, he said, it would be a waste of money.

Support came from Supv. Patrick Heenan, Appleton, who said the baseball team also was a county venture which resulted in a considerable amount of money being spent in this area. He urged serious consideration.

However, a motion by Supv. Robert Weyenberg, Kimberly, to end debate and move onto other matters, settled the issue and left Hoolihan stranded on base.

Council Estimates Increase Of $9.40 in '68 Tax Rate

Final Action Slated After Public Airing

An estimated $9.40 increase in the City of Appleton tax rate for 1968 — covering all city purposes, schools and state and county government levies — emerged from Wednesday's informal council meeting.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at the city hall at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The council followed for the most part the recommendations of its finance committee which made several deletions of original requests of various departments, boards, agencies and commissions.

Concurs in Cuts

It concurred in the committee's recommendation to cut $252,000 from the record board of education requests which had exceeded $7 million.

And there was indication from some aldermen that personnel additions recommended by the public school administration may run into heavy attack at the public hearing, resulting in the possible deletion of some new positions.

Taken into consideration in arriving at the tax rate increase is the estimated $1.6 million to be levied against the city for county and state government charges.

Aldermen, who reviewed budgets for almost five hours, said expenditures programmed for the coming year for general city purposes represent "a bare bones budget."

$65.62 Tax Rate

As it now stands, Appleton's tentative budget calls for a $65.62 tax rate for all purposes in 1968 compared to this year's $56.22.

Residents in the second precinct of the 9th Ward (Calumet County) will have a rate of about $1.50 less. This is due to a lower levy in Calumet than Outagamie County.

The council held out hope that more may be trimmed from the budget at the public hearing when additional information is available on "certain gray areas" — the latter including the vocational school district levy and the public school personnel question.

City oficials say they are also awaiting the recommendation of the Appleton Taxpayers' Association which had members present for all budget hearings in recent weeks.

Aldermen did agree to put $10,000 back in the school board budget for a new public address system at Appleton High School-West.

While there was some difference of opinion, the general

See Some Relief From State Sales Tax Credit

While the tentative budget calls for a $9.40 rate boost, Appleton taxpayers can look forward to some relief in the form of the annual sales tax credit refund.

It is applied directly to reducing the individual tax bill. The credit refund is expected to range from $3.55 to $3.75 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Tighten Purse Strings, Tews Says

Drawing a tighter line on municipal spending in general, and bonding in particular, was advocated Wednesday night by the veteran chairman of the Appleton City Council's finance committee.

"The unprecedented tax hike we are faced with in 1968 should not have come as a total surprise to most of you," Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) told his colleagues.

The finance committee, which also serves as the budget review board, recommended a $17 million budget after cutting or deferring close to $1 million from original requests of departments, boards and agencies.

Blunt Message

Tews told the council bluntly it had better call a halt to some major spending plans and "come up with programs based on the ability of the people to pay."

"The budget examining committee, in my opinion, has done an excellent job in screening the 1968 requests and, except for a few minor gray areas, there remains very little room for making any further major deletions without serious jeopardizing operations and services," Tews declared.

Tews said he applied his statement not only to general city purposes but to the public schools as well.

And in a critical vain, Tews said it appeared the tax rate seemed to take priority in the minds of some people for a period of two to three weeks, or only at budget time.

"Actually, it should be a prime consideration of everyone 12 months of the year," Tews asserted.

Debt Grows Fast

"Those on this council who have tried to follow conservative lines over the years have met with very little or no success and the net result is that our expenditures and bonded debt have grown faster than our capability to handle it," Tews said.

"Remember when we say, 'charge it,' then interest rates alone become a major cost item in future budgets," Tews warned.

Principal and interest payments for general city debt next year amounts to $940,158, and the money required to meet the public schools' in-

Controversy Develops

Board to Visit Mosquito Hill

Funds for acquisition of Mosquito Hill for a county park remained out of the 1968 budget and up in the air as Outagamie County Board members decided Wednesday they wanted to personally look at a piece of property on top of the hill upon which controversy has settled.

Supervisors will meet at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, at their own expense, to inspect 39 acres of land and a house owned by Raymond Kamps who, through his attorney, told the county board he would not sell his property under any circumstances at any price.

A decision on whether to proceed with the project will be made in December upon passage, by a 32-10 vote, of a motion of Supv. Clarence Miller, Appleton, to lay the question over for a month.

Dispute on House

Part of the dispute centers around the circumstances under which Kamps built the house, which his attorney said was worth $75,000, and his plans for the land he owns.

Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Northeastern Regional Planning Commission, appearing before the board in support of the purchase, said Kamps built the house with the knowledge that the land was being considered for a park, and was now subdividing the property.

Kamps' attorney denied Bubolz's statements, saying he was telling "half-truths" and was "slandering his client." He said the land on the hill was not being platted but admitted some lots had been sold along the road at the bottom of the hill.

Sought Options

The county board had appropriated $6,000 last summer for its parks and recreation committee to seek options on the Mosquito Hill property, part of which is low lands along the Wolf River. The highest point in the area is owned by Kamps.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, chairman of the committee, said it has secured options on three parcels totaling 108 acres and that six parcels remain, including Kamps.

He said the committee hoped to work out an arrangement in which Kamps could keep his house and some of his land.

Another member of the committee, Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, said the project has been given top priority by the state Outdoor Recreation Advisory Council with a promise of matching funds of up to $25,000 under the Land and Water

Recommend Lower Speed On Newberry

Fearing for the safety of pedestrians where there are no sidewalks, the council's public safety committee recommended Tuesday that a 25 mile per hour speed limit be placed on E. Newberry Street in the 13th Ward.

Walter Rasmussen, city planner-traffic engineer, and Police Chief Earl O. Wolff said lowering the speed limit by 10 miles would help.

Supporting their recommendation was Ald. Glen Thompson (13th).

Rasmussen and Wolff said anyone walking along the street at night was a target, and at 25 m.p.h. motorists would have a better chance of avoiding an accident.

There are no sidewalks because a major portion of the area is not developed.

The committee also:

Post Office to Close Saturday, Veterans Day

The Appleton Post Office lobby will be open Saturday, just as it is on Sundays, and box holders may pick up their mail. The service windows will be closed and there will be no rural or city delivery. Special delivery mail will be delivered.

Contract postal stations in Appleton will be open their usual Saturday hours. Appleton Pharmacy and Ford Rexall Drugs on 2725 N. Meade will be open until 5 p.m., Valley Fair — Grant's until 6 p.m., Hoffman Drugs until 9 p.m. and Sindahl Paint and Hardware and Ideal Photo until noon. Last dispatch of mail will be at 6:20 p.m. at the main post office, according to Postmaster Francis Sumnicht.

4 COG Members Protest

$75,000 Voted for Area Sanitary Study

With four member communities voting no, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) approved a $75,000 appropriation Wednesday to cover one-third of the cost of a study of water, sewer and disposal needs in the area served by the council.

Strong opposition to the move came from Roland Kampo, Appleton, Kaukauna, Menasha, Neenah, Kimberly, Little Chute, and the Town of Neenah voted in favor of the study. The 9-4 vote now will require that all COG members pay their assessments, whether they voted in favor of the study or not.

Also voting for the study were the COG's at large citizen members, Ralph E. Risley and Harold Miller, a member of the Grand Chute plan commission.

"Economical and Feasible"

Kampo told council members he would not vote for the measure unless it included provisions saying the plan would not be carried out unless it were "economical and feasible," and unless each community agreed to render sanitary service to outlying communities i the plan so requires.

"What if a community says it won't service an outlying community unless it is annexed," Kampo said. "Or what if another community says 'we're servicing enough areas now, and we don't want anymore. I want to know the answers to these questions before I vote.

"If we go ahead with the survey, we should have an understanding that we will service the outlying communities if the plan calls for it," Kampo said.

Kampo asked Mayor Carl Loehning of Neenah and Mayor Gilbert Anderson of Kaukauna if they would service Darboy and the Town of Neenah, respectively, if the plan showed that they should.

"I doubt it," Anderson said.

Loehning said, "No, I don't think so."

Kampo said he would go to the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Chicago or to Washington, if necessary, to stop money for the study from being granted if it chairman of the Town of Menasha, and Thomas Thorson, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute. Others voting no on the proposal were the village of Combined Locks and the Town of Buchanan. The Town of Harrison was not represented at the meeting.

'Seek Same Things'

Says Negro Mayors Will Curb Violence

Elections Tuesday which saw Negro mayors elected in Cleveland and Gary, Indiana, will have a beneficial effect on the civil rights movement in the months ahead, according to Alex Haley, noted Negro journalist, during a press conference before he spoke at a Lawrence University convocation this morning.

"The presence of a Negro mayor in the city will discourage further violence," Haley told newsmen at a press conference.

But Haley cautioned against the notion that violence in Cleveland, for instance, will end all of a sudden.

Like Labor Movement

"The civil rights movement is very much like the labor movement in America," Haley said, "and we still have sporadic outbreaks of violence in the labor movement today."

Haley said the Negro has only achieved gains in the field of civil rights in the past 25 years, and that they have done this only through what he called "rocking the boat."

"It is an historical tradition that advancements in America have almost always been achieved by rocking the boat," Haley said. "Violence is a part of the American way of life."

Seek Same Things

Haley said that Negroes are seeking the same thing that whites in a similar position would also seek — recognition as human beings.

Haley told newsmen that the violence in cities last summer was "without a question" caused by a few troublemakers.

"But there is a general mass movement of emotion among all Negroes," he said, "and the fuse ignited by the few can spread throughout the whole community.

He also noted that press activities near scenes of isolated violence have the effect of stirring up further violence.

Commenting on Father Groppi, who has been leading civil rights marchers in Milwaukee in an attempt to gain an open housing ordinance, Haley said, "I think he is one of the finest manifestations of Christianity in this country today, in the true sense of what Christianity really means."

Little Chute Man Files Bankruptcy Petition

John K. Belland, 1301 E. Main St., Little Chute, this week filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in U. S. District Court.

Appleton Okays Bridge Study Fund

Engineering Survey Will Pinpoint Location of Oneida Street Span

A $35,000 appropriation will be included in the 1968 Appleton budget for an engineering study to pinpoint the exact location of a future high-level bridge over the Fox River near Oneida Street.

The city council took the action Wednesday night, overriding the recommendation of the finance committee to postpone the study several years.

It was emphasized that the bridge will not be constructed until sometime after 1970, according to the city's long-range capital improvement program. The span is called for in the comprehensive plan and in recommendations of local and regional planners.

Acquire Right-of-Way

Since the bridge project came into view, the city has been acquiring properties for right-of-way purposes.

Proponents of the study being made in 1968 said the bridge location recommendations tied in with future downtown street plans to improve the traffic flow to and from the city's southside.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), chairman of the street-sanitation committee, said that once the exact bridge route is determined the city could possibly sell some of its existing properties and put them back on the tax roll.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) felt the city should learn as soon as possible where the bridge will have to be located "rather than be faced with a crash program."

"We have plenty of lead time as far as building a bridge is concerned," Thompson said. "Now is the time to plan where we are going in 1972 or so when the bridge will be constructed."

Further support from the study came from Ald. John

Embezzler Gets 1-Year Probation

Lloyd A. DeNoble, 502 W. Parkway Blvd., Appleton, was placed on a year's probation recently by Federal Judge John W. Reynolds on a conviction of embezzling $1,566 in union funds.

He had pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzling the funds in 1962 and 1963 at Neenah while he was treasurer of the Industrial Construction and Machinery Erection Workers of America.

Lorge Victory Short-Lived

Senate Caucus Predicts Tabling of Rogers Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Sen. Gerald Lorge's victory in winning the release of the Rogers Bill from the State Senate Education Committee Wednesday will be shortlived, according to Senate leaders.

When the bill comes up for debate next week, it will be tabled, the Senate Republican caucus agreed.

The Bear Creek Republican lacks the votes needed to win the battle, and tabling the measure is the most that he can hope for in protecting the cause being backed by Outagamie County in attempting to get the University of Wisconsin campus moved to the western edge of Green Bay, according to caucus members.

Denies Changes

Meanwhile, Lorge has denied suggestions of Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, that Lorge will attempt to amend the measure to make it more acceptable to backers of the Green Bay view in the regional squabble that has grown to state-wide proportions.

LaFave, in debate Tuesday and in statements off the floor later, said Lorge would attempt to amend the bill to allow for the reimbursement of Brown County for all costs associated with the development of the new campus.

The bill before the Senate, introduced by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, provides for the repayment to the county for all land purchase costs plus 5 per cent interest through the sale of the Shorewood site at public auction, and from state treasury funds.

Proposal Made

Lorge said such a proposal had been made by the Senate Republican leadership, but that he had turned it down. He did not elaborate.

A favorable head count for Lorge on the measure aimed at moving the planned campus — for which the ground has already been broken on the Shorewood site — to the Larsen Farm site on the opposite edge of town, shows that Lorge could rally perhaps a dozen votes for his cause.

There are 33 votes in the Senate, and a majority will be needed to pass the bill which was forwarded from the Assembly in July.

One source indicated a tentative head count taken in caucus last week showed that Lorge may be left standing nearly alone on the final ballot. Others suggest he will tally about five votes in his favor.

The compromise solution reached within the caucus is reportedly to move to table the measure rather than force Lorge into a corner by defeating it.

Lorge knows that he will not win the fight, they suggest, and they do not want to hurt one of their fellow caucus members.

To Table Measure

Tabling the measure — a legislative means of sending a measure into harmless limbo — serves one additional measure, it is pointed out.

Outagamie County's lawsuit is still pending, stalled by a state appeal of a procedural decision, to the Wisconsin Supreme Court. Many geographically uncommitted lawmakers do not want to be placed in the position of prejudicing a lawsuit while it is still pending by taking action either for or against such a measure.

Tabling the Rogers Bill provides an effective means of killing it without raising the spectre of prejudice, they suggest.

A Victorian House at the end of Meade Street, known on the Lawrence University campus as Alsted House, is being razed. The house was acquired by the university about five years ago and was used as a women's dormitory until the completion of Ruth DeYoung Kohler Hall this fall. Engineers' opinions that that the house was sliding down a hill behind it prompted its razing.

Major Expressway Plan Change Urged

Tri-County Interchanges Should Be Redesigned, Planner Advises

MENASHA — Victor Gruen Associates, in a formal report enlarging on previous suggestions, has proposed major changes in Tri-County Expressway designs at interchanges linked to the proposed Ninth Street Bridge.

Jerry Pollak, spokesman for the city's master planning consultants, had previously outlined proposals for redesigning the interchange system at Tayco and Racine streets.

This morning, Mayor Kenneth Holmes had received several printed copies of the Gruen studies which enlarge on the recommendations already made

The report adds suggestions for altering interchange and ramp designs at the west end of the bridge, where the expressway would meet U.S. 41.

Minor changes also are recommended in interchanges in the Midway Road - Valley Road area, where traffic using the proposed Prospect Avenue bridge across the northern end of the Little Lake would meet the Menasha section of the expressway

The Gruen proposals show the Ninth Street bridge in the same position recommended by the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and approved by state and county officials — about 1,000 feet north of Ninth Street and the city limits.

The mayor has suggested that, since the Gruen design would require less land than the COG proposal, the bridge and expressway system might be moved south to meet Ninth Street. Earlier this week, however, Holmes added that since he is no engineer he believes the Gruen planner should comment on the feasibility of such a shift.

The COG design calls for a system of cloverleaf ramps allowing traffic to enter the expressway from both Tayco and Racine Streets north of the city. The Gruen designs eliminate the cloverleaf ramps and propose overpasses to do away with the Tayco Street interchanges. All on-off traffic would be at Racine Street Road.

The report points out that in their master plan for Menasha's future development, Gruen traffic experts have envisioned Tayco Street as a "residential collector street," rather than the main artery it would become if access were allowed immediate access to the expressway.

Racine Street, on the other hand, is designated as a major arterial street.

"Therefore," says the report, "it is desirable to attract all long-distance trips to Racine Street and have Tayco Street carry only the traffic to or from the residential developments which border the street."

Furthermore, the report says, the Gruen proposal has the added advantages of using less land, requiring only two bridges and calling for a smaller bridge structure over Tayco Street since it would be only a residential street instead of a major thoroughfare.

In redesigning the U.S. 41 interchange system, the report says, attempts were made to create a continuous east-west route across the Little Lake by linking with Jacobsen Road in the Town of Menasha, shown as a primary arterial on COG maps; to provide at least as adequate a connection with existing roadways and nearby land as is provided by the present system; and to conserve as much as possible the investment already made in the highway system, adding to it rather than abandoning portions.

Town Growth Cited; Urge Sanitary Unit

New Sewer, Water District Could be Made West of Lake

MENASHA — Promising that a sewer and water system on the west side of Little Lake Butte des Morts would bring rapid industrial growth, the Town of Menasha board strongly urged property owners Wednesday night to create a new sanitary district.

"I'll guarantee you this," Town Chairman Roland Kampo told the crowd of approximately 70 persons at the Spring Road School public hearing. "You'll never see such growth."

Under the board's proposal, the new sanitary system would be attached to the existing Town Sanitary District 4 on the east side of the lake.

One Commission

The board examined pumping sewage across the lake, but found that it was only $90,000 cheaper than building a new plant on the west side. So it recommended a new plant for the west side, but urged strongly that both sides of the lake be consolidated under one sanitary commission.

"I'm a great believer in keeping the town intact," Kampo said

The advantages cited for a single district, instead of forming a separate district on the west side, were the ability to use the bonding power of nearly the whole town and the reduction of operating red tape and costs.

Exclude K-C

The boundaries of the proposed addition to District 4 run from the county line on the north, along Lake Butte des Morts on the east, to the Town of Neenah on the south, skipping the Kimberly-Clark Corp. main offices and Lakeview Mill, and to a line short of the Town of Clayton on the west.

Total cost of the initial project, including mains and a sewage plant with a 5,000 population capacity, was listed by Art Scholl of McMahon Associates, Inc. at $1,252,000. This includes $717,000 for the sewer system and $535,000 for water.

Appleton Youth Guilty Of Bad Conduct After Rooming House Fight

Michael Hurlbert, 18, 1303 W Spencer St., this morning was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail after he was found guilty of disorderly conduct.

The finding was made by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller following a trial without a jury. Hurlbert did not have an attorney

He was arrested along with Donald V Junker, 20, 739 W. Marquette St., following a fight early last Sunday morning at the house where Hurlbert rooms. Junker earlier pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail

Police said five windows were broken in the home owned by Warren Lutz. There also was blood splattered on walls and bedding, police said. Junker suffered a cut hand and was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Doty Street Rezoning Okayed in Kaukauna

Area Reclassified From Class B Residential To Central Business by City Council Action

KAUKAUNA — Aldermen Tuesday night adopted an ordinance calling for the rezoning of lots on Doty Street between Lawe Street and Desnoyer Street from Class B residential to a central business district.

The recommendation for rezoning had been proposed earlier this year, but turned down after property owners objected. Recent developments by the planning commission and regional planners showed the rezoning would be a logical extension of the business district, and no objections were voiced at a public hearing in August.

The rezoning recommendation was made by the common council last month.

Increases in Pay

In other action salary increases for various city officials to take effect Jan. 1, were recommended to the finance committee by the council for inclusion in the 1968 budget.

A $350 increase was recommended for the building inspector; Superintendent of the sewage plant and street commissioner, a $300 adjustment and $500 increase; and director of public works, a $500 increase. A salary of $7,400 per year was recommended for the assistant street commissioner.

The chief of police was authorized to purchase food for stray animals, kept by a local resident until claimed by owners or turned over to the county humane society. He also was authorized to hire a man to work from Nov. 18-26 when three members of his department will be on vacation.

No action was taken on a request from the Chamber of Commerce to have present Friday parking restrictions to Thursday to coincide with recent merchant action which changed store hour openings from Friday to Thursday nights.

Twin Cities Told to Get New Industry

MENASHA — The newly appointed director of Economic Development for Wisconsin told Neenah and Menasha Rotarians Wednesday that the Twin Cities could use three of four new industries as a diversification from paper production.

Palmer McConnell, a former Marathon Corp. and American Can Co. executive and native of Neenah, told old friends after the Rotary meeting that he felt not enought effort was being made here to attract new industry.

McConnell, who was appointed about two months ago by Gov. Warren Knowles, said he realized Neenah-Menasha had benefited tremendously by the expansion of local industry and that there was a high demand for male employes here.

But, he said, the new industries could be the kind that attract a large number of female employes. He said other Wisconsin communities had been successful in attracting new kinds of industries to diversify their economies and saw no reason why the Twin Cities couldn't do the same.

The new companies could be about 50 to 70 employes in size, mostly female, and would solve the employe shortage by attracting new people to the community, he said. "It's a chicken and egg situation."

Einstein Open House

An open house for all parents has been scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at Einstein Junior High School. Parents will follow the schedules of the students and then meet for informal discussion in the cafeteria.

Leaders Promote Scout Movement At Sherwood

SHERWOOD — Efforts to encourage boys 11-14 years old to join the local Boy Scout troop are being made by leaders and Valley Council officials.

Gary Johnson, east district representative of the council, will speak and show movies at a Court of Honor here at 7 p.m. Monday at Harrison School. Parents and interested persons are invited to attend the program. Awards will be distributed.

Scouting has been active here for 11 years. The community has ample adult leadership and committee members willing to devote their efforts to Scouting, but this year there is a decline in the number of area boys wishing to be Scouts.

Johnson also is planning a campaign through the village schools where he will stress the benefits of Boy Scouting and distribute material.

Open House at Kaukauna High

KAUKAUNA — In observance of American Education Week, an open house will be held at Kaukauna High School beginning at 7 p.m. today in the auditorium.

A panel, consisting of Jerome Kroll, assistant principal, moderator; Julian Bichler, superintendent of schools; Victor Haen, president of the board of education; Walter Schmidt, principal of the high school, and Dominic Bordini, vocational school director, will discuss "How Good Are Your Schools?"

Visits with teachers in classrooms will begin about 7:45 p.m. and a coffee hour and social will be held from 9 to 10 p.m. Grade school open house is being held throughout the week during normal school hours.

Tipsy Driving Charges Reduced, Two Pay Fines

Two motorists who appeared for trials in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Wednesday had their charges reduced from driving while under the influence of intoxicants to reckless driving.

They were John P. Kobal, 26, 1121 W. Spencer St., arrested by Appleton police following an accident at W. Prospect Avenue and Seminole Drive the afternoon of July 10, and Timothy G. Strutz, 22, route 1, Kaukauna, arrested by Outagamie County Police on State 55 near Freedom the evening of Oct. 13.

Kobal's attorney moved for dismissal of the charge but the court found the Appleton man guilty of reckless driving and fined him $150 and costs or 90 days in jail.

Strutz was fined $175 and costs or 100 days in jail after Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath moved to reduce the charge to reckless driving. Strutz pleaded guilty to the amended charge.

The victim's body was found about 125 feet from the demolished automobile.

Klimek's body was found by a Brown County officer. It was taken by ambulance to St. Vincent Hospital, where he was listed as dead on arrival.

Jail Term Ordered For Licenseless Appleton Driver

Cummings, who appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, was arrested about 1:20 p.m. Wednesday by state police on U. S. 41, near County Trunk V. In addition to the jail sentence, Judge Gustave J. Keller revoked Cumming's license for another year.

Minor Blazes and False Alarm Cause Four Runs By Fire Department

A defective furnace brought Appleton firemen to the William Mayer home, 1508 N. Morrison St., about 6:25 p.m. Wednesday.

Firemen said that a delayed furnace ignition caused a minor explosion which sent smoke from the furnace and chimney stacks.

Several fire fighting units were sent to the 300 block of E. Calumet Street following the sounding of a box alarm. Firemen said it was a false alarm.

Leaf fires brought firemen to the 600 block of E. Grant Street about 6:25 p.m. and to the area of Union and Winnebago at 7:10 p.m.

Open Space Request OK'd

Town of Menasha Had Applied to COG For Recreation Grant

APPLETON — The Fox Valley Council of Governments put its stamp of approval on a federal open space request by the Town of Menasha Wednesday.

The town had applied for the 50 per cent grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to set aside 17 acres in the town to be used for recreational purposes, including a man-made lake.

The special committee of the COG had okayed the request and the COG unanimously passed on its recommendation following a clarification requested by Menasha Mayor Kenneth Holmes.

Holmes pointed out the location of the proposed park wasn't listed in the resolution. "You can't expect us to vote on something when we don't know where it'll go," he said.

Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo then explained the area involved part of the Wittman farm on State 47 near Airport Road. He noted that a map of the location had been included with the request.

Supervisors to Visit Mosquito Hill Area

Conservation act (LAWCON) toward the purchase of the site.

Kamps' attorney told the board that his client's house had considerable glass wall area and was conducive only to an area with no people around. "The house and land positively are not for sale," he said. He added they also would not grant any easements across the property for anything.

Intends to Stay

"He intends to stay on the hill in the same environment as he is in now. He doesn't want to look at a public backyard," the attorney said

He said they were not obstructionists and were not against parks but were against anything that would be detrimental to Kamps.

The attorney indicated the only way the county would get the land was through condemnation. "I don't know what your hurry is," he said to the board, "the land is not going anywhere."

Delaying Action

DeBruin and Allen Bubolz said they did not intend to condemn anyone's land and their request for $75,000 from the board would only provide the money, not the authority for the Parks Committee to purchase land. Bubolz said the board would still have to individually approve each parcel.

Gordon Bubolz said he would not make a plea for the purchase of the site if he did not believe the land would be lost to the county by delaying action. He emphasized that Outagamie County was an urban county with 87 per cent of its residents living in urban areas.

"Except for Robert Plamann (who donated Plamann Park) we have not had any foresight in our park program," Bubolz said.

He added the recommendation to preserve the Mosquito Hill area was first made three years ago and that Kamps admitted knowing of the proposals when he built the house.

Bubolz contended the county was obligated to provide recreational facilities for its residents when "citizens are not only willing to demand the services but also to share their resources," referring to a citizen group guarantee of a minimum of $25,000 toward park development in the county.

Resolution Presented

He presented a resolution to the board from the Outagamie County Citizens Park and Recreation Conference, with 26 signers, urging the appropriation of $75,000 for the Mosquito Hill project.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, questioned the value of the resolution, saying anyone could get that number of signatures for anything. Bubolz replied it was not his object to get a long list of names. "If I wanted to," he said, "I could have a list of a thousand names."

Babbitt, who is a member of the Finance Committee, said the committee was no "park haters" in taking the funds from the budget. He said this was done because there were too many "ifs" involved. He suggested that when the "ifs" are resolved, funds for the project could be taken from the contingency fund.

Appleton Plans Bridge Study

Ayers (12th), council president, who said he sat in on interviews of various bridge consultants who all recommended expediting the study.

"We have plenty of time to build but any delay in the study may cause the city to suffer in the long run," Ayers said.

Strong opposition to any type of study or expenditure on a bridge was voiced by Ald. Al Stoegbauer (4th), who said he read that the state gave the proposed bridge a third priority for aid and listed it for construction in 1980.

Stoegbauer was referring to an inter-departmental report on long-range bridge plans to be filed with a committee of the state legislature, which will then rework it.

Memorial Service Set For Deceased Legion, Holy Name Members

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of the Holy Name Society of St. John Catholic Church and the American Legion will conduct a memorial service for deceased members following a high mass at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Men are to assemble in the grade school assembly hall at 7:15 p.m. and will enter church as a group. Following the mass, breakfast will be served in the school gym and a memorial service conducted by the Legion and Holy Name men.

Christmas Seals, which have become a traditional part of the holiday season, were mailed Wednesday by the Outagamie County Anti Tuberculosis Association to about 31,000 county residents. Francis Sumnicht, Appleton postmaster, is one of the first in the city to receive the seals from Mrs. Donald Sturtevant, center, county campaign chairman, and Mrs. Leonard Weis, a board member.

Hope to Exceed '66 Funds

Yule Seals Mailed Wednesday By Anti-Tuberculosis Association

More than 31,000 sheets of Christmas seals were mailed Wednesday by the Outagamie County Anti-Tuberculosis Association, along with the hope that it will bring in more than the $12,500 gathered in 1966.

Many hands from a variety of organizations have assisted the members of the board prepare the mailings.

Volunteers Help

The Appleton Golden Agers put on labels while the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary and Elks Ladies 337 Club helped stuff thousands of envelopes.

Much of the work in Seymour was accomplished by the Methodist Youth Fellowship while the Jaycettes helped in Little Chute. The Girl Scouts gave their free time to assist in Hortonville and volunteers offered their time in Kaukauna, Black Creek, Combined Locks, Kimberly, Shiocton and Bear Creek.

Mrs. Donald Sturtevant, Appleton, is this year's county campaign chairman.

Gayly Colored

An old fashioned train decorates this year's seal. Ten cars bedecked with filigree and filled with such familiar Christmas symbols as wreaths, candy canes, Christmas trees, reindeer, elves, presents and even Santa Claus in his sleigh riding on a flatcar are included.

Reds, greens, blues and yellows color the 10 units, which begins with an ornamental engine and ends with a caboose.

Christmas seals support the work of about 1,700 TB and respiratory disease associations across the county in fighting emphysema and air pollution as well as tuberculosis.

Tews Gives Blunt Talk On Economy

debtedness is an additional $1,465,505.

"I think it is high time for the city council to call a halt to some of the grandiose plans we have lying around city hall and spend at least one year in putting together a program with which our people can live," Tews advised.

Tews said he was not advocating a complete halt in progress but felt planning should be consistent with the city's ability to pay the bills.

"This suggestion may be unpopular to some," Tews added, "but welcome, in my opinion, by the large majority of the property owners required to pay taxes."

The council as a whole suggested only a few changes to the budget recommended by the finance committee.

Council Sees $9.40 Tax Hike

concensus was that new lights must be installed at Goodland Field, so the $79,000 allocated in the park-recreation budget for that purpose remained.

However, city officials are going to work out a short-term borrowing program to finance the project over three years rather than bond for 15 or 20 and pay considerable interest.

It was called to the council's attention that Appleton stood the chance of losing professional baseball unless the lighting was improved. Some poles also reportedly are rotting and present a safety hazard, the council was told.

Other additions to the budget included $16,000 for storm sewer, $12,400 for sanitary sewer and $5,400 for grading and graveling of roads — all tied to the development of the Mielke property for the new McKinley grade school.

Reinstated in various departmental accounts was $3,750 for travel expenses, reflecting the council's policy of sending department heads to state and national conferences, seminars and conventions next year.

The Vocational Technical and Adult Education District 12 board levy of $376,479 against the city was left in the budget until next week. It is up $349,000.

Although it took about 10 minutes to meet in closed executive session to discuss salary increases for some elected officials and department heads, the council laid the matter over until next week.

$75,000 Voted for Area Sanitary Study

appeared the plan would be ignored after it was completed.

After January, HUD will require that all urban areas be included in a regional survey before it will approve grants for municipal sewer and water projects. This has been one of the main incentives to adopt the COG survey.

Kampo said he feared that if the government pays two-thirds of the cost of the study now, it will require the plan be followed when completed or else not approve grants to individual communities.

Franchett said the survey will come up with several alternatives and that the council members themselves will decide which plan they want to follow.

"They (HUD) establish the depth and criteria of the study," Franchett said, "but they won't require you to adopt a particular system that you do not approve."

Kampo said after the meeting he will send a letter to HUD saying at least two communities have indicated they won't render sanitary service to outlying communities if the final plan calls for it.

Total Assessments

The total assessment for the four communities voting "no" to the survey is $14,025. Of this total, the Town of Menasha accounts for $6,900. The Town of Buchanan will pay $825, the Village of Combined Locks will pay $1,500, and the Town of Grand Chute will contribute.

Assessments for other communities are Appleton, $26,700; Kaukauna, $5,925; Menasha, $8,025; Neenah, $12,300; Kimberly, $3,600; Little Chute, $1,575; Town of Harrison, $900; and Town of Neenah, $1,950.

Oshkosh has not been included in the study area and will not be assessed unless both the city and a majority of COG members approve.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, council members approved a recommendation that the policy committee look into a request by the Town of Greenville to become a COG member. The town has been known to favor joining for several months.

Council members also voted to delay action on raising the salaries of Assistant Director Arno Haering and Associate Planner Greg Kettelson a total of $500.

The recommendation by the finance committee that the salaries be raised was in part the result of higher salaries being paid throughout the state for regional planners. The increases, a $200 raise to $10,200 for Haering, and a $300 raise for Kettelson to $8,100, would make their salaries comparable to those elsewhere, it was pointed out.

Thorson asked action on the proposal be delayed until the next meeting so that members could examine the change.

"I think items like these should be presented to members in advance so we have time to consider them," he said.

Other Actions

In other business, the council: approved by — laws for the group, which included several minor changes from those used by the COG's predecessor, the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission.

—Heard a report on the COG's newsletter now being prepared by the public information and education committee. The letter had previously been prepared by staff members, but an increased work load has necessitated the committee prepare the publication named "Interaction."

—Gave final approval of the soil survey study completed earlier this year.

Are the Taxpayers Really Apathetic?

The convention of the Wisconsin Education Association, representing the vast majority of public school teachers in the state, exhibited considerably more restraint than the gathering of the Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) several weeks ago. But the WEA also posed a challenge to the state law barring strikes by public employes.

While stating that "drastic measures in negotiations should be unnecessary," the WEA by resolution went on to say that "extreme action may be inevitable in order to arouse an uninterested or an uninformed public." And it added: "If after consultation with the proper WEA authorities . . . regarding appropriate action, an affiliated association seeks reasonably to break its impasse by means of sanctions or a strike, the Wisconsin Education Association will offer all its services at its command to help resolve the impasse."

The WEA regards "an uninterested or an uninformed public" as its chief adversary in winning dramatically increased government appropriations. Its incoming president pinpointed political action to achieve such appropriations as the theme for the coming year, calling on local teacher associations to interview all candidates for political office to ascertain their views on educational spending, and urging individual teachers to assert themselves politically to influence favorable government action.

The Post-Crescent has not observed the degree of apathy on the part of the taxpaying public toward soaring educational costs which the WEA describes. In the last decade or so that public has willingly supported a major upgrading in teacher salaries which they agreed was just and due. Concurrently that same taxpaying public has financed a staggering expansion in public school elementary and secondary facilities to absorb skyrocketing enrollments.

At the state level it has supported, without ever having an opportunity to vote on the proposal, the new concept that every high school graduate in the state is entitled to a college education, embodying a doubling and even a tripling in the state's commitment to higher education. And now that same public is facing a major increase in local property taxation to finance a totally new program of vocational and technical education to be offered any high school graduate who desires it.

Until the very recent past there was hardly a ripple of objection noted as local school budgets soared on annual increments. The philosophy that "nothing is too good for our children" carried over from budget-making time through the tax-paying period. Meanwhile local property taxes were approaching the confiscatory level and bonding indebtedness limits were being threatened.

We do not consider the recent concern over these developments on the part of city councils, village and town boards as apathetic, or even attributable to "an uninterested or uninformed public."

We view the taxpayers' new concern as a move to re-examine how much education our education tax dollars are buying, an expression of a desire to wait a minute and consider how long we can stand these staggering annual increases in educational budgets.

In making their political demands upon the taxpayer for higher salary levels and expanded programs and facilities, the teacher organizations should also advance some proposals on how the public can expect to get more educational value from the present level of spending.

Thoughts for Education Week

Few persons will disagree with a statement made by President Johnson as he proclaimed this week American Education Week: "The future of America is written on school blackboards and in student notebooks. The quality of thought in our classrooms today will determine the quality of our lives a generation hence."

Education has received increasing emphasis since the Russians launched Sputnik I into orbit a decade ago, as Americans have realized that "Made in U.S.A." is not an automatic stamp of superiority. The recent space triumphs of the U.S.S.R. indicate that there still are gaps in our knowledge, gaps which will require more than a decade to bridge.

Attempts to catch up in scientific knowledge are commendable, for knowledge is valuable. But educators should pause to consider their basic educational philosophy during this week. If the desire to gain scientific knowledge predominates so entirely that the arts and humanities are shoved into the background, then something is wrong.

The ability to operate a computer or plot a satellite's orbit is fine, but appreciation of a Beethoven symphony or discovering how to think deeply and philosophically also are valuable. The balance which is necessary between the various areas is something which is hard to attain. Without the arts and humanities, our society could become totally scientific, filling only the material and not the spiritual needs of life. Total concentration on the cultural areas, on the other hand, could result in a breakdown of progress which has given us such good lives. The compromise which is necessary should be remembered during this week.

Poor Taste on Mrs. Kennedy's Part

Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia, out of deference to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, prohibited newsmen from going along on the visit and picnic of the Kennedy party at the famous ruins of Angkor Wat.

But the Prince did not use such restraint about Mrs. Kennedy's country in his speech welcoming her to Cambodia. President Kennedy had lit a light, said the Prince, and it had been sadly missing in the United States since President Kennedy's death.

Whatever are the opinions of other Americans about lacks in Washington, doubts about the morality of the war in Vietnam or the leadership of President Johnson at a time of a whole passel of crises, should the widow of a former President of the United States lend herself to the display of such criticism? President Johnson, after all, was her husband's choice as his running mate and therefore chosen his successor.

Prince Sihanouk broke diplomatic relations with the United States more than two years ago because of what he claimed were American raids on Cambodian territory in the United States effort to attack the North Vietnamese. And while we may well agree with the Prince over his efforts to remain neutral in the current conflict, it is hard to condone what almost amounts to a state visit of some deposed monarch to Cambodia.

It was in poor taste. Alluring as the ruins of Angkor Wat may be, there are other places in the world for Mrs. Kennedy to visit at this time.

Famous Bell Ringers Coming

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent For Nov. 9, 1867.

We copy the following beautiful extract from the Christian Advocate, complimentary to the world-renowned Alleghanians. Vocalists and Swiss Bell Ringers, who will appear here at the College Chapel on Wednesday evening next, Nov. 13th. It says:

"They are all talented and gifted performers, and a high and blessed mission is theirs, going from city to city, and from village to village speaking to the great heart of humanity — now in the stirring notes of high and notable song, and again in the sweet and soothing strains of beauty.

"They are ministers of good, reaping in fields which the same truth, dressed in sterner garb, would leave sheaveless."

This also comes from the Methodist:

"If you would hear the music of the heart, music that will take you back to other days, and maybe happier and better days, go and hear the Alleghanians."

25 YEARS AGO

Cracking under allied land and air assaults for 12 days and nights, the once-proud Nazi forces under Field Marshall Irwin Rommel took to their heels in full retreat across the Egyptian desert. The sudden collapse of the axis defenses was announced in a British communique.

At Seymour, the school's 1942 carnival king and queen were chosen on the basis of the amount of scrap metal collected in an all-school drive for the war effort. Lois Burmeister turned in 4,575 pounds and Melvin Dietrich 1,055 pounds to become the royal couple. The total scrap collection weighed in at 32,263 pounds.

Rosalyn Vandenberg was crowned Kimberly High School homecoming queen at the all-school pep session. Georgean Gosias, the previous year's queen placed the crown on Miss Vandenberg's head.

Envoy Anderson Is Ideal Choice For Critical Talks in Mideast

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Able Robert B. Anderson, President Johnson's envoy for private talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, is the ideal man for the crisis task regardless of the ultimate outcome — wise, imaginative and courageous.

Highly-trusted confidant Anderson spent the night with the President at the White House before his departure. Our stake in the Middle East is enormous. Every argument Mr. Johnson has made for our Vietnam intervention he would have to make tenfold if the Soviet precipitated another conflict presented as "Arab liberation from Israel's threats."

In Israel, in turn, Premier Levi Eshkol, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and the other leaders believe, with dismay, that Israel's world position has deteriorated since her quick victory in what Nasser himself calls "the black six June days."

OFFICERS ABANDONED TROOPS

They retain some respect for the Jordan army, somewhat less for the Syrian and no respect whatever for the Egyptain military structure. By daylight, after what Maj. Gen. Dayan speaks of as "the first long night." Egyptian officers as a whole on fronts like the Sinai commandeered any available jeeps, trucks and even ambulances and deserted the troops, fleeing for their own safety to — and across — the Suez Canal. The Israelis feel the Egyptian soldier is not likely to forget this. (In contrast, 20 per cent of Israel's total casualties were officers at the head of the troops.) But Russia's postwar acceleration of Nasser support in the face of all this is read as a glaring evidence of the importance the Kremlin attaches to the region for Soviet purposes.

Mediterranean means "middle of the world," and the true crossroad of the world is the Middle East. It is a land-bridge to three continents: Asia, Africa and Europe. Through there pass the sea and air routes between Europe and India, East Africa, the oil-rich Arabian peninsula, Southeast Asia, the Far East, New Zealand and Australia.

Israel was understandably unwilling, as we are regarding our Vietnam policy, to surrender her post-victory policy to the loaded votes in the United Nations. Going a step further, and as one of the things that precipitated Presidential confidant Anderson's trip, Premier Eshkol warned the U.N. on October 30 "to refrain from any step that will make it difficult for Israel to negotiate with her neighbors." In short, hands off — and for sure!

Replying in that forum, and even more effectively behind the scenes, however, the Soviet, its satellites and the Afro-Asian bloc have created a powerful commotion that Tel Aviv finds deeply alarming.

Taylor

This Kremlin-sponsored attack hammers away on the thesis that in the Suez crisis when the British and French lost out, their seizure of the canal never came to pass and that only the Israelis achieved their objectives. Israel, it emphasizes, increased her territory in the Palestine war by 3,000 square miles more than the U.N. resolution of November 29, 1946, gave her.

WANT TO OUTFLANK NATO

Soviet strategy has been to advance along the land-bridge in a military-political outflanking of NATO and all of Western Europe. Egypt fits in as the Soviet's Mediterranean lodgment, the counterpart of its Caribbean lodgment. Nasser was, and is, the Soviet's Castro in the Middle East, along with fanatical Algerian President Houari Boumedienne who overthrew Red rival Ahmed Ben Bella in a military coup June 19, 1965.

Tel Aviv realized insiders know many Catholic and other religious elements throughout the world, in turn, are alienated by Israel's adamant refusal to negotiate regarding an Israel-held Jerusalem. Israel is likewise determined to keep Syria's Golan Heights, which are now an Israel defense line instead of a Syrian attack line, and other strategic areas.

But Eshkol and Mr. Anderson alike know Israel now badly needs diplomacy and that diplomacy is the ultimate exercise in flexibility.

The unrevealed prospect is that Israel's policy will be to ultimately negotiate about the Gaza Strip, much of the territory (outside Jerusalem) taken from Jordan and even parts of the Sinai which Tel Aviv now insists are not negotiable. But the main thrust of Israel postwar policy, hardly understood in the outside world, is an over-all objective that requires great power.

Israel proposes to achieve the balance of power in the vital region. Tel Aviv intends to enforce, if possible, a stabilizing center of gravity that will fill the geopolitical vacuum in the Middle East.

U Teaching Assistants Protested Police Tactics

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The blanket indictment of "more than 150 junior faculty members" of the UW in your editorial "The UW Inquiry" demands an explanation.

You accuse these individuals of having "abandoned their classes in a strike of sympathy on the day of the violent demonstration against the Dow Chemical Company interviewing delegation." It is true that the teaching assistant strike was an act of sympathy . . . not, however, with the "rebellious minority" responsible for the "provocative and illegal disturbances," but with the unfortunate minority of onlookers who were the victims of indiscriminate and unharnessed violence . . . not at the hands of demonstrators, but plainly and simply at the hands of those Madison policemen called to the scene by the administration.

You might also have informed your readers that the goal of the strike was not to furnish moral support to demonstration organizers, but to pressure the administration to concede that the demonstration was put down with unwarranted and unjustified violence.

Wisconsin Report

Local Debt Rising Much Faster Than Is Our Tax Base

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — For reasons not immediately discernible, the inexorable upward trend of local government long-term debt in the state has been virtually ignored in the perturbed discussions among local officials, legislators and others about the problems of public financing in local government.

Wyngaard

The annual review by the State Division of Municipal Audit published recently told a graphic, and perhaps disturbing story, but it was virtually ignored. The total of long term debt of the big family of local governments — counties, cities, villages, towns and school districts — for which future taxpayers will pay levies for principal as well as rising interest charges — is rising in great leaps each year. That could be expected in an era of cheapening of the dollar and rising costs of construction for the capital programs mostly represented in such borrowing, as in the school systems.

More pertinent is the fact that the rate of increase is exceeding each year the normal growth of the tax base to which that debt is fixed, in spite of the fact that the inflationary tendencies of the times have also substantially fattened the tax foundations.

HISTORY OF THE TIMES

Thus the story is identical with that of the tax history of the times. The people of Wisconsin as represented in their local governments are spending in taxes and in credit at a rate greater than the taxable wealth of the state is being enlarged.

The situation is of course not exceptional. The state is in the same bind, so to speak. The population is being polarized with respect to dependency upon public services and the tax requirements flowing from them. There are proportionately more elderly persons in the population than ever before. There are far more young people than ever before. As the statisticians are fond of repeating, the time is not long distant when a majority of the inhabitants of this country will be under the age of 25 years. Wisconsin is approximately typical of the country in such measurements.

Yet the details are worth an examination, in this state which used to boast, when making comparisons with other parts of the country, about its favorable debt status in relation to future tax liability.

EXCEEDS $1 BILLION

The 1966 total of long-term debt of Wisconsin governmental subdivisions is reported at nearly a billion and a quarter dollars. The annual increase lately has been at the rate of about $100 million. As anybody with the slightest familiarity with public affairs can guess, more than half of the total is in school debt. About half is in the various forms of city bond issues, which again show that the schools are the principal contributors to the borrowing trends.

But the bare totals mean little. What is meaningful is the relation of the debt to the taxable value of the state and the trend in that relationship. Last year there was a long-range local bonded debt of $48.16 per $1,000 of true or equalized value of the real and personal property upon which it is based.

As in the literal totals, the per capita figures have been rising in significant spurts. Ten years ago the per capita local debt was $26.42. Twenty years ago it was only about one-fifth of what it is today, or $9.70.

PROBLEM IS WIDESPREAD

The comparisons are not at hand, but it is a fair assumption that similar trends are shown elsewhere. Indeed, the debt problem in some states is more severe, on a per capita or valuation basis including some of the states that have chosen to borrow instead of to tax. They thus have sometimes claimed to have a superior tax climate when they are competing with Wisconsin for economic enterprise.

Yet these are elements of the Wisconsin tax structure also, comparatively high as it is without considering future debt retirement obligations. The level of taxation in the state as a whole will be determined in part for the future by these long-term obligations and those that are likely to follow. Remembering that the state government is also increasingly relying upon its credit to finance its own budget, Wisconsin has quietly but irrevocably adjusted its fiscal philosophy and policy.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Evil done in the name of evil can always be overcome; but evil done in the name of good — a "holy war," for instance — overcomes all rational resistance.

By far the greatest portion of mischief in the world is made by people who do not enjoy the work they are doing.

Both the Puritan and the libertine make the same mistake — they erroneously believe that sex is a matter of doing, rather than of being.

The height of language consists of compressing the most thought into the fewest words; like the marvelous Greek epitaph upon the army that perished in the disastrous Sicilian expedition: "Having done what men could, they suffered what men must." Ten words, encompassing a full range of moral philosophy.

The most unhappy people I know are those who desperately covet the good opinion of those whose opinion they don't respect.

"We only possess what we renounce," said Simone Weil; and nowhere is this truer than with our children.

Whatever revolution occurs, there will always be one group that profits from it, either in money, power, or status; and this new elite becomes the implacable enemy of revolution, and even of reform.

A man can be happy only if he has the respect of other men; but a woman can find a kind of happiness merely in being envied by other women — although the envy may be based on a delusion.

Some descriptions are self-cancelling by their very existence: when a person is introduced as Mr. So-and-So, "the famous composer," he is not truly a famous composer, or his name alone would suffice. Who would ever introduce him as "Pablo Picasso, the famous painter?"

Those odd personalities who seem to get a perverse pleasure out of suffering may look for suffering as the chief way of knowing they're alive.

A "good vacation" is one spent among people who have no preconceptions about the way you ought to behave.

Unlike most readers, I am put off by a book with a catchy title; it smacks too much of a cosmetic treatment to hide a defect of substance in the book itself.

Play the Ball-Bottle Game With Two or More Players

BY CAPPY DICK

The game of Ball and Bottle is one you can make yourself from things around the house and have a lot of fun playing it with your family and friends.

You will need 10 soft drink bottles and 10 paper cups shaped like that in Figure 1. Stand the bottles near a wall like tenpins. Print point values on the cups and rest them in the tops of the bottles as in Figure 2.

The value of the four cups in the last row is 20 points each. The three in the second row are worth 15 points each, the two in the next row are worth 10 points each and the single bottle at the front is worth five points.

To play the game you will need a small rubber ball or table tennis ball. Take turns with your opponents tossing the ball to bounce once in front of the bottles (Figure 3), land in a cup and remain there. If a player succeeds he wins the point value of the cup.

Each player gets 10 tosses. The one who has the highest total score is the winner of the game.

Building Commission Won't be Increased

Bill Resulted From Fight on Development Funds for Shorewood Site of UW-GB

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The bill to change the size of the State Building Commission because of the past year's fight over the development of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay died a quiet death in the Assembly Wednesday.

A motion to reconsider a vote by which it was once defeated in June was tabled on a voice vote, with little audible dissent heard.

The bill was the product of sparring between both houses of the Legislature and between forces contesting the development of the UW-GB on the Shorewood site northeast of Green Bay.

It grew out of the desires of Sen Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, to depose veteran Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, from the seat on the commission Dempsey has been opposing the planning and construction of the new branch campus. LaFave is a backer of the UW-GB plans.

Balance of Power

The shift in the balance of power on the commission would have broken the deadlock that existed on the commission last spring over freeing funds for the new school. Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, threw his weight behind Dempsey and blocked LaFave's try.

Out of the controversy grew the compromise measure which would have added one senator and one assemblyman to the commission, which is now made up of three members of each house, the governor, and one appointee of the chief executive.

But in June, in a sudden vote which left Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, a staunch supporter of the measure temporarily stunned, the Assembly turned down the bill on a 53-45 vote.

Wednesday the lower house tabled the matter, which is considered dead for the session.

Amherst Fire Victims' Rites Set Saturday

Brother Will Say Mass at St. James For Parents of 2

AMHERST — Funeral mass for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leroux, who died in an early Wednesday morning fire which destroyed their home near here, will be said by Mrs. Leroux's brother, the Rev. Douglas Dempster, Cambridge, Md.

Services are set for 11 a.m. Saturday from St. James Catholic Church here. Friends may call at the Jungers Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Friday.

Leroux, 42, and his wife, Mary 38, are survived by a son Mark, 19, and daughter, Jeanette, 16, both of whom escaped from the burning home, and a daughter, Alice, 20, who lives in Chicago.

No estimation of loss has been made, although the 1½-story home four miles south of here, just off Portage County Trunk D, was destroyed. Fire Chief Walter Leppen of the Nelsonville Volunteer Fire Department said evidence pointed to the fact that the fire started in the upstairs bedroom where the Lerouxs were sleeping. The house was already engulfed in flames when the fire department arrived about 3:30 a.m.

Both Leroux children were sleeping downstairs when Jeanette was awakened by the barking of her dog. They tried to go upstairs, but were turned back by dense smoke pouring down the stairway.

The bodies were recovered from the ruins late Wednesday morning.

Commissioner Unseats Self by Appointment

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — When James Skirving, chairman of the Bremerton Port Commission, appointed Ralph Erickson to a commission vacancy in February he had no idea the action would put him out of office.

Since then Skirving moved into Erickson's district and both ran for the same commission seat in Tuesday's municipal election.

Erickson won overwhelmingly.

Lawmakers in Tiff Over State Budget

MADISON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats have begun squabbling over the soundness of Wisconsin's budget in light of Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposal for emergency aid to schools.

Democrats contended Wednesday the $14.9 million in school aids would wipe out a surplus and leave the state about $8 million short of its obligations.

Knowles called Monday for shifting certain unobligated state funds to meet the $14.9 million proposal.

Soldiers Not Killers, Chaplain Tells Army

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — A chaplain is conducting an Army-wide crusade through closed circuit television espousing the premise that a soldier does not violate the biblical commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" when he goes into battle.

"A soldier doesn't kill for personal gain," Maj. Eugene E. Allen said in an interview Wednesday. "He doesn't murder."

Mighty Saturn 5 Launches Apollo

Unmanned Moonship In Orbit

Recovery Set After Re-entry This Afternoon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Saturn 5 superrocket scored a resounding success on its maiden test flight today, orbiting a record 140-ton space vehicle and shooting the unmaned Apollo 4 moonship deep into space.

The historic flight gave this nation's man-in-space program a much needed shot in the arm and revived hopes that U.S. astronauts can still land on the moon in this decade.

With a thundering burst of power, the most powerful rocket ever assembled blasted away from its launch pad at 7 a.m., EST, today after a perfect countdown—something that few people believed possible for such a complex machine.

Drill-Like Precision

The three stages of the monster Saturn 5 ignited with drill-like precision during an 11-minute boost phase and shoved the massive payload, including the still-attached third stage, into orbit 115 miles high.

Three hours later, after two orbits of the globe, the hydrogen - powered third stage restarted its engine on ground command and propelled the 64,000-pound Apollo 4 vehicle outward toward a high point of 11,400 miles.

The re-ignition of the third stage gave flight controllers their first anxious moments of the mission. A vent valve refused to respond to commands to close, until the last moment when it finally closed.

The spacecraft separated from the stage and a motor on board fired for 15 seconds to provide final power to reach the planned altitude. Had it burned a few seconds longer, Apollo 4 could have gone to the moon.

Miami City Slickers

Buzzards Bug Building

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's 20th century vultures—something like the swallows of Capistrano but more like the messy starlings of northern city halls—are back in town, once more forsaking the wilderness of the Everglades for gracious urban living.

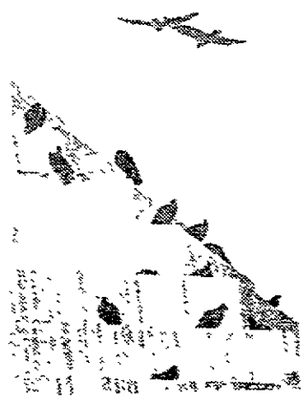
Again they're soaring over bustling, neon-lit downtown Miami as though it were a game preserve.

Good Homestead

The city-slicker vultures—with wing spreads up to six feet—decided 10 or 12 years ago that the Dade County courthouse, despite crowded conditions and the noise that goes with urban apartments, would make a good homestead.

Their less enlightened country cousins continued the tired, old migration to the Everglades.

"It's unique. I don't know of any other city where vultures roost on a building," said Dr. Oscar Owre, ornithologist at the University of Miami. "They usually don't favor civilization."



And the courthouse, one of the tallest buildings in downtown Miami, is the only building favored by the vultures, kin to the soaring condors of Peru and California.

Corny Jokes

"They're like the tourists," said J. Norman Peters, building superintendent, "some are here all year but the big flock comes to Florida in the winter."

Politicians have corny jokes to explain why the vultures chose the courthouse and the biologists have theories.

But nobody knows for sure.

Blacklash, Vietnam Evident in Voting

Both Parties Think They Won

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans both claim comfort in the outcome of Tuesday's off-year elections—balloting which provided answers but also posed new questions about the mood of the electorate one year before the contest for the White House.

Chief among the questions was the 1968 potency of the so-called white backlash vote, defeated—but by tiny margins—with the election of Negro mayors in Cleveland and in Gary, Ind.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said those victories for Negro Democrats, coupled with Boston's rejection of the controversial Louise Day Hicks, "put the so-called white backlash in its place."

That place did not appear an insignificant one—particularly with the approach of statewide elections in which big-city pluralities often are the decisive factor.

Impact of Vietnam

Another item for the political strategists: The potential impact next year of the war in Vietnam. San Francisco voters rejected a proposal urging a cease fire and U.S. withdrawal and President Johnson's Democratic supporters called it evidence of growing support for his policy.

Republicans, on the other hand, raised the war issue in Kentucky and New Jersey and scored big victories.

Republican Sens. Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper said opposition to Johnson's stand contributed to the election of Louie B. Nunn as Kentucky's first GOP governor in two decades. New Jersey Republicans, who won control of the state legislature, said the same thing.

Negro Democrat Carl B. Stokes was elected mayor of Cleveland with 129,829 votes to 127,328 for his white Republican opponent, Seth C. Taft.

Cleveland's voter registration is Democratic by a 10 to 1 margin. Stokes got virtually all the Cleveland Negro vote and about 20 per cent of the white ballots.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican national chairman, boasted of sharp reductions in Democratic majorities in some big cities, noting that the last GOP nominee in Cleveland got only 17 per cent of the vote. But that party-line analysis ignored the racial factor.

Stokes could become a featured Democratic performer, particularly in Negro areas, during the 1968 election campaign. And Cleveland could be crucial in determining which party wins Ohio's electoral votes.

In Gary, Negro Richard G. Hatcher won by 1,389 votes, but his Republican rival, Joseph Radigan, challenged the victory with charges of voting irregularities.

Kevin H. White, Massachusetts Secretary of State, was elected mayor of Boston by 102,551 votes to 90,122 for Mrs. Hicks in another close contest marked by racial dispute.

Disputes Backlash

Mrs. Hicks stirred controversy with her total opposition to the transportation of Negro children to white neighborhood schools for the sake of racial balance. White carried predominantly Negro neighborhoods by a margin of about 3 to 1.

Scanning the outcome, in which a Negro was elected to the Virginia Legislature and another won in Mississippi, Whitney M. Young Jr., director of the National Urban League, said: "While the backlash is there, it is not as powerful as the demagogues would have us believe."

FBI Agents in Gary to Open Voting Irregularities Probe

The Justice Department confirmed that federal agents were probing reports of fraudulent voting in Tuesday's election which gave the Negro Democrat a 1,389-vote victory over white Republican Joseph B. Radigan.

James F. Turner of the department's civil rights division said no court action was planned, pending outcome of the investigation.

Hasn't Conceded

Radigan said irregularities were reported and he would ask attorneys "to assist me in reporting these irregularities to federal and state court." He did not say whether he would seek a recount, and he still has not conceded defeat.

Hatcher, 34, a bachelor lawyer and city councilman, told a news conference Wednesday, "Ours was a multiracial campaign as well as a multiracial victory. Let us once and for all put all doubts to rest. We shall have a multiracial government."

Hatcher termed his election proof "if any was needed that Negroes know how to make full use of the ballot box to make their wishes known." He said the election emphasized that "Negroes across the country can obtain redress through the electoral process."

Charges Violations

Lake County Democratic chairman John G. Krupa, who refused to support the Democratic candidate, charged there were violations of election laws in at least three precincts.

In one, he said, the board refused to seat Republicans. Another board refused to honor challenges of illegal voters and a third ignored the requirement that voters sign the poll books for identification, Krupa said.

He also charged there is evidence of voting by "people we know do not exist."

Krupa, also a member of the county election board, signed the certification of Hatcher's election showing 39,330 votes for Hatcher and 37,941 for Radigan. The turnout was a record for this steel center whose 180,000 population is about 55 per cent Negro.

Confers With Judge

Krupa agreed to certification of Hatcher as the winner after conferring with Judge George N. Beamer of the U.S. District Court in Hammond. Beamer was on a three-judge federal panel which issued an order Monday directing the county election board to take steps to insure a fair election.

Beamer said he advised Krupa to declare Hatcher the winner because "no one has come up with direct evidence of a violation of this court's order that a fair and orderly election be held."

The Gary office of the FBI announced it had checked the polling books for two precincts where Krupa alleged that fraud occurred and said in effect that it found no fraud, but is continuing the investigation in other precincts.

Walkouts Idle Production

Pact With Chrysler Ends Strike Threat

DETROIT (AP) — Much of Chrysler Corp.'s car and truck building operations remained idle today despite a new, three-year contract worked out Wednesday night in a final 34 hour bargaining session.

The United Auto Workers union and Chrysler reached tentative agreement on the new pact which will cover some 95,000 of Chrysler's 103,000 UAW members.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther predicted it would take a couple of days to get Chrysler back to near normal production.

Local Walkouts

Some Chrysler-UAW units jumped the gun Wednesday and staged local walkouts in advance of the UAW designated strike deadline of midnight.

When the contract agreement was reached about four hours before the strike hour, UAW leaders sent word to their members to stay on the job.

A check by Chrysler early today showed a number of its plants closed, either because of worker absenteeism, parts shortages or picket lines.

"We have no idea how many men are out or just how many plants are involved for the situation changes every hour," a Chrysler spokesman said.

As an example of the involved production picture, he cited the Hamtramck, Mich., assembly plant where Dodge Valiants rolled off one line today while alongside them those building the Barracuda and Dodge Charger were idle.

Negotiators were too weary of bargaining on contract provisions covering 8,000 salaried workers the UAW represents at Chrysler, but spokesman said they hoped to have these problems solved by the weekend.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther called it "the best agreement we've ever had"—even bigger than the estimated 6 per cent gains the union got at Ford two weeks ago to end a 46-day strike.

Almost identical to the Ford pact, the Chrysler contract provides wage and fringe benefit gains of more than $1 an hour, with some wage gains alone amounting to 93 cents an hour over the three-year life of the pact.

The union also achieved at Chrysler the only major demand it failed to win at Ford—pay parity for Canadians, who, by mid-1970, will be paid the same amount per job as their American counterparts.

$2.67 Billion Aid Bill OK'd By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has received from Congress a foreign aid authorization bill $730 million less than the amount he sought.

The Senate and House gave final approval to the $2.67 billion aid bill Wednesday, one of the smallest foreign aid authorizations since the program was begun. President Johnson had sought an authorization of $3.2 billion.

The Senate sent a compromise version to the White House by voice vote Wednesday. The House barely rejected a proposal that the measure be returned to a conference to include a provision banning aid to nations trading with North Vietnam.

Welcome Fit for Queen Given to Mrs. Kennedy

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, though slightly indisposed, lunched today with a princess and dined with a king in splendor normally reserved for a visiting queen or a head of state.

Although she cancelled a scheduled visit to Thailand's historic National Museum, Mrs. Kennedy attended a luncheon at the house of Princess Chumbhot of Nagor Svarga, where she was waited upon by Thai servants who could have come from a scene in "The King and I." The house, built on stilts, is a museum piece in itself.

Inside the ancient teak, high-roofed building, Princess Chumbhot showed Mrs. Kennedy her famous collection of Thai art, reputed to be the best private collection in the world.

Floating Market

Friday Mrs. Kennedy and her party are scheduled to tour Bangkok's famous floating market and visit the Temple of the Emerald Buddha. In the evening she will dine with Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman before boarding a flight to Rome half an hour after midnight.

Mrs. Kennedy's host Wednesday night, Thai Premier Thanom Kittikachorn, was told she had an upset stomach and hastily added American-style food as an alternative to the spicy Thai curries.

But Charles Bartlett, the Washington newsman who is a member of Mrs. Kennedy's party, said today she is not ill.

"She's just tired from all the travel. We really worked touring those temples at Angkor," he said.

Best Chance to Beat Crown

Last Convention's Delegates Favor Nixon

By HARRY CHANDLER

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Richard M. Nixon currently is favored for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination by a majority of the Wisconsin delegates for Barry Goldwater at the 1964 GOP National Convention.

An Associated Press poll of the delegates resulted as follows.

Richard M. Nixon 12
Nelson Rockefeller 4
Ronald Reagan 3
George Romney 1

Almost without exception, those who favor Nixon at this time give him the best chance of beating President Lyndon B. Johnson.

But others thought either Rockefeller or Reagan were more likely to get the job done. The vote on the candidate most likely to beat the President was:

Nixon 10
Rockefeller 4
Romney 1

Asked to select the strongest 1968 ticket, the delegates participating split fairly even between a Nixon-Reagan combination (8 votes) and a Rockefeller-Reagan combination (6 votes).

There were other suggestions. Two delegates favored pairing Nixon with either Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois or Gov. Rockefeller of New York. Other choices, each receiving one vote, were: Reagan and Percy or Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., or Mayor John Lindsay of New York; Reagan and Romney, Reagan and Nixon, and Romney and Reagan.

There was surprising lack of support for Michigan's Gov. Romney among those who responded to the poll. In fact, one of them, Morris J. Vollmer of Delafield went so far as to say, "Romney's goose is cooked, isn't it?"

Some of the 30 members of the 1964 Wisconsin delegation who were asked to give their present assessment of the situation abstained from participating.

Among those who declined was Gov. Warren P. Knowles. The two-term Republican governor said it was too early to pick favorites and that issues, not the candidates' personalities, would determine the convention's selections. And he added that the issues have not yet been delineated.

The support for Nixon among the 1964 delegates, most of them party regulars, was not surprising but quite a number of them qualified their opinion by pointing out that things could change drastically between now and convention time.

Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the House Republican Conference and chairman of the platform committee at the 1964 convention, declined to pick a favorite for the nomination at this time.

The Marshfield congressman had this reply when he was asked to name the strongest candidate: "Two months ago (I) would have said George Romney. Today (I) would say Dick Nixon, but four months from now I may say Nelson Rockefeller."

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson said he couldn't make a choice until the candidates have announced. The next two months "will firm this up," Olson said, adding, "I believe any Republican candidate is capable of winning."

There were commendatory comments about California's Gov. Reagan from a number of poll participants.

Mrs. T. W. Norris, Republican vice chairman in the 5th Congressional district (Milwaukee), listed Reagan as the strongest candidate because of his "great voter appeal." But she listed Nixon as "best qualified" with the best chance of defeating President Johnson "if he (Nixon) wins big in the primaries."

Don L. Taylor of Waukesha said Reagan had "the best grasp of issues, comes across very, very well in his public appearances, has the citizen's viewpoint, not the politicians' and brings fresh new ideas to old troublesome problems."

Just how many of those who served as convention delegates in 1964 will go to the 1968 nominating session in a similar capacity is uncertain. Under the state's new primary law, the winner can name his own convention delegates.

Many of those polled said frankly they'd sure like to go again.

Mighty Saturn 5 Launches Apollo

Unmanned Moonship In Orbit

Recovery Set After Re-entry This Afternoon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Saturn 5 superrocket scored a resounding success on its maiden test flight today, orbiting a record 140-ton space vehicle and shooting the unmaned Apollo 4 moonship deep into space.

The historic flight gave this nation's man-in-space program a much needed shot in the arm and revived hopes that U.S. astronauts can still land on the moon in this decade.

With a thundering burst of power, the most powerful rocket ever assembled blasted away from its launch pad at 7 a.m., EST, today after a perfect countdown—something that few people believed possible for such a complex machine.

Drill-Like Precision

The three stages of the monster Saturn 5 ignited with drill-like precision during an 11-minute boost phase and shoved the massive payload, including the still-attached third stage, into orbit 115 miles high.

Three hours later, after two orbits of the globe, the hydrogen - powered third stage restarted its engine on ground command and propelled the 64,000-pound Apollo 4 vehicle outward toward a high point of 11,400 miles.

The re-ignition of the third stage gave flight controllers their first anxious moments of the mission. A vent valve refused to respond to commands to close, until the last moment when it finally closed.

The spacecraft separated from the stage and a motor on board fired for 15 seconds to provide final power to reach the planned altitude. Had it burned a few seconds longer, Apollo 4 could have gone to the moon.

Miami City Slickers

Buzzards Bug Building

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's 20th century vultures—something like the swallows of Capistrano but more like the messy starlings of northern city halls—are back in town, once more forsaking the wilderness of the Everglades for gracious urban living.

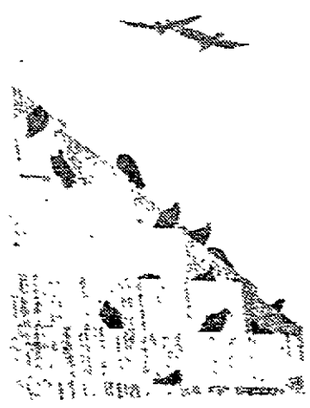
Again they're soaring over bustling, neon-lit downtown Miami as though it were a game preserve.

Good Homestead

The city-slicker vultures—with wing spreads up to six feet—decided 10 or 12 years ago that the Dade County courthouse, despite crowded conditions and the noise that goes with urban apartments, would make a good homestead.

Their less enlightened country cousins continued the tired, old migration to the Everglades.

"It's unique. I don't know of any other city where vultures roost on a building," said Dr. Oscar Owre, ornithologist at the University of Miami. "They usually don't favor civilization."



And the courthouse, one of the tallest buildings in downtown Miami, is the only building favored by the vultures, kin to the soaring condors of Peru and California.

Corny Jokes

"They're like the tourists," said J. Norman Peters, building superintendent, "some are here all year but the big flock comes to Florida in the winter."

Politicians have corny jokes to explain why the vultures chose the courthouse and the biologists have theories.

But nobody knows for sure.

Blacklash, Vietnam Evident in Voting

Both Parties Think They Won

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans both claim comfort in the outcome of Tuesday's off-year elections—balloting which provided answers but also posed new questions about the mood of the electorate one year before the contest for the White House.

Chief among the questions was the 1968 potency of the so-called white backlash vote, defeated—but by tiny margins—with the election of Negro mayors in Cleveland and in Gary, Ind.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said those victories for Negro Democrats, coupled with Boston's rejection of the controversial Louise Day Hicks, "put the so-called white backlash in its place."

That place did not appear an insignificant one—particularly with the approach of statewide elections in which big-city pluralities often are the decisive factor.

Impact of Vietnam

Another item for the political strategists: The potential impact next year of the war in Vietnam. San Francisco voters rejected a proposal urging a cease fire and U.S. withdrawal and President Johnson's Democratic supporters called it evidence of growing support for his policy.

Republicans, on the other hand, raised the war issue in Kentucky and New Jersey and scored big victories.

Republican Sens. Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper said opposition to Johnson's stand contributed to the election of Louie B. Nunn as Kentucky's first GOP governor in two decades. New Jersey Republicans, who won control of the state legislature, said the same thing.

Negro Democrat Carl B. Stokes was elected mayor of Cleveland with 129,829 votes to 127,328 for his white, Republican opponent, Seth C. Taft.

Cleveland's voter registration is Democratic by a 10 to 1 margin. Stokes got virtually all the Cleveland Negro vote and about 20 per cent of the white ballots.

Ray C. Bliss, Republican national chairman, boasted of sharp reductions in Democratic majorities in some big cities, noting that the last GOP nominee in Cleveland got only 17 per cent of the vote. But that party-line analysis ignored the racial factor.

Stokes could become a featured Democratic performer, particularly in Negro areas, during the 1968 election campaign. And Cleveland could be crucial in determining which party wins Ohio's electoral votes.

In Gary, Negro Richard G. Hatcher won by 1,389 votes, but his Republican rival, Joseph Radigan, challenged the victory with charges of voting irregularities.

Kevin H. White, Massachusetts Secretary of State, was elected mayor of Boston by 102,551 votes to 90,122 for Mrs. Hicks in another close contest marked by racial dispute.

Disputes Backlash

Mrs. Hicks stirred controversy with her total opposition to the transportation of Negro children to white neighborhood schools for the sake of racial balance. White carried predominantly Negro neighborhoods by a margin of about 3 to 1.

Scanning the outcome, in which a Negro was elected to the Virginia Legislature and another won in Mississippi, Whitney M. Young Jr., director of the National Urban League, said: "While the backlash is there, it is not as powerful as the demagogues would have us believe."

FBI Agents in Gary to Open Voting Irregularities Probe

The Justice Department confirmed that federal agents were probing reports of fraudulent voting in Tuesday's election which gave the Negro Democrat a 1,389-vote victory over white Republican Joseph B. Radigan.

James F. Turner of the department's civil rights division said no court action was planned, pending outcome of the investigation.

Hasn't Conceded

Radigan said irregularities were reported and he would ask attorneys "to assist me in reporting these irregularities to federal and state court." He did not say whether he would seek a recount, and he still has not conceded defeat.

Hatcher, 34, a bachelor lawyer and city councilman, told a news conference Wednesday, "Ours was a multiracial campaign as well as a multiracial victory. Let us once and for all put all doubts to rest. We shall have a multiracial government."

Hatcher termed his election proof "if any was needed that Negroes know how to make full use of the ballot box to make their wishes known." He said the election emphasized that "Negroes across the country can obtain redress through the electoral process."

Charges Violations

Lake County Democratic chairman John G. Krupa, who refused to support the Democratic candidate, charged there were violations of election laws in at least three precincts.

In one, he said, the board refused to seat Republicans. Another board refused to honor challenges of illegal voters and a third ignored the requirement that voters sign the poll books for identification, Krupa said.

He also charged there is evidence of voting by "people we know do not exist."

Krupa, also a member of the county election board, signed the certification of Hatcher's election showing 39,330 votes for Hatcher and 37,941 for Radigan. The turnout was a record for this steel center whose 180,000 population is about 55 per cent Negro.

Confers With Judge

Krupa agreed to certification of Hatcher as the winner after conferring with Judge George N. Beamer of the U.S. District Court in Hammond. Beamer was on a three-judge federal panel which issued an order Monday directing the county election board to take steps to insure a fair election.

Beamer said he advised Krupa to declare Hatcher the winner because "no one has come up with direct evidence of a violation of this court's order that a fair and orderly election be held."

The Gary office of the FBI announced it had checked the polling books for two precincts where Krupa alleged that fraud occurred and said in effect that it found no fraud, but is continuing the investigation in other precincts.

Outagamie Offers Choice Of Vocational School Sites

Would Give Farm or UW Center

A two-pronged proposal involving the future Vocational Technical and Adult Education District 12 VTE 12 school was unanimously approved Wednesday by the Outagamie County Board.

—Provide 100 acres of county owned land on the old county farm site at W. Wisconsin Avenue and U.S. 41 for the vocational school or.

—Offer the existing University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center for vocational school use with a new center to be constructed in Outagamie County.

The board authorized Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, to appoint a special committee to approach Winnebago County, which jointly operates the Fox Valley UW Center with Outagamie County, on the possibility of deeding the center over to the vocational district.

Esler said he would make the appointments as soon as possible.

Based on Need

The land offer was recommended by the board's Executive Committee with the 100 acre figure based on the need expressed by the VTE 12 District board. The county farm site contains slightly more than 400 acres with about 110 acres on the west side of U.S. 41 and the balance on the east side.

Esler said the plan involving the Fox Valley Center was discussed with University of

New London Expects $2.62 Increase in City Tax Rate

$738,639 Operational Cost Expected; School Levy Up $1.87

NEW LONDON — A tax rate of $17.97 per $1,000 assessed valuation is anticipated for a proposed 1968 city operational budget of $738,639.

The tax rate is $2.62 more than the $15.35 rate required to raise a levy of $205,680 to balance the current spending program. The $17.97 rate, applied against an assessed valuation of $13,962,825, will cause a total levy of $251,267. The assessed value for the current budget was $13,407,200.

Besides the $2.62 increase is a $1.87 boost for school purposes. The schoo district levy rose from $395,093 last year to $438,332 for the 1967-68 school year. In 1966-67 city residents paid $29.49 compared with $31.35 this year. The 1968 rate for school purposes is still $2.04 under 1966.

Until Waupaca and Outagamie counties' levies are received, the total increase in local taxes cannot be determined. All city property owners pay the same tax rate on school and city needs, but the county and state rates differ depending in which county the taxpayer resides. An overall difference results in the real and personal property tax paid by residents living in the two counties.

$5,000 Below

The proposed budget is $5,000 under the current $743,607 budget but a decrease in surplus funds and money from incomplete projects has caused a tax boost.

Total revenues anticipated at $487,372, about $50,555 less than this year. The major difference in revenue results in a carryover of only $27,166 from incompleted projects compared with $87,900 this year.

Major income items are general revenues (income, utility and miscellaneous taxes), $170,276, an increase of $1,800; permits $385; fines and forfeitures, $6,000, down $4000; gifts and grants $63,195, a $2,500 increase; special assessment income $25,500 up $1,900; general revenues, $30,270, and departmental earnings, $51,689 up $2,000.

Included in revenue is $100,000 in surplus funds. The surplus money is in addition to funds from incompleted projects.

Major Decrease

A major decrease in expenditures occurred in capital outlay where $131,733 is anticipated for 1968 compared with $239,465 this year.

The Jennings Street storm sewer project, costing $119,000, was the major expenditure this year. The council also cut contracted projects by $15,000 to $10,000 and picked up some of the anticipated expenditures in department-planned programs.

Streets and transportation facilities have $159,160 budgeted for 1968, up $9,000. Protection of persons and property is $120,488, up $4,270.

Other expenditures are general government, $71,952, up $3,400; health and sanitation, $57,155 up $8275; education and recreation $81,455, up $25,000 including $29,779 for vocational school purposes; charity $10,600; indebtedness $30,845, up $13,500 because of bonding for the sewage treatment plant addition; development $1,100, and unclassified, $62,486, up $13,500 because of increased Social Security and insurance costs.

Ordinance Date Depends on Details

Zoning Adopted for Waupaca County

WAUPACA — For the first time, Waupaca County has zoning ordinances. An ordinance which covers all shorelands and flood plains and another applying to other lands in the county, was approved Wednesday by a unanimous vote by the Waupaca County Board of supervisors.

A sanitary ordinance also was adopted. The ordinances will go into effect as soon as administrative details have been worked out.

An important part of the new zoning is the portion covering lot sizes, minimum setback regulations and the location of sewer and water systems on lots.

Follow State

To comply with the new state water law all lots within 300 feet of a river, stream or flood plain, or 1,000 feet from a lake, must be 20,000 square feet. However, these requirements have been reduced to 10,000 feet for individual lots, and building will be permitted on a 10,000 square-foot lot providing sewer and water systems are adaptable to the lot and approval for construction has been received from a board of adjustment which will be created.

Building on lots under 10,000 square feet must be a proven hardship case.

Go to Townships

In cases where buildings are located on non-conforming lots and the structure is destroyed by fire, rebuilding will be permitted on a lot of 10,000 feet square providing all setback, sewage and water regulations are complied with.

Any new subdivisions will require 20,000 square-foot lots.

The ordinance which covers all of the property not classed as shoreline or floodplain now must be adopted by the various town. It was explained that the new water law does not require the zoning of the additional land, but because of the extensive planning and work required to compile an ordinance along with maps for the shoreline and floodplain land, it was decided to incorporate the additional ordinance.

Towns have the right to make the shoreline and zoning ordinance more stringent but must enforce the tighter controls on the local level. Towns cannot make the ordinance more lenient than the county's. Four towns have zoning ordinance's and six have building codes. These towns will be given one year to incorporate the new comprehensive zoning ordinance with their own ordinance or code.

Joe Walker, county agent, who did an extensive amount of work on the new zoning ordinances said several town boards already have indicated they have started work on adopting the new regulations or incorporating them with the present town ordinances.

Control Placement

The ordinances are not building codes, Walker said, but are designed to control where buildings will be located on lots and the number of buildings.

For more than six months, the county planning committee along with other county agencies and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission have been working on the ordinances and have held meetings in all of the towns in addition to three public informational meetings.

Because of the many meetings which were attended by county board members who were familiar with the program before it reached the board floor for action, the entire ordinance was not read to the board before adoption.

Allow Mobile Homes

The ordinance states that junk and salvage yards must be fenced in, and in an area zoned for a salvage yard. Two or more inoperative pieces of equipment shall constitute a salvage yard and come under the jurisdiction of the regulations of the ordinance. Purpose of this is to Kaehr, entertainment and evening program; Don Pederson, Don Hohman and Joe L. Walker, program; Thomas Wolfe, registration, and Duane Gilbertson booths and displays.

A meeting of the farm institute chairmen will be at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Franklin House.

Six board posts are open as the terms of Hanson, Bender, Jungerberg, Alfred Lau, Charles Egli and Arnold Kohl will end.

Clintonville to Pay for Pension for Employes

Wisconsin Retirement Plan Formerly Shared by Workers on Percentage Basis

CLINTONVILLE — The city council Tuesday night accepted a recommendation of the personnel committee that the city as of Jan. 1, 1968, pay the employes' share of the Wisconsin Retirement Plan.

This was recommended in lieu of any other consideration, and will be about 5½ per cent for the police department and 4½ per cent for other employes.

The finance committee recommended to table negotiations on the former Zander property on Main St., now owned by Emil Kuehl, because of the cost. The property was being investigated for possible use as off-street parking.

Petition for Parking

A letter was read from Jim Lockwood of Vanity Faire relative to the lack of parking facilities on N. Main Street for businesses north of Twelfth Street. A petition with over 200 signatures accompanied the letter.

After a discussion, the letter and petition were referred to the board of public works for study and a recommendation, at the next meeting.

The first reading was given of an ordinance covering the annexation of property of the Urban Telephone Corp. Mantin Brothers off Seventh Street and the city swimming pool off E. First Street, all of which is in the Town of Larrabee. Petitions from Urban and Mantin Brothers for annexation were received some time ago.

Bartender licenses were approved for Roger Metzger, Norma M. Hegner, Ferdinance A. Mauel, Adolph Buelow, John Hoffman and Christ Schulz, all of the City of Clintonville.

Clintonville Teen Injured as Car Hits Utility Pole

CLINTONVILLE — Thomas R. Mitchell, 18, 48 S. Main St., is hospitalized at Community Hospital with injuries received in a one-car accident about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Village of Embarrass.

Mitchell received a cut upper lip, a minor cut on the left arm, and complained of back injuries.

According to the Waupaca County police, who investigated, Mitchell said he must have fallen asleep and as he made the right turn on State 22, heading south, his car struck the utility pole. Damages to his 1957 model car were estimated at $700.

Iowa Detains Chilton Man on Armed Assault

Raymond Hephner Arrested in Attempt To Hold Up Farmers

CHILTON — Raymond Hephner, 41, route 4, Chilton, who had been awaiting sentencing on a 1965 robbery of the State Bank of Withee, was charged today with armed and aggravated assault by Sigourney, Iowa, authorities, after he allegedly pulled a gun on two bachelor farmers near here.

Hephner is being held in an Iowa jail.

The Chilton man was found guilty of one count of bank robbery and two counts of abduction by a Federal Court jury Oct. 21. The charges stemmed from a holdup of the State Bank of Withee in March of 1965 and abduction of a bank cashier and auto salesman from Thorp.

Hephner was free on $10,000 bond during a pre-sentence investigation.

Finance Unit Asks Defeat Of School Aid

MADISON (AP)—The legislature's Joint Finance Committee voted 8-6 Tuesday to recommend defeat of Gov. Warren P. Knowles' $14.9 million emergency aid-to-education program.

A spokesman for the Republican governor said the negative vote by the committee "indicates Milwaukee Democrats better generate support" for the proposal if they want Milwaukee to receive additional school funds.

The governor's plan calls for shifting unneeded funds to schools aid.

About $7.8 million of the total would be pumped into Milwaukee schools whose teachers have been begging for increased aid to fight conditions in the city's predominantly Negro Inner Core.

Corn, America's great food gift to the world, goes by many names. The Dutch, Hungarians and French sometimes call corn "Turkish wheat." The Turks call it "Egyptian corn" and Egyptians say "Syrian corn."

Board Sanctions Quest for Federal Aid to Airport Projects

Authorization for the airport committee to apply for federal aid for future construction projects at the Outagamie County Airport was approved Wednesday afternoon by the county board by the narrow margin of 22-17.

The aid application would be for the projects which had been included in the $1,360,000 bond issue which was defeated Tuesday, plus a proposed firehouse to house the airport's fire truck.

Add Firehouse

Supv. John Dietz, Appleton, a member of the airport committee, said it would be up to the board later to decide whether to accept the aid and go ahead with the projects.

The firehouse was included after the committee was informed Wednesday by Air Wisconsin it could no longer keep the fire truck in their hangar. Airline officials said because of the size of the truck, there was too much danger of one of their planes hitting the vehicle while be wheeled in or out of the hangar.

Supv. Robert Weyerberg Kimberly, also a member of the airport committee, said he believed the responsibility of housing the truck was included in the county's contract with Maxair Service and said the truck should be moved to the Maxair hangar.

Site Change Bill Leaves Committee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, won his fight today to free from committee the Rogers bill changing the campus site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

On a 20-12 vote, the Senate agreed to let Lorge remove the bill from its education committee over the objections of Chairman Holger Rasmussen, R-Spooner, and place the bill on the calendar for probable consideration next week.

Chances for passage of the controversial measure are regarded as slight and several members voting with Lorge today said they intend to oppose him on the final vote. They said they felt backers of the bill should be allowed to carry their fight to the floor.

The bill would change the location of the planned UW-GB branch campus from the northeast Shorewood site to the Western Larsen Farm site.

It was initiated by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, and has strong backing from Outagamie County forces because of alleged traffic problems in the Green Bay area which would slow commuting students from the Fox Cities area.

Today's vote broke a deadlock which developed Tuesday morning over Lorge's attempt to spring the measure from the education committee.

Democrats had warned that if Lorge were allowed to bring the bill from committee they would want [illegible] spending [illegible] by Rasmussen.

The [illegible] would be opened and [illegible] progress stalled in partisan battles, they warned Sen. Majority Leader [illegible] Leonard, R-Baysi[illegible].

But they emerged from a closed-door caucus and gave Lorge five of their 12 votes after Rogers spoke to them today in the closed-door meeting.

Leonard had attempted to win a compromise with Lorge and the Democrats by allowing the Democrats to withdraw one of their bills from the education committee in return for [illegible] of the Rasmussen measure.

But Lorge pushed the matter to a vote over Leonard's objections and won the [illegible] Leonard voted with Lorge on the procedure question.

Lorge backed off from a promised attempt Tuesday afternoon while Leonard attempted to work out a compromise with Democrats. But Lorge pushed the matter again today when it was apparent no compromise had been reached.

At least five of the pro-Lorge votes today are expected to turn against him on the final measure, leading to expectations that the bill will fail.

Extent of 1968 Road Program Is Questioned

Schreiter Says He Is Looking for Way to Cut Tax Levy

The 1968 proposed Outagamie County highway program was questioned at Wednesday afternoon's county board session by Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, who indicated he was seeking a way to cut next year's tax levy.

Schreiter said that according to construction timetables the highway department had scheduled "12½ months of work" for next year on the three major projects — the east and west College Avenue extensions and County Trunk M.

He asked County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson where he Brownson could suggest the highway budget be reduced. Brownson replied that if anything was cut it should be a project which has not been started, indicating the East College Avenue expressway for which $450,000 has been budgeted.

Defend Program

Defense for the highway department budget came from Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, who indicated he would rather see the projects started and not completed in one year than not started at all.

Kloes then questioned the Highway Committee as to what had happened to the plans for the highway department doing town road work under contract. He said the committee was to have prepared a contract last year but it had not been brought in. Brownson agreed he would rather work on a contract basis rather than just a billing system.

In his annual report to the board, Brownson outlined work undertaken and completed by his department during 1967.

United Fund Raises $18,885 For 9 Clintonville Agencies

CLINTONVILLE — The United Fund drive conducted in Clintonville and vicinity for the first time this year exceeded its $15,000 quota by nearly $4,000. A total of $18,885 was raised in cash and pledges. Only two envelopes in the house-to-house campaign remain out at this time.

He explained, however, that the reserve would not continue to grow, but would be distributed proportionately each year. He pointed out that this procedure had met with success in New London and Waupaca.

The United Fund was organized for the residents of Clintonville, Embarrass, and the towns of Bear Creek, Larrabee and Matteson.

County Board Adopts Zoning For Waupaca

eliminate people from having old junker cars around yards, Walker said.

A section outlining the creation of mobile home courts is also in the ordinance. Mobile homes may be used on single lots providing they comply with all of the single family residence regulations including sewer and water systems, and meet all setback requirements.

In preparing the ordinances, all legal requirements have been fulfilled, R. E. Johnson, district attorney, told board members. Johnson said the county now has an excellent start in zoning and perhaps one of the best zoning ordinances in the State of Wisconsin. Other counties already have requested copies of the Waupaca Ordinance and it may become a model used in various parts of the state, he said.

"Members of the county committee went to great length in their efforts to come up with a fair ordinance and many times had to compromise on some of the issues in an effort to eliminate any portion that could in any way be unreasonable or unfair," Johnson said.

Walker explained that no part of the ordinance is more strict that the minimum state requirements.

Urge Early Law

It was stressed by Johnson that the board adopt the ordinance as soon as possible to prevent landowners from starting projects which would be in violation of the ordinance. Once a project is started, it cannot be stopped when the ordinance is adopted. The building, or project, would be classed as a nonconforming use.

The sanitary ordinance runs along the same lines as those required by the state, a state plumbing inspector explained. For the past year it has been a requirement that a permit is needed to install a septic tank and sewage system. Permits for a septic tank may be obtained from the county clerk, he explained. Before one will be issued the property owner must furnish results of a percolation test made of the soil on the land where the tank will be located.

One of the next steps in the zoning program will be a meeting of the county zoning committee and executive committee, to discuss administration of the regulations and the allocating of funds to hire an administrator. Ray Hemingson, a member of the zoning committee, said it is possible that individual townships or groups of townships could have deputy administrators who would work directly under the head administrator, but the cost of the deputy administrators would fall back on the townships.

Board Chairman Carl E. Strum said after the board session that the joint planning committee - executive meeting probably would be held within the next 30 days.

4 COG Members Protest

$75,000 Voted for Area Sanitary Study

With four member communities voting no, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) approved a $75,000 appropriation Wednesday to cover one-third of the cost of a study of water, sewer and disposal needs in the area served by the council.

Strong opposition to the move came from Roland Kampo, chairman of the Town of Menasha, and Thomas Thorson, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute. Others voting no on the proposal were the village of Combined Locks and the Town of Buchanan. The Town of Harrison was not represented at the meeting.

Appleton, Kaukauna, Menasha, Neenah, Kimberly, Little Chute, and the Town of Neenah voted in favor of the study. The 9-4 vote now will require that all COG members pay their assessments, whether they voted in favor of the study or not.

Also voting for the study were the COG's at large citizen members, Ralph E. Risley and Harold Miller, a member of the Grand Chute plan commission.

"Economical and Feasible"

Kampo told council members he would not vote for the measure unless it included provisions saying the plan would not be carried out unless it were "economical and feasible," and unless each community agreed to render sanitary service to outlying communities i the plan so requires.

"What if a community says it won't service an outlying community unless it is annexed," Kampo said. "Or what if another community says 'we're servicing enough areas now, and we don't want anymore. I want to know the answers to these questions before I vote.

"If we go ahead with the survey, we should have an understanding that we will service the outlying communities if the plan calls for it," Kampo said.

Kampo asked Mayor Carl Loehning of Neenah and Mayor Gilbert Anderson of Kaukauna if they would service Darboy and the Town of Neenah, respectively, if the plan showed that they should.

"I doubt it," Anderson said.

Loehning said, "No I don't think so."

Kampo said he would go to the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Chicago or to Washington, if necessary, to stop money for the study from being granted if it appeared the plan would be ignored after it was completed

Must Have Survey

After January, HUD will require that all urban areas be included in a regional survey before it will approve grants for municipal sewer and water projects. This has been one of the main incentives to adopt the COG survey.

Kampo said he feared that if the government pays two-thirds of the cost of the study now, it will require the plan be followed when completed or else not approve grants to individual communities.

Franchett said the survey will come up with several alternatives and that the council members themselves will decide which plan they want to follow.

"They (HUD) establish the depth and criteria of the study," Franchett said, "but they won't require you to adopt a particular system that you do not approve."

Kampo said after the meeting he will send a letter to HUD saying at least two communities have indicated they won't render sanitary service to outlying communities if the final plan calls for it.

Total Assessments

The total assessment for the four communities voting "no" to the survey is $14,025. Of this total, the Town of Menasha accounts for $6,900. The Town of Buchanan will pay $825, the Village of Combined Locks will pay $1,500, and the Town of Grand Chute will contribute Assessments for other communities are: Appleton, $26,700; Kaukauna, $5,925; Menasha, $8,025; Neenah, $12,300; Kimberly, $3,600; Little Chute, $1,575; Town of Harrison, $900; and Town of Neenah, $1,950.

Oshkosh has not been included in the study area and will not be assessed unless both the city and a majority of COG members approve.

Delay Salary Hikes

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, council members approved a recommendation that the policy committee look into a request by the Town of Greenville to become a COG member. The town has been known to favor joining for several months.

Council members also voted to delay action on raising the salaries of Assistant Director Arno Haering and Associate Planner Greg Kettelson a total of $500.

The recommendation by the finance committee that the salaries be raised was in part the result of higher salaries being paid throughout the state for regional planners. The increases, a $200 raise to $10,200 for Haering, and a $300 raise for Kettelson to $8,100, would make their salaries comparable to those elsewhere, it was pointed out.

Thorson asked action on the proposal be delayed until the next meeting so that members could examine the change.

"I think items like these should be presented to members in advance so we have time to consider them," he said.

Money for the salary increases would be transferred from the council's contracted services fund. There whould be no change in the budget.

Other Actions

In other business, the council:

—Approved by — laws for the group, which included several minor changes from those used by the COG's predecessor, the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission.

—Heard a report on the COG's newsletter now being prepared by the public information and education committee. The letter had previously been prepared by staff members, but an increased work load has necessitated the committee prepare the publication named "Interaction."

—Gave final approval of the soil survey study completed earlier this year.

Wisconsin President Fred Harrington and the director of the university center system. He said both indicated they preferred a working arrangement with a single county rather than the present two-county operation.

Esler added they had suggested a new school in the Apple Creek area and had told the county delegation there was a good chance of the county having a four-year school within 15 years. Esler said Assemblyman David O. Martin, R-Neenah, also supported the plan.

Save Money

"Either way," Esler said, "the taxpayers will save money because the district will have land donated."

Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, a member of the Fox Valley Center trustees, urged talks as soon as possible with Winnebago County to avoid development of animosities between the two counties on the proposal.

He said there now is some objections to location of the vocational school in the Fox Valley Center area because there is no bridge across Little Lake Butte des Morts and the question has arisen as to whether Outagamie County would contribute toward the cost of a bridge.

Urge Speed

DeLaHunt also urged speed in reaching a decision because of the timetable set up for the new vocational school. He said if the Fox Valley Center proposal was accepted, a new center would have to be built by 1970 to permit the vocational district to move in by that time.

The resolution offering the 100 acres of land at the county farm provides that if the vocational district does not use the land for vocational school purposes within "a reasonable time" the land will revert back to the county.

Support for the county farm proposal was given by the Seymour Jaycees who sent a letter to the county board supporting the offer.

Controversy Develops

Board to Visit Mosquito Hill

Funds for acquisition of Mosquito Hill for a county park remained out of the 1968 budget and up in the air as Outagamie County Board members decided Wednesday they wanted to personally look at a piece of property on top of the hill upon which controversy has settled.

Supervisors will meet at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, at their own expense, to inspect 39 acres of land and a house owned by Raymond Kamps who, through his attorney, told the county board he would not sell his property under any circumstances at any price.

A decision on whether to proceed with the project will be made in December upon passage, by a 32-10 vote, of a motion of Supv. Clarence Miller, Appleton, to lay the question over for a month.

Dispute on House

Part of the dispute centers around the circumstances under which Kamps built the house, which his attorney said was worth $75,000, and his plans for the land he owns.

Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Northeasetrn Regional Planning Commission, appearing before the board in support of the purchase, said Kamps built the house with the knowledge that the land was being considered for a park, and was now subdividing the property.

Kamps' attorney denied Bubolz's statements, saying he was telling "half-truths" and was "slandering his client." He said the land on the hill was not being platted but admitted some lots had been sold along the road at the bottom of the hill.

Sought Options

The county board had appropriated $6,000 last summer for its parks and recreation committee to seek options on the Mosquito Hill property, part of which is low lands along the Wolf River. The highest point in the area is owned by Kamps.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, chairman of the committee, said it has secured options on three parcels totaling 108 acres and that six parcels remain, including Kamps

He said the committee hoped to work out an arrangement in which Kamps could keep his house and some of his land.

Another member of the committee, Supv. G Allen Bubolz, Appleton, said the project has been given top priority by the state Outdoor Recreation Advisory Council with a promise of matching funds of up to $35,000 under the Land and Water Conservation act (LAWCON) toward the purchase of the site.

Kamps' attorney told the board that his client's house had considerable glass wall area and was conducive only to an area with no people around. "The house and land positively are not for sale," he said. He added they also would not grant any easements across the property for anything.

Intends to Stay

"He intends to stay on the hill in the same environment as he is in now. He doesn't want to look at a public backyard," the attorney said.

He said they were not obstructionists and were not against parks but were against anything that would be detrimental to Kamps.

The attorney indicated the only way the county would get the land was through condemnation. "I don't know what your hurry is," he said to the board. "the land is not going anywhere."

DeBruin and Allen Bubolz said they did not intend to condemn anyone's land and their request for $75,000 from the board would only provide the money, not the authority for the Parks Committee to purchase land. Bubolz said the board would still have to individually approve each parce

Delaying Action

Gordon Bubolz said he would not make a plea for the purchase of the site if he did not believe the land would be lost to the county by delaying action. He emphasized that Outagamie County was an urban county with 87 per cent of its residents living in urban areas

"Except for Robert Plamann (who donated Plamann Park) we have not had any foresight in our park program," Bubolz said.

He added the recommendation to preserve the Mosquito Hill area was first made three years ago and that Kamps admitted knowing of the proposals when he b..." the house

Bubolz contended the county was obligated to provide recreational facilities for its residents when "citizens are not only willing to demand the services but also to share their resources," referring to a citizen group guarantee of a minimum of $25,000 toward park development in the county.

Resolution Presented

He presented a resolution to the board from the Outagamie County Citizens Park and Recreation Conference, with 26 signers, urging the appropriation of $75,000 for the Mosquito Hill project.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, questioned the value of the resolution, saying anyone could get that number of signatures for anything. Bubolz replied it was not his object to get a long list of names. "If I wanted to," he said, "I could have a list of a thousand names."

Babbitt, who is a member of the Finance Committee, said the committee was no "park haters" in taking the funds from the budget. He said this was done because there were too many "ifs" involved. He suggested that when the "ifs" are resolved, funds for the project could be taken from the contingency fund.

3 Children See Father Slay Mother

Trucker Then Takes Own Life In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Three of Joel V. Turnbow's 14 children saw him kill their mother and then end his own life with a shot in the head Wednesday.

It was the grim climax to one of many quarrels between the unemployed trucker, 45, and his ex-wife Marie, 42, who had divorced him March 3.

Nine of their children still lived with the mother, and her death raised a question of where they will find a home. Before the day was over, however, there was talk of keeping them together.

Nita Turnbow, 20, and two sisters still too young for school—Tina, 5, and Cindy, 4—were among the shocked witnesses to the shootings.

Shot 3 Times

They saw Mrs. Turnbow run outside the East Fort Worth home during an argument which developed an hour after the trucker arrived in the forenoon.

Turnbow caught his former wife in a neighbor's yard, threw her to the ground and shot her three times with a .22-caliber pistol. Nita told Detective W.T. Eary. Then Turnbow fired a bullet into his brain.

A medical examiner entered a verdict of murder and suicide.

Nita said her mother tried to telephone for police but was unable to make the call because the lines had been cut.

"He always told mother, 'I'll kill you and myself if you get a divorce,'" related Dora Morgan, one of the couple's older daughters.

"It had to come to this. There wasn't anything that could be done. He came in the house one time and shot a hole in the wall. He ran mother off the road one time, and was always coming over here and tearing up things.

"There wasn't a day go by that he didn't threaten her or do something to bother her."

At First He Felt "a little skittish" about handling the 23-inch stainless steel spheroid he found while hunting wolves in Faulkner County, Ark., but now farmer Richard Cummings is just puzzled. The nylon string he's holding apparently is attached to a clamp or spring inside the object which weighs about seven pounds and is some six feet in circumference. No one has been able to tell him what it is, including the Air Force, the U.S. Weather Bureau and the Arkansas Civil Defense Agency. (AP Wirephoto)

Champ Is Chump Behind the Wheel

FISHERS ISLAND, N.Y. (AP) — A dog named Champ drove his master's station wagon into the Fishers Island Coast Guard station Monday. But he proved to be a bit of a chump as a driver, barely missing one flagpole, bashing into another and narrowly avoiding the water.

The two-year-old springer spaniel is owned by John Gada of Fishers Island, who left the dog in the car with the motor running while he waited for a ferry.

Somehow the dog engaged the automatic transmission and the car backed slowly into the station. Champ emerged unscathed.

Laborites Rebelling Against Wilson's Austerity Policies

LONDON (AP) — A major revolt erupted inside Britain's ruling Labor Party today against Prime Minister Harold Wilson's austerity policies, and a public opinion poll showed Wilson's popularity with the voters is dropping sharply.

More than 70 Laborite legislators signed a motion calling for an immediate change in the government's program to keep unemployment up this winter, partly to reduce imports and partly to encourage workers to shift to export industries.

Wilson failed in the House of Commons lobbies Wednesday night to head off an open revolt. Political sources said he offered the rebels a debate on employment policy in a closed party caucus but they rejected this attempt to take the heat out of the issue and went ahead with their censure motion.

Popularity Falling

A national opinion poll by the pro-Conservative Daily Mail showed that 49 per cent of those questioned were satisfied with Wilson, compared with 54 per cent in the Mail's last poll Oct. 19. Opposition leader Edward Heath's rating climbed from 36 to 47 per cent. The poll showed that in a general election now, 45.6 per cent would vote Conservative and 37.6 per cent Labor. Labor had a 1 9 per cent lead three weeks ago. The Laborite rebels know that if they forced new elections, most of them would lose their seats. Their motion is not likely to come to a Commons vote that could bring down Wilson's government.

But it is especially embarrassing to Wilson because the rebels are not confined to the party's militant left wing. They include right-wing members from the trade unions and veteran party workhorses.

Wilson pledged Oct. 4 that the party's policy remains full employment. But trouble began when Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the state-owned Bank of England, spoke in Argentina the next day and argued that Britain needed a larger, permanent pool of unemployed to provide workers for new industries and developing areas.

In Commons on Tuesday, Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan said O'Brien's view represents government policy. Many Laborites said they had been tricked.

The censure motion asks the House to say it "deplores and repudiates the approval given by the chancellor of the Exchequer to the governor of the Bank of England's advocacy of a permanent pool of unemployment, and demands a swift return to the Labor Party's election pledge of full employment."

Two Housing Marches Staged on 73rd Night

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Supporters of open housing legislation staged two downtown marches Wednesday as Milwaukee marked its 73rd consecutive day of demonstrations.

About a dozen commandos of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People walked briefly through the first floor of the Boston Store in the afternoon while one of the group beat a bongo drum.

In the evening about 75 Council members and others paraded in the downtown retail section just after stores had closed.

No incidents were reported

Bank of England Again Increases Interest Rate

LONDON (AP — The Bank of England raised its interest rate a further half per cent today to 6½ per cent.

A Bank of England statement said.

"Since the bank rate was raised to 6 per cent on Oct 19, there have developed further pressures towards higher short term interest rates in other international markets.

"These pressures have had their effect on sterling on the exchange markets. A further rise in the bank rate to 6½ per cent has therefore become necessary."

The increase was not unexpected. Britain's trade figures for October—to be announced next Tuesday—are likely to be disappointing because of the London and Liverpool dock strikes.

Financial experts said the government was anxious to avoid giving an impression of panic by increasing the interest rate soon after issuing disappointing trade figures.

It was the second time within a month that Britain's prime interest rate had been raised. On Oct. 19, the rate was increased from 5½ to 5¾ per cent.

The Bank of England rate governs all the country's interest rates.

Earlier in the year the rate had been cut on three occasions by one-half per cent each time, bringing it down from the so-called crisis level of 7 per cent.

Poetic Warning Given Peepers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP — Pilots who buzz a nudist colony near Albuquerque were given a poetic warning.

Pete Ettinger of Coronado Airport received the following verse Tuesday from the Yucca Naturist Club of Albuquerque

Hello up there, you in the sky;
We like to see you zoom close by,
But please, if you would be our friend,
Don't come to an unfortunate end.
You know the power lines are here,
So don't! please don't! come down so near;
We know the nudes are lovely to see,
So why not join us? A nudist be!

Both Positions Hardening

Mideast Deadlock Back in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council is making a new attempt to break the Middle East deadlock despite signs of hardening positions by both Israel and Egypt.

Egypt requested a meeting of the 15-nation council this afternoon to deal with Israel's refusal to withdraw from territory it seized during the June war. A government spokesman told a news conference in Cairo there could be no move toward a settlement until Jewish forces pull back.

In New York, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told newsmen Egypt's demand that Israel withdraw without a peace treaty defining frontiers "is so irrational that it is amazing to find it proposed."

The Israeli foreign minister also found fault with a Japanese working paper circulating among council members. He said that, like an Indian resolution, it prejudices Israel's position on withdrawal.

Eban concentrated his fire on the proposal submitted by India, Mali and Nigeria. He charged that it had been drawn up "in close consultation at every point" with Egypt, but without consultation with Israel.

Eban stressed that there must be no return to armistice boundary lines that existed before the June war. He said they must be "superseded by an agreed and secure permanent frontier."

The U.S. draft seeks "withdrawal of armed forces from occupied territory" but does not spell out which armed forces nor specify that all seized Arab land should be evacuated.

Eban insisted anew that direct talks with the Arabs was the only road to peace.

"It is for the sovereign governments of the area and not anyone else to determine by negotiation the situation to succeed the cease-fire," he declared.

Mighty Saturn Shoots Apollo Far in Space

but that was not planned for today's flight because of the need to test the heat shield on reentry.

After reaching the 11,400-mile altitude, the spacecraft was to plunge back through the atmosphere at nearly 25,000 miles an hour—the speed at which astronauts will return from the moon. The fiery dive would determine how well the heat shield survivesre-entry temperatures expected to reach 4,500 degress

Drop to Pacific

Apollo 4 was to parachute to a landing in a rough Pacific Ocean, 622 miles northwest of Hawaii, at 3:41 p.m.

Of today's rocket, only the Apollo spacecraft was to come home to earth. The mammoth first stage fell apart plunging into the Atlantic, although a chunk eight feet long was sighted in the sea. The second and third stages and the Apollo service module were consigned to destruction in fiery re-entries.

"It's been a flight almost incredibly free of any problems," commented a spokesman at NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., where the mission was being controlled.

An hour after the world's most powerful rocket blazed away from Cape Kennedy on its maiden test flight, the Apollo program manager, Air Force Maj. Gen. Samuel Phillips told newsmen:

'Positive Course'

"This mission will do a lot to get the whole Apollo team moving again on a positive course. It will do a lot for the progress in coming months of the Apollo program.

"Yesterday," Phillips said, "I would have said that I think we have a reasonably good chance of accomplishing a manned lunar landing by the end of 1969. Today, I think that reasonably good chance is maybe a notch above reasonably good."

New Police Chief Named by Stokes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Mayor-elect Carl B. Stokes picked Police Inspector Michael J. Blackwell Wednesday night to be his chief of police.

Stokes had said during his campaign that if elected he would replace Chief Richard Wagner.

Stokes, Cleveland's first Negro mayor, said that he and Blackwell agreed with the "basic recommendations" of a controversial Little Hoover Commission reported calling for more uniformed policemen on the streets and increased community relations efforts by the department.

Patrol Leader

The 64-year-old Blackwell has the reputation of being a tough, racket-busting policeman. For the past 10 years he has been in charge of the basic patrol.

Stokes called him "the man with the image, record and performance to meet the needs of fighting crime in the streets of Cleveland."

Wagner, 54, who was appointed to the job by outgoing mayor Ralph S. Locher four years ago, had said before Tuesday's election that he would resign, whoever won.

Blackwell was Stokes' third appointment. Shortly after he was announced as winner of the election he named attorney Joseph F. McManamon, a friend and former police sergeant, as safety director. James S Carnes, a former assistant police prosecutor, was picked by Stokes as chief police prosecutor. All three appointees are white

Meanwhile, Republican Seth Taft has indicated that even though he congratulated Stokes Wednesday morning on his election he may still ask for a recount.

A statement from Taft headquarters Wednesday night said the GOP candidate would wait to see the official results of Tuesday's election before deciding whether to ask for a recount.

Brother of Laird Killed in Crash

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three men, including the brother of Rep. Melvin Laird of Marshfield, were killed in separate traffic accidents Wednesday and today.

Richard Laird, 52, owner of a Madison lumber firm, died Wednesday in the flaming wreckage of his truck at an overpass when the boom of a log-skidding machine being carried on the truck hit the roof of the underpass. Authorities said the truck cab was thrown up, struck the underpass and burst into flames, which prevented rescuers from reaching Laird.

Percy J. Halbach, 57, of Fond du Lac died when his car collided with a Chicago North Western Road train at a crossing on County Trunk W just south of the city. He was alone in the car.

James A. Wamboldt, 22, of Kenosha, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Catherine's Hospital shortly after 1:30 a.m. today. Authorities said his car failed to make a turn on County Trunk E in Somers township and struck a tree at a dead end. Wamboldt was tossed from the car into another tree.

Hard to Make Predictions

Political Mood Always Seems to be Changing

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winter is the American monsoon. In Vietnam the rainy monsoon season slows the fighting. In America winter keeps politicians indoors and demonstrators off the streets.

The 1968 candidates and the issues themselves won't start to heat up until the warm weather is back. Even that may not be late enough for the issues. They may not become clearly fixed until late summer or the November elections.

This is why the uncertainties about what lies ahead make next year's campaigns and elections unusually fascinating because, if there is anything which now can be called the American mood, it can undergo startling changes.

Little Sense

Thus it makes little sense to begin predictions now—based on last Tuesday's elections—about the issues, the candidates, and their chances in the 1968 presidential and congressional elections.

On Tuesday, Negroes were elected mayors of Cleveland and Gary, Ind., and the Republicans made some scattered gains. That's hardly enough for prophecies about next year.

This country has had a long history of prejudices—against the Irish, Catholics, Jews and Negroes—most of which have greatly diminished or disappeared except for anti-Negro feelings.

There, as the elections in Cleveland and Gary showed, the prejudice is only beginning to diminish. But it hasn't diminished so much it can't surge back in full force if racial troubles, particularly violence against whites, get under way on a large scale.

More Riots Due

For example: The big Negro riots of the past few years have occurred in warm weather. Almost certainly there will be more next year. They still have not been analyzed enough to understand them or remedied enough to prevent them.

So far they have not been aimed directly at whites. Negroes have concentrated their riots against conditions and property in their own areas. If next year they turn against whites, the elections will be affected.

Politically important in 1968, if the riots occur again, will be what President Johnson and the Democrats and Republicans in Congress have done in the meantime to prevent them or control them.

Equally important, perhaps far more so, will be the condition of the Vietnam war before the elections. The present heavy decline in Johnson's popularity, as the polls show, can be linked to the war's stalemated condition.

GOP Ammunition

If by electioneering time next fall there is still no progress in Vietnam, which will mean more thousands of Americans killed there by then, Republicans will use it as ammunition against Johnson, with increased public support for them. There is the opposite possibility. Master politician Johnson has certainly thought of all the angles.

An American victory in the war by balloting time, or even a halt to the fighting, would be the best thing that could happen to Johnson who then will get much of the thanks as now he gets much of the blame.

Another factor to consider before election time is the state of the economy. For instance: Unemployment went up in September and October, reaching its highest point in two years last month.

If that continues next year it will be a minor or major disaster for Johnson and his Democrats, depending on the size of the rise in unemployment. And bad inflation, if it comes, will be an election factor, too.

Yet, the answers to none of these problems, which may be the deciding points in the 1968 elections, are visible now.

2 Injured In Crashes

Single Car Mishaps In Outagamie Send Drivers to Hospital

Single car accidents on Outagamie County roads Wednesday night and early today resulted in injuries to two motorists.

Darrell J. Voeks, 19, route 3, Appleton, suffered face lacerations when his car left County Trunk S near State 55 about 4:30 a.m. today. He was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by private car.

County police said Voeks was westbound on S when his car left the road, crossed the Gerald Van Camp driveway and struck a culvert. The front of his car was extensively damaged.

Joseph T. Van Laarhoven, 41, 201 Darboy Road, Kimberly, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Kaukauna ambulance after his car went into a ditch along U.S. 41, four miles northeast of Kaukauna, about 7:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said Van Laarhoven was westbound when the car left the road and slid broadside into a ditch, striking two highway markers. The Kimberly man said he could recall nothing about the accident.

Police said he suffered back and chest injuries and bruises.

Assembly Adopts Land Purchase Moratorium

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Assembly Wednesday overwhelmingly endorsed a resolution calling for a moratorium on land purchases by the Outdoor Recreation Act Program.

The resolution, adopted 67-29, now goes to the Senate.

The agency, known as ORAP, has been criticized by some legislators for not developing enough of the acreage it has acquired in recent years for recreation purposes.

Little Chute Will Purchase New Loader

$8,500 Will be Offered for Wyngaard Property

LITTLE CHUTE — Village board members Tuesday night voted to purchase a frontend loader for mounting on a village truck from the Lo-dal Co., Kingsford, Mich., at a cost of $4,200.

The street committee was authorized to handle the purchase with the stipulation that payment will not be made until 1968.

In other business, Edward Spierings, president, and Gerald Locy, clerk, were instructed to make an offer to purchase the Henry Wyngaard property at McKinley and Madison Streets.

Straighten Street

The village is interested in acquiring the property to permit straightening of McKinley Street which has a sharp jog at the intersection. Officials were authorized to offer $8500 for the property.

Spierings was instructed to write a congratulatory letter to both high schools in the village as a result of the St. John High School football team winning the Fox Valley Catholic Conference title.

A request from Paul Vanden Heuvel, 1009 N. Wilson St., to build a garage to house a truck was referred to the legislative committee. The truck, used to sell merchandise to various food outlets in the valley, is larger than trucks normally kept in a residential area.

Fair Housing

A letter was received from Sister Mary Karen, urging village officials to adopt a fair housing ordinance and to do whatever possible to have a fair housing law enacted for the entire state.

The chief of police, sergeant and municipal justice were authorized to attend a 2-day meeting to be called in December by the Attorney General.

A budget meeting was called for 8 p.m. Thursday, but no action will be taken on a tentative budget until state and county tax figures for the village are known.

Join Army Now and Be Home for Holidays

Men and women may now enlist in the U.S. Army and spend the next 120 days at their homes, M. Sgt. Donald R. Malott of the U.S. Army Recruiting Station located at 117 S. Superior St. said today.

The plan assures enlistees they will be able to spend the Christmas and New Year holidays with their families.

Sergeant Malott said many men who expect to be drafted before Christmas are taking advantage of the 120-day delay option to be at home for the holidays.

The plan allows young men and women to enlist now and be placed on reserve status before they are called up for basic training and active duty assignments, Sergeant Malott added.

Happiness Is Fat Girl Mastering Hula Hoop

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the nice things about having a teen-ager in the home is that you never have to bother about wiping cobwebs or dust off the telephone.

Nothing looks happier than a small fat girl who has finally mastered the difficult art of keeping a hula hoop in motion around her chubby body.

It is time to leave a cocktail party when the guests begin to cluster and talk in authoritative tones about what should be done in Vietnam and which Republican should be nominated for president in 1968.

Bluebirds have become so scarce lately that they should put a few in zoo aviaries so children won't grow up without ever having seen one of the loveliest of nature's feathered creatures.

After 60, a fellow always feels like crying inside when someone sends him one of those "funny" birthday cards. He regards himself as a living landmark and expects respect from others, not cleverness, on his aniversaries.

It makes me sad to see a man who not only wears a toupee but also has an artificial flower pinned in his lapel. You have to give him credit for hope, but you can't escape the conviction he's a bit out of touch with reality.

On the other hand, whenever you see a man walking majestically in front of his wife as she pushes a shopping cart through the supermarket, you get a conviction that the American male still has a future.

People who habitually watch television more than three hours every day eventually get the same fixed expression on their faces as those riding to or from work on the subway.

There is no point in the wife of a professional football fan getting a divorce between now and the middle of next January as her husband wouldn't even notice it had happened.
